AVIATORS OVER SEA, TRYING TO GIRDLE WORLD

Post and Gatty Hop From Harbor Grace, N. F., for Germany.

FAST TIME IS MADE AFTER START IN U. S.

Fliers Hope to Cut Sharply Record Now Held by Graf Zeppelin.

Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, June 23 (A.P.).—The Winnie Mae was winging its way over the Atlantic tonight, bearing Wiley Post and Harold Gatty toward Europe on the second lap of their projected round-the-world flight.

Calculations made for the Associated Press by Post and Gatty before their departure placed them at 8:30 o'clock tonight (E. S. T.) in latitude 53:15 N., and 35:00 west, approximately half way between the outermost lands of the American and European continents.

The sturdy craft took off here for Germany at 4:57, daylight time, this afternoon, 3 hours and 40 minutes after concluding a fast flight from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Harbor Grace.

The fliers had breakfast in New York and luncheon here. They took only sandwiches with them and hoped to have their next real meal in Berlin.

They left Roosevelt Field at 3:56, E. S. T., this morning and made the 1,200-mile hop here in six hours 52 minutes. This was an average of considerably more than the 150 miles an hour they hope to maintain to realize their ambition of smashing the 22-day globe-circling record of the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin. As they left they said they expected to cover the 2,860 miles between here and Berlin in 19 hours 3 minutes.

Schedule Finely Drawn.

Those extra three minutes indicate just how closely the long flight has been planned. Between Harbor Grace and the German capital there are thirteen positions marked on their flying map for compass checks. They also will check their actual time of arrival at those points with the scheduled time of arrival in hours and minutes.

All the flying will be done by Post, a one-eyed veteran, who sits alone in the cramped forward cockpit of the white single-motored monoplane.

In the navigator's compartment Gatty will watch the instruments, operate the radio and keep Post informed of their position and whether or not they are maintaining their schedule. They will communicate by means of messages pulled back and forth on a string.

Gatty planned to send the call letters of the ship, KHRDW, every hour on the hour as an "All's well" signal. The radio set transmits on a 35.5-meter wave and receives on between 500 and 900 meters.

Rival Fliers Delay Hop.

Post and Gatty stayed here just long enough to fuel up for their long flight and eat the last full meal they will have until they reach Berlin. They left behind them Otto Hillig and Holger Hoiriis, who arrived here before them in preparation for an Atlantic crossing, but who decided to delay their take-off until tomorrow.

It was learned from New York that the weather was clear today for the first part of the ocean journey of the Winnie Mae, but over more than two-thirds of the course the sky was overcast with occasional showers. Gatty is an expert at instrument flying, however, and there was little doubt among flying men that he could guide Post through the thickest flying weather.

The scheduled course to Berlin lies along the Great Circle to the northern tip of Ireland, across Scotland and England and over the North Sea to Germany. If the weather is bad, however, when Ireland is reached the fliers will swing southward to the coast of France and then up to Germany.

Named for Woman.

The Winnie Mae is named for a daughter of F. C. Hall, of Chickasha, Okla., a wealthy oil operator. Mrs. Hall, who died in September, 1930, suggested the flight and Hall assumed its financing to carry out her wish.

Post entered Hall's employ several years ago after a period of barnstorming. He learned to fly in 1924, going up solo after one hour and 40 minutes of instruction. His log now shows 3,100 hours of solo flying. He was a participant in the 1929 Ford air tour and later was a Lockheed tester.

Flying the same ship now winging the Atlantic, Post last September won the nonstop derby from Los Angeles to the National Air Races at Chicago.

Post was born in Grand Plain, Tex. He is 32 years old. His parents, William and May Post, now live in Maysville, Okla. He was married in June, 1927, to Miss May Lane, of Sweetwater, Tex.

Gatty Bromley's Associate.

Gatty, trained in the Royal Australian Naval College and in commercial shipping for six years, was with Harold Bromley in an attempted Japan-to-America flight last September. They had been up more than 35 hours and were 1,200 miles at sea when a broken exhaust ring forced them back. Gatty was in bed two months suffering from carbon monoxide gas poisoning.

He is regarded as one of the best navigators in the country and was

'SUICIDE NOTES' OF GIRL FORGED, FAITHFULL SAYS

Letters to Ship Surgeon Given to Grand Jury Probing Death.

EXPERTS TO DECIDE IF WRITING IS HERS

Contain Passages of Love to Dr. Carr; Stepfather Alleges Frame-Up.

Mineola, N. Y., June 23 (A.P.).—Starr Faithfull's two "suicide letters" to Dr. G. Jameson Carr, ship's surgeon of the liner Franconia, were presented to the Nassau County grand jury tonight and then made public.

Stanley E. Faithful, stepfather of the girl whose body was found on the sands of Long Beach June 8, was shown the notes and immediately declared they were forgeries.

"They are not in my daughter's handwriting," he said. "They are a frame-up to prove she committed suicide."

Inspector Harold R. King, who has been directing the investigation, said the writing "looks like that in the diary Starr left."

Will Call Handwriting Experts.

District Attorney Elvin Edwards said handwriting experts would be called to settle the question.

In addition to the two letters made public tonight the grand jury also was given a third note, the contents of which were disclosed last week. It was written June 2, and in it Starr apologized for her actions aboard the Franconia May 29, when, she wrote, she became intoxicated and was put off the ship after it had sailed.

After inspecting the letters and also Starr's diary, the grand jury adjourned until Friday.

The district attorney and Inspector King said the investigation would continue and that their minds are still open as to whether Starr committed suicide or was killed.

Written From Department Store.

The first letter was penned on the stationery of a Fifth avenue department store writing room, dated June 4, 1931. It said:

"Hello, Bill, old thing:

"It's all up with me now—this is something I am going (underscored) to put through. The only thing that bothers me about it—the only thing I dread—is being out with it and prevented from doing this—which is the only possible thing for me to do.

"If one wants to get away with murder one has to jolly well keep one's wits about one. It's the same way with suicide.

"If I don't watch out I will wake up in a psychopathic ward, but I intend to watch out and accomplish my end this time. No ether, allonal or window jumping.

"I don't want to be maimed. I want oblivion. If there is an after life it will be a dirty trick—but I am sure 50,000,000 priests are (underscored) wrong. That is one of those things one knows (underscored).

"Nothing make any difference now. I love to eat and can have one delicious meal with no worries over gaining. I adore music and I am going to hear some good music. I

STIMSON CANCELS RADIO TALK AS FRANCE'S DELAY HEIGHTENS DELICACY OF DEBT SITUATION

Speech Is Called Off After Hoover and Secretary Meet in Parley.

FRENCH APPROVAL IS NOT HELD VITAL

President, However, Hopes Paris Will Not Balk at Year Holiday.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Because of the "delicacy" of the international situation, Secretary of State Stimson late yesterday canceled a radio speech he was scheduled to make last night on President Hoover's plan for a one-year holiday on war debts and reparations payments.

The announcement earlier in the day that Secretary Stimson was to speak was regarded as part of an administrative program to familiarize Americans with the President's plan to aid in the "economic recovery of the world" and to enlist their support for it.

Secretary Stimson had devoted his entire day to working on the speech, and mimeographed copies of it had been prepared for distribution to the press. Then, late in the day, the State Department head called on President Hoover at the White House. The announcement that the speech had been canceled because of the "delicacy" of the situation was made following this conference.

France Considers Counter Proposal.

Contributing to the delicacy of the situation was the news from Paris that France was considering a counter proposal to the one made by President Hoover, and the news from Rome that Italy might insist that the one-year holiday on debt and reparations payments would be acceptable only if Germany agreed to call off her suggested trade agreement with Austria. There also was a hint that Belgium might insist on reservations to an agreement.

President Hoover had hoped that the nations of Europe would not attempt to use his plan for bargaining purposes.

France, it was pointed out yesterday, could gain very little by refusing to approve of the Hoover plan.

Under the Young reparations plan, Germany can declare a two-year moratorium on certain conditional reparations payments to France. There also are certain unconditional payments which she must make. These amount to about $110,000,000 a year.

French Approval Desired.

Suppose, it was argued, France declined to enter into an agreement for a one-year postponement on the payments on debts and reparations, and suppose that Germany then took advantage of the moratorium clause in the Young plan and decided to pay France only $110,000,000.

And suppose further, it was argued, that the United States and Great Britain insisted that France make payments on war debts to them.

If this should happen, France would have to pay this country $50,000,000 and Great Britain $60,000,000, which just about would be offset by Germany, Italy, Britain and Austria Favorable to Suspension.

LAVAL WILL FORWARD REPLY TO U. S. TODAY

Answer to Be "Couched in Spirit of Heartiest Cooperation."

(Associated Press.)

Great Britain, Germany, Austria and Italy have accepted President Hoover's proposal for a one-year suspension of war-debt payments, and the world is waiting upon France, whose attitude is still to be determined.

In a radio address broadcast through Germany, Chancellor Bruening made a frank bid for a Franco-German conference at which the difficulties bequeathed by the war might be straightened out and the two nations begin working together for their mutual salvation.

Ambassador Edge, in a conference with Premier Laval of France, was understood to have received an indication of the nature of the forthcoming French reply to the President's offer, although the premier has said his government will take no definite stand until it has consulted the Parliament regarding the effects of a one-year moratorium on the Young plan.

Plan Boosts Stock Prices.

Secretary of State Stimson, who was to have spoken over a radio network covering the United States, canceled his address at the last moment, and at the State Department it was said that the "delicacy" of the situation was responsible for the cancellation.

The Berlin stock market and other markets across the world remained firm, with slight advances following the boom which came on the heels of the President's announcement.

In Washington Mr. Hoover and Secretary Stimson are devoting their entire energies to development of the President's offer. Members of the Congress are being polled as to their sentiments, and the Secretary has reiterated his assertion that the success of the plan depends upon quick action without bargaining.

Paris (Wednesday), June 24 (U.P.). Premier Pierre Laval, after ending a conversation with Ambassador Walter E. Edge at midnight, said the French reply to President Hoover's debt payment suspension proposal would be "couched in a spirit of heartiest cooperation."

French Will Ask Reservations.

The French reply, including reservations to protect the inviolability of the Young reparations plan, will be completed by the cabinet this morning.

"Ambassador Edge informed me that Mr. Hoover notified our ambassador at Washington before any other diplomat was informed of his plan," Premier aval said. "I told Mr. Edge that the French reply would be sent to Washington, probably today, couched in a spirit of heartiest cooperation."

Meanwhile, the question of French acceptance of the plan was raised in the Chamber of Deputies, where it was demanded that the project be discussed before a reply is sent to the United States. In the fce of serious opposition to the plan in the chamber, the government said the reply would be sent to Washington prior to submission to the deputies.

Deputy Louis Marin, criticizing the cabinet and the manner in which the United States proposal originated, said:

"It is impossible that France—which has the Young plan as a law—should not consult Parliament in regard to acceptance of the proposal.

Sees Disarmament Tie-Up.

"The interest of the United States and of England in Mr. Hoover's plan can be understood. Nevertheless, their interests are different from the interests of other countries. France's budget will not permit us to sacrifice $100,000,000. The oung plan was given to us as a definite regulation. Mr. Hoover's proposition raises the risk of a mortal blow to the plan.

"The operation evidently is tied up with the 1932 world disarmament conference, with efforts toward a better division of gold (which France now holds in large amounts) and also with the tariff.

"It is necessary that the Government inform us before France is en-

ENGLAND FORMALLY ACCEPTS DEBT PLAN

Other Former Allies Study 1-Year Moratorium Offer for Early Replies.

London, June 23 (A.P.).—Great Britain's formal acceptance of the principle underlying President Hoover's offer of a one-year moratorium on war debts and reparations was cabled today to Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States, for presentation to Secretary of State Stimson.

It is understood here the answers of other former allies will be acceptance of the underlying idea on which the moratorium is based—that is, that assistance in some form must be extended to Germany. It appeared possible, however, some of the nations may suggest that the assistance take a different form than that embodied in a simple one-year debt armistice.

France, it is understood, may evolve a plan entirely her own at tomorrow's cabinet meeting. Italy is accepting with reservations in a note to be sent tomorrow to its ambassador at Washington.

In Italy's case and in the case of Belgium confidence is expressed that the reservations will be of such character as not to impede seriously inauguration of the President's plan.

The French position is that the Young plan, now a part of the law of that land, can not be suspended for a year and then resumed without loss. Italy contends that Germany must not use the relief accorded by a moratorium for any other purpose than economic rehabilitation.

It is commented unofficially here that Secretary Stimson spoke truly in his statement yesterday, in which he declared that immediate action by the nations concerned is imperative to the success of the President's proposal. A belief persists, however, that some of the nations will be reluctant to give the almost unconditional acceptance which Great Britain has given.

As details of the American proposal are examined, it becomes clear that Great Britain is not to escape without some loss, on the basis that she receives in reparations and debt payments practically the same amount as she owes. When the Dominion accounts, both reparations and money owed to the home government, are taken into consideration with the small margin by which reparations and allied payments exceed the British debts, it is apparent that she will lose, too, almost as much as France.

The viewpoint here is that there must be elaboration of the details of the moratorium proposal, but that such elaboration must come after, and not before, the governments have accepted the proposal.

It is expected this will be accomplished in a series of international conferences which may be conducted at long range.

BERLIN CONFIDENCE REMAINS UNSHAKEN

Chancellor Says Moratorium Would Lessen Political Tension in Europe.

Berlin, June 23 (A.P.).—After yesterday's outburst of enthusiasm over the Hoover war debt plan, Germany settled down today to anxious but not panicky waiting for the answer of France to the American proposal.

That the new tone of confidence and hope engendered by Mr. Hoovr was something more than a flash in the pan was indicated by the relative firmness of the boerse and continued strengthening of the mark despite the lack of definite assurance of French cooperation.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening told a radio audience tonight that the German government was ready to cooperate politically with all governments to effect a solution of those questions which are salient to the pacification of Europe.

In his address the chancellor emphasized the political aspect of the Hoover proposal for a year's moratorium of intergovernmental debts. He declared that the year of rest suggested by the American President would serve not only to restore international confidence in business and therewith rebuild world economy but at the same time would result in a release of the tension of political bonds between nations.

"The German government is prepared to lend her utmost efforts toward realization of the aim of American initiative. We are ready to cooperate politically, too, with all governments to effect solution of those questions which are salient to the pacification of Europe * * *

"Without recovery of business and finance there can be no easing of the political situation and without political tranquillity a removal of economic distress is inconceivable."

The chancellor insisted that the business and political aspects "both are in a state of dependent relationship."

The extreme press of both the left and the right, however, have had time to think things over and are convinced the world is worse off than before.

To the National Socialist Angriff it is all clear now—since yesterday's phenomenal boom on the world's markets—that the whole "Hoover bluff" was just a gigantic stock exchange maneuver enabling bankers and particularly America's "Wall street hyenas," to win immense profits in the sudden upswing of stocks.

Communist commentators heartily agree with this view. The Communist Rote Fahne informs its readers that what Mr. Hoover is trying to do with this "shameless swindle" is to wreck the triumphantly advancing Com-

$856,000 DEPOSITS LAID TO RACKETEER

New York Investigators Get Idea of Gangster Riches From Bank Book.

New York, June 23 (A.P.).—A glimpse of the wealth amassed by New York racketeers and gangsters was gained by Government officials, who today uncovered a dummy bank deposit of $800,000, believed to belong to Albert Fliegenheimer, known as Dutch Schultz, Bronx beer baron.

Schultz had $18,000 in cash on his person when he was arrested a few days ago in his luxurious Fifth Avenue apartment. On the theory that he had much more somewhere else, Federal agents examined scores of huge bank deposits of Obscure persons. Their diligence was rewarded when Hugh McQuillan, chief of the intelligence division of the Department of Internal Revenue, came upon the cached fortune.

Records of the deposit showed that $856,000 had been deposited in the account in the last six months of 1930. The investigator refused to name the depositor, and sought elsewhere for similar accounts. Schultz is said to owe $79,236.72 Federal income taxes. He is held in $75,000 bail on three-fold State charges.

The war against racketeers and gang leaders went on unabated today. The first problem the authorities had to deal with was the killing of Charles Sattler, a daylight crime at a prominent East Side corner late yesterday.

Later in the day police picked up a man who said he was Frank Rotalo, who was found by a taxicab driver in the roadway at Rivington and Attorney streets, not far from the Sattler slaying scene. Rotalo had a bullet in his left chest and little chance of recovery.

Sattler had been identified with several gang fights recently, revolving about the control of beer selling in the East Side. Extra policemen were thrown tonight in the district east of lower Broadway in a move to prevent further killings.

G. O. P. AID INDICTED WITH GROCER NORRIS

U. S. Grand Jury in Nebraska Holds Pair for Trial on Election Perjury.

Lincoln, Nebr., June 23 (A.P.)—Victor Seymour, of Lincoln, and George W. Norris, former Broken Bow, Nebr., grocer and now of Alva, Okla., today were reindicted by a Federal grand jury here for perjury in their testimony last fall before the senatorial committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Seymour last year was manager of the Republican senatorial campaign committee's Denver headquarters. Both he and Grocer Norris were called before the committee headed by Senator Gerld P. Nye, of North Dakota, which came to Nebraska to investigate the grocer's filing as an opponent to Senator George W. Norris for the Republican senatorial nomination. The State Supreme Court later ruled the grocer's filing illegal and his name did not appear on the ballot. Senator Norris was reelected.

The first indictments against the two men were dismissed by Federal Judge T. C. Munger, who upheld the legality of the committee's investigation, but said the indictments failed to allege the materiality of the evidence in the Nye investigation. Materiality of the evidence he held, is a prerequisite to perjury charges.

Akron Aviatrix Killed As Her Plane Crashes

Akron, Ohio, June 23 (A.P.).—Mildred Stinaff, Akron girl aviator, who set a world's looping record for women about a year ago, was injured fatally here tonight when her plane crashed near the Akron Airport. She died a few hours later in Akron City Hospital.

Miss Stinaff was flying a plane of the Air Services Corporation about 1,500 feet above the airport when it went into a tailspin and dived to the ground. She was about 19 years old.

Counterfeiting Plant Taken in New Jersey

New York, June 23 (A.P.).—Secret Service Agents confiscated a counterfeiting plant in the cellar of a deserted house in Clifton, N. J., early today.

In announcing the raid, Thomas J. Callaghan, agent in charge of the Chicago district, said the agents found all the paraphernalia used in making bogus banknotes. Glass negatives for dollar silver certificates and $10, $20, and $100 gold certificates were seized.

Hillig, Hoiriis Ready To Star Hop Today

Harbor Grace, N. F., June 23 (A.P.). Otto Hillig and Holger Hoiriis said late tonight they would hop off for Denmark at 3 a. m. (12:30 a. m. Eastern standard time) tomorrow, unless adverse weather reports were received. The fliers retired and asked to be called an hour before their scheduled departure.

Flares were tried out to determine if sufficient light would be available for a safe take-off.

Storms Wreak Havoc In Ending Heat Wave

Soaring Temperature Claims Another Victim; Lightning Strikes Houses; Rain Maroons Cars; Derailed Train Runs Into Crowded Office.

Thunder showers yesterday halted the heat wave, but in doing so caused damage to houses struck by lightning, marooned automobiles, flooded highways, and were blamed for the crash of a freight car into a crowded office at Fifteenth and H street northeast.

The heat wave was not broken, however, before it claimed the life of another victim, Arthur Myers, 22 years old, found dead in his apartment at 1915 I street northwest.

Several persons had narrow escapes from injury when lightning struck two houses and a telephone pole in the southeast section, two houses in Montgomery County and one in Prince Georges County.

A score of persons escaped injury and several were slightly injured when a runaway freight car of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Railroad crashed into the offices of the Massaponax Sand & Gravel Co.

An automobile, owned by Clarence R. McClure, former president of the District Umpires Association, stalled in a ford across Rock Creek at Broad Branch road and was swept 20 feet downstream by the force of the swollen stream that rose above the engine hood.

Seeking shelter in the Massaponax Co. office, nearly a score of homeward bound workmen escaped serious injury by the uncontroled freight car. Huddled in the small frame office at the end of the railroad track, they were mostly employes of the Massaponax Co. and the Premix Concrete Co.

A terrific crash was heard as the 37,000 pound freight car crashed into the wooden structure. Men scrambled for the only doorway and were thrown about the office by the impact.

As workmen ran to their aid, the car came t oa halt half way through the shattered building. Luckily the men were in a part of the office opposite the point of entry.

Several automobiles were commandeered and the injured were taken to Casualty Hospital. Those treated were William F. Cornwell, 27 years old, of 1239 C street southeast, lacerated left leg; George W. Marshall, 21 years old, of 761 Twentieth street northeast, cut and bruises; Edgar Marshall, 20 years old, same address, lacerations of the left hand; Thomas Parker, 30 years old, of 1107 South Carolina avenue southeast, lacerations on the left hand, and P. H. Lynn, of 2614 Garfield street northwest, lacerations of the left leg.

Witnesses said brakemen were coupling freight cars to a train. The freight car nearest to the office failed to couple and it started rolling down the track, gaining speed. A heavy steel stop block and fail failed to stop its flight. The railroad tracks, which converge near the blind end of the tracks, split as the freight passed, and retarded its speed.

Mr. Myer, the victim of the heat, was found in his apartment by his roommate, Israel Aspren. Dr. Elmer Southern, a neighbor, pronounced Myers dead. He had been dead for two hours prior to discovery of his body, the doctor said. His death was attributed to a heart attack induced by the extreme heat. He came to Washington from Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Ambulance Delay Blamed On 'Plain Neglect of Duty'

Chairman of Emergency's Board Says Fault Will Be Fixed in Case of Man Stricken in Front of His Residence.

Failure of the Emergency Hospital ambulance to respond to a call Monday evening, after four requests for the ambulance had been telephoned to the hospital, was due to "plain neglect of duty on the part of someone connected with the institution," Woodbury Blair, chairman of the board of directors of the hospital, said last night, after an investigation had been started.

Mr. Blair said that the investigation would be continued until the blame for the "negligence" had been fixed. Mr. Blair will be assisted in the investigation by B. B. Sandidge, superintendent of the hospital.

The investigation last night had been narrowed down to two internes, Mr. Blair said. One of them is said to have received the call frfom the telephone operator at the hospital. As this interne was preparing to answer the summons, he was called to a ward in the hospital where a patient needed immediate assistance, Mr. Blair said the investigation revealed.

There being no other doctor available at the time to attend to the patient, the interne hurried to the ward and telephoned another inerne, at work in a laboratory, to go out on the ambulance call, the board head said that he learned.

The other interne, according to the investigating authority, complained that the message was never made clear to him. Meanwhile, the telephone operators assumed that the ambulance was attending to the call, the investigation revealed.

"I am not trying to make any excuses for the hospital," Mr. Blair told The Post reporter after he emerged

Doolittle Leaps to Safety As Speed Plane's Wings Fail

LIEUT. JAMES DOOLITTLE.

Former Army Stunt Ace, Flying Low, Forced to Climb for Jump.

East St. Louis, Ill., June 23 (A.P.). Maj. James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, former ace stunter of the Army Air Corps, leaped to safety late today when the fabric tore loose from the wings of his plane while traveling at an indicated speed of 235 miles an hour. Maj. Doolittle was not injured. The plane was badly damaged.

Maj. Doolittle was putting the plane, one of his own design with which he had hoped to break the present record for land planes, through speed tests at Curtiss-Steinberg airport, near here.

He was flying at an altitude of only about 100 feet when the wings started to flutter, and then pieces of the fabric began to fall. The flier immediately nosed the plane upward and leaped when it reached an altitude of between 300 and 400 feet.

Maj. Doolittle said the wings, which aged to aid the plan, and I suggest the reply to Mr. Hoover be submitted to the chamber."

Marin also attacked Foreign Minister Briand because he apparently was not informed of the Hoover plan before Saturday. The government indicated the chamber would have an opportunity to debate the reply to Mr. Hoover on Friday, after it has been sent to Washington.

The cabinet, at its session yesterday, discussed the plan for three hours and then issued a communique, saying:

"The council examined Mr. Hoover's proposal in relation to intergovernmental payment of debts and reparations. M. Briand told the council the circumstances in which the government was advised of the proposition. M. Flandin and M. Pietri outlined the consequences of the proposal on French finances. The discussions will continue Wednesday, at which time the council will decide on a text to the reply to the President of the United States."

Meanwhile, the foreign office began an exchange of views with Belgium, which also has objected to giving up all reparations from Germany, and Italy.

Indicative of the temper of Parliament, five more deputies—making eight in all—announced they would question the cabinet ministers on the Hoover proposal in regard to France, and also the 1932 world disarmament conference.

Arms Move Is Watched.

The chamber has indicated it would oppose suspension of unconditional payments and also that it would fight determinedly any effort to create a situation in which the debt question might be used to force agreement to disarmament plans objectionable to France.

Laval issued the following communique after the conference with the ambassador, which lasted over an hour:

"Ambassador Edge stated there had not been a preliminary discussion of the Hoover proposals with any other country, explaining that Mr. Hoover was obligated to act quickly on account of the financial crisis in Germany.

"He emphasized that France was the first foreign power informed of this proposal and added that French opinion is mistaken if it believes that France was intentionally left out of any object prepared in advance."

The premier then outlined the general terms of the French reply which he said would be sent to the United States today.

Counter-Proposal Hinted.

Paris, June 23 (A.P.).—This afternoon a belief that France was working out a plan of its own for the extension of relief to Germany received some support in a statement issued by the finance ministry, explaining that application of the Hoover proposal, in the mind of the French government, would make it difficult to resume the Young plan at the end of the year during which Mr. Hoover's moratorium would be effective.

The Young plan is part of the law of France and is in continuous operation, the statement said. To cut out a solid year and then go on without loss is regarded as impossible.

The general impression here is that the problem of handling the debt situation has been opened but not settled by any means. All France is impressed with the generosity of the American offer and is seeking a way to accept its underlying idea without sacrificing proper consideration to the situation in which France would be placed by suspension of the unconditional reparations annuity from Germany.

France is committed to the Briand project that economic and financial rehabilitation of Europe is the first step in the creation of any kind of European union, and the consensus is that France will ask for time to work out this problem in its own way, to bring about not only the reconstruction of Germany but of all Europe as well.

Briand's Attitude Is Asked.

When the issue is placed before the Chamber certain members of the opposition will interpellate the government demanding to know whether Foreign Minister Briand was consulted before the Hoover plan was made public and if so what his attitude was.

The statement by the finance minister appeared calculated to inform the French people that a simple suspension of debt and reparations payments for one year would not be an easy matter, considering the ramifications of the Young plan under which France is the guarantor, by means of her unconditional receipts from Germany, of other nations' shares in the conditional annuities providing Germany should ask a moratorium.

As to other signatories to the Young plan, the statement said, "French deposits with the bank for international settlements are a simple advance and in no sense a definite payment. If a German moratorium had been declared during the years 1931-32 this operation would in any case have freed France from making a guaranty deposit.

"But if Germany, after the agreement were in operation, should find itself constrained to declare a moratorium on conditional annuities, France would still remain the debtor of the guaranty fund of about $108,000,000.

"The application of the American formula would mean a definite financial loss for France. * * * It must be noted also that the suspension offered by President Hoover is for one year only and leaves the future untouched."

STIMSON ABANDONS DEBT PLAN SPEECH

Delicacy of Situation Is Given as Reason; Paris Reply Awaited.

the $110,000,000 Germany would have to pay to France.

The United States is extremely anxious to have France approve this Government's plan, and is doing everything possible to bring France around to the point of an agreement. However, it was pointed out yesterday, French approval, while desirable, is not altogether essential.

Others Could Accept.

It would be entirely possible for the other nations to go ahead and agree on the postponement, leaving France to collect from Germany and to pay to the United States and Great Britain. This government, however, sincerely hopes that France will come in.

The French, according to word received here, have been somewhat piqued by reports that the United States first took up the debt holiday plan with nations other than France.

As a matter of fact, it was pointed out yesterday, Paul Claudel, the French Ambassador to the United States, was the first foreign envoy to be apprised of the scheme. Secretary Stimson told him about it at Woodley, his residence here.

Dr. Rudolph Leitner, German charge d'affaires, yesterday notified Secretary Stimson that his government had accepted the Hoover plan, and Minister Davila, of Roumania, told Mr. Stimson that his government was examining the plan with sympathy and "undoubtedly would be glad to cooperate."

Roumania May Need Loan.

However, Minister Davila said, his country might be obliged to float an international loan in order to pay claims for reconstruction work in its devasted areas.

President Hoover, it was made known at the White House yesterday, is attempting to make a 100 per cent canvass of members of Congress in hopes of lining up both Republicans and Democrats behind his debt proposal.

In his statement Saturday, President Hoover listed a score or so of members who had assured him of their "cordial support." This number, it was explained yesterday, was all that could be reached in person or over the long-distance telephone at the time.

It was stated at the White House that about 50 per cent of the members of Congress have notified the President as to how they felt about his proposal, and it is presumed that most of these are in favor of it.

The President, in his original statement, pointed out that the approval of the American Congress, as well as the approval of the other governments involved, would be necessary.

Baker, Harrison Pledge Support.

Two prominent Democrats came out for the President's plan yesterday, former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, a partisan among partisans. After seeing President Hoover, the Mississippi senator issued a statement in which he said that the proposal was not a partisan matter.

"The public interest," he said, "will best be served by declaring an armistice on politics so that these issues may be solved by American statesmen rather than by American politicians."

The President sent the following communication to members of Congress:

"You no doubt have seen my statement in Sunday's press of the proposals of the American Government in respect to postponement for one year of all intergovernmental debts.

"Inasmuch as the proposal is, of course, contingent upon action by Congress and as the matter is one of national interest having no partisan character, in that light, I consulted before action the senators and representatives of both parties present in Washington and as many as possible who were accessible in the country.

Hoover Seeks Expressions.

"This list of generous support from members was shown in the public statement referred to above. I regret that difficulties of communication rendered it impossible to contact with all members of the Senate and House.

"I do not wish to press any member for reply as to his views if he prefers not to give them at this time, yet if you are favorable to the proposal in the first paragraph of the statement above mentioned it would undoubtedly aid in the negotiations now in progress if you could inform me thereof."

When the President first suggested that he was casting about for some method whereby to help economic conditions here and abroad, it was rumored that he had in mind the extension of credits to Germany through the Federal Reserve Board.

This possibility was revived yesterday when Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills held a series of conferences with Eugene Meyer, head of the Federal Reserve Board.

Mills and Stimson Key Men.

Undersecretary Mills also had a talk with George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Mr. Mills and Secretary of State Stimson, by the way, are President Hoover's key men in the present negotiations. He is in conference with them at all times.

Between conferring with the President, Mr. Meyer and Mr. Harrison yesterday, Undersecretary Mills had a conference with Eugene Monick, commercial attache of the French Embassy.

Presumably Undersecretary Mills sought to show M. Monick by means of figures that a one-year holiday on debt and reparations payments would have a beneficial influence throughout the world, one that would benefit France as well as other countries involved.

AMBULANCE DELAY BLAME TO BE FIXED

from a closed hearing of more than an hour. "This situation is due to neglect on the part of some one in the hospital. Each of the internes appears to blame the other. We will continue investigating until we determine just who was to blame, and then the proper disciplinary measures will be taken."

Mr. Blair also revealed that the entire interne system at the hospital is to be reorganized this fall. At present the interne staff is slender, two internes having left the hospital recently and two others being on vacations, it was learned. About six internes are on duty at present.

On Monday 24 ambulance calls were received at the hospital, and 48 accident cases were treated in the Emergency room, records showed. Mr. Blair said he is inclined to believe that the warm day, combined with the large amount of work, had something to do with the confusion resulting in the particular call not being answered.

The call in question was occasioned by the illness of Benjamin A. Burleson, 34 years old, of 1824 California street. He was taken ill on the street in front of his home. A call to Emergency Hospital was made at 5:20 o'clock, and at 5:40 o'clock, after the ambulance had failed to appear, another call was sent. Two calls were made, one at 6 o'clock and another at 6:40 o'clock. In all three cases the hospital operator said that the ambulance was on the way, according to the police report on the case.

The Maryland-District of Columbia Bible class conference will be held July 4 to 5, while the chautauqua lecture and music course will be held from June 29 to July 5.

Barns Are Wrecked In Hagerstown Storm

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., June 23.—A rain which reached cloudburst proportions this afternoon came as a great benefit to crops. Lightning, particularly severe, wrecked two barns west of here.

A bolt demolished a barn of the Stafford Hall farm of Leo Cohill, while another hit a barn on the farm of Jacob Needy, Charlton. The heavy rain extinguished the fire which followed.

Son Made Treasurer On Death of Father

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 23.—Capt. Rembrandt P. Keezel today was appointed treasurer of Rockingham County to fill the unexpired term of his father, George Bernard Keezel, veteran Virginia political leader, who died yesterday. The term expires December 31.

Capt. Keezel has served as deputy under his father since the latter was appointed in 1929 to fill the unexpired term of J. A. Garber, who resigned following his election to Congress. His brother, Nat B. Keezel, also is a deputy.

Graves Near Danville Are Robbed of Flowers

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 23.—City Engineer C. L. Scott has complained to the police that flowers are being stolen from graves in Highland Burial Park.

Potted plants, baskets of flowers and freshly cut blooms have been removed, he says. The cemetery is outside the city, beyond the jurisdiction of the local police.

Pauline Starke Given Divorce From Producer

Los Angeles, June 23 (A.P.).—Pauline Starke, motion picture actress, was granted a divorce from her husband, Jack White, film producer, in Superior Court today. She charged cruelty.

They were married in San Francisco September 4, 1927 and separated last January 19. Miss Starke began litigation last April by filing suit for separate maintenance, asking division of $100,000 property. Later White was ordered to pay $400 monthly alimony. A property settlement was reached out of court.

DEBT DELAY HELD FATAL TO BELGIUM

Senator Says His Country Would Be "Dupe" if She Accepts Proposal.

Brussels, Belgium, June 23 (A.P.).—Senator Segers, of Antwerp, today told the Senate that President Hoover's suggestion for a moratorium in payment of war debts would have "fatal consequences" for Belgium.

Although the proposal may save Germany from a new collapse, the senator declared that country does not deserve any favors, and if she alone is to benefit by the measure, it would not be justified.

"Germany pursues a policy of treaty nibbling and we need further political guarantees," M. Segers said.

The reparation payments were asserted to represent less than 2 per cent of Germany's revenues against 4 per cent which he said she used for military expenses before the World War.

Long applause greeted the speaker's statement that Belgium would be a "dupe" if she accepted a moratorium exceeding the payments due to America.

Segers added that the Young plan can not be changed without a new law.

"The moment has come to remind the allies as well as Germany of their promises to restore completely our country," he concluded. "Ours are sacred rights."

munist movement in Germany and thus help capitalism.

But "only through the overthrow of the old capitalist system, especially of the German exploiter, can catastrophe for the working masses be averted," the paper says.

The moderate press in the main contents itself with watching for developments. Papers prominently display dispatches from Washington relating the firm stand of President Hoover against amending or delaying the plan.

Meanwhile, big banks of issue are quietly active behind the scenes keeping close in touch with one another. The Reichsbank is known to be in frequent telephonic touch with the Bank of England and the Bank of International Settlements as well as with the American Federal Reserve Bank and the central banks of Europe.

The cabinet met today and formally agreed there could be no let-up in the government's program of Spartan economy in anticipation of the benefits to be derived from a new deal in reparations.

Carl Von Schubert, German Ambassador to Italy, has hurried back to his post, charged with the task of convincing Premier Mussolini that the proposed customs treaty with Austria has no effect whatever upon the reparations question. It is reported the ambassador has been instructed to try to convince Mussolini that the customs union project is in safe hands in the World Court and that the new-born world confidence would be jolted if it were subject to attack now.

Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch, who returned to his post in Paris as soon as word was received concerning the Hoover proposal, has been in frequent touch with Foreign Minister Curtius, advising him about steps Germany may take to make France more sympathetic toward the one-year moratorium plan.

Virginia Dedicates Bust of Taylor

Gen. Lejeune Outlines the Qualities That Made Him Beloved.

Richmond, Va., June 23 (A.P.).—President Zachary Taylor was described today at dedication exercises attendant upon the unveiling of his bust in the State Capitol here as a man who gave his country the full benefit of his common sense, his rugged integrity and his exalted patriotism.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, superintendent of Virginia Military Institute, made the dedicatory address. The speaker said that "Old Rough and Ready," in spite of hostile criticism, made a good President and the people loved him for his homely virtues, his courage and his simplicity.

Tracing the military career of President Taylor from the time of his early services against Indian marauders as a subordinate officer through his masterly handling of the campaign against the Seminole Indians in Florida, Gen. Lejeune went into more detail as to his service in the Mexican War.

SENATE WAR LOOMS IN NORTH CAROLINA

Candidacy of Morrison for Full Term in Chamber Is Challenged.

Raleigh, N. C., June 23 (A.P.).—United States Senator Cameron Morrison, filling out the unexpired term of the late Lee Slater Overman, next June may find himself in the midst of another political battle reminiscent of those heated 1930 Democratic primaries which put him in the governor's mansion.

Eleven years ago the Charlotte orator was at grips with the youthful Oliver Max Gardner, of Shelby, and Robert N. Page. A first primary eliminated Page and in the second, Morrison edged out Gardner to close one of the tightest gubernatorial primaries in the State's history.

A period of progress came with his regime. Roads were built, schools were constructed, cities grew up. Four years of government under Angus Wilton McLean followed. Then Gardner, after eight years of waiting, entered the governor's mansion.

Political Picture Changes.

The State's political picture began to change color. Simmons was crushed for bolting Smith. Senator Overman died. A new chapter in the State's political history was beginning. The 1932 Democratic primaries and the subsequent general election will definitely decide who will play the star roles.

Senator Morrison received his senatorial appointment from Gov. Gardner. The governor's brother-in-law, Clyde R. Hoey, was mentioned as a likely appointee, and Gov. Gardner publicly declared, "If Clyde Hoey wants it, he can have it." But Mr. Hoey graciously declined. Morrison called his appointment at the hands of his former foe, "generous."

Now, the time approaches for the election of a successor to Senator Overman. Undoubtedly, Senator Morrison will be a candidate, but his path is not expected to be rosy. Before Overman's death, Morrison had been mentioned as a candidate in 1932. Col. T. L. Kirkpatrick, also of Charlotte, had announced he would run. And others were speculating.

Possible Opponents.

One of Morrison's first acts in the Senate was to approve Frank R. McNinch, who led the anti-Smith forces in the State in 1928, for a post on the Federal Power Board. This stirred up political talk. Mr. McNivich, along with Simmons, had been considered "out of the party." Morrison described his act as recognizing a reorganized Democracy in North Carolina.

Looming as opponents to Morrison next year are Tam C. Bowie, of West Jefferson. Bowie's possibilities, according to West Jefferson dispatches that border closely on authorized stories, are based, partly, on Morrison's attitude toward McNinch.

Frank Grist, State commissioner of labor, has announced his candidacy. His campaign will be waged on the "chances of the little man." This is expected to inject the power issue into the campaign. Senator Morrison called the Duke Power Co. "an almost benevolent institution."

RAILWAY SURGEONS HOLD SESSION HERE

400 Attend Annual Meeting of Southern System; Many Speakers on List.

More than 400 persons attended the opening of the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Association of Surgeons of the Southern Railway System yesterday at the Willard Hotel.

The morning session was taken up with reports from the various committees and an address by Dr. E. Dunbar Newell, president of the association, on the question, "Are We Properly Disseminating Medical Knowledge to the Profession as a Whole?"

Guest speakers of the afternoon were L. E. Jeffries, vice president and general counsel of the Southern Railway System, and Dr. E. L. Eliason, noted Philadelphia doctor, who spoke on the fracture situation of today. Following this, brief addresses were delivered by the following surgeons: A. de T. Valk, of Winston-Salem, N. C., on "Acute Abdominal Injuries;" T. B. Reeves, of Greenville, S. C., on "A Consideration of Skin Graft Methods;" E. A. Sumner and J. T. Burrus, of High Point, N. C., on "Averting Anesthesia—Observation of 700 Cases;" S. O. Black, Spartanburg, S. C., on "Fractures of the Shaft of the Femur;" Norman M. Heggie, of Jacksonville, Fla., on "Cataracts;" E. V. Caldwell, of Huntsville, Ala., on "The Handling of the Hobo in the Modern Travel of the Unemployed;" W. H. Anderson, of Boonesville, Miss., on "The Challenge to the Medical Profession;" Fred C. Hubbard, of North Wilkesboro, N. C., on "Gas Bacillus Infection of Wounds," and J. C. Wilson, of Rockwood, Tenn., on "Syphilis as Related to Railway Employes." Dr. W. A. Applegate, chief surgeon of the Southern Railway System, presided over the afternoon session.

This morning the surgeons will hold a clinic in Emergency Hospital, headed by Dr. Applegate, and this afternoon the same group will go to Walter Reed Hospital and hold a clinic there.

Tomorrow will be spent in sightseeing, culminating with a trip to Mount Vernon in the evening by boat. Friday the delegates will return to their homes.

Boy on Bicycle Is Hurt In Collision With Truck

William Dicken, 15 years old, of 801 Longfellow street northwest, was seriously injured yesterday when he was thrown from the bicycle on which he was riding following a collision with a truck on Connecticut avenue, near Bradley Lane, Chevy Chase. He was given first aid by Dr. Thomas K. Conrad, of Chevy Chase and taken to Garfield Hospital by Dr. Conrad.

The boy suffered a broken leg and bruises about the body. The truck was driven by Daniel Stevenson, colored, of Duncan street near Fourteenth street northeast. According to the story told Serg. Leroy Rodgers, of the Bethesda substation, Montgomery County Police, the boy was riding in company with his brother Lewis Dicken, of the same address, and George Shukem, 313 Second street southwest, when the truck attempted to pass them. The injured boy swerved into the path of the truck, police were told.

SMILES THROUGH WRECKAGE

Telephoto shows how Miss Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, came up smiling after her transatlantic flight plane was wrecked at St. John, New Brunswick. The famous flier suffered two cracked vertebrae when the plane crashed as she overran the airport runway. The accident prevented her projected flight to Paris.

Plane Crash Fails To Daunt Aviatrix

Ruth Nichols Plans Ocean Hop When Her Craft Is Repaired.

St. John, N. B., June 23 (A.P.).—Undaunted by two cracked vertebrae, a wrecked plane and postponement of her transocean flight, Ruth Nichols smiled from a hospital cot today and vowed she would not give up her life's ambition.

She sent messages to her representatives in New York that her monoplane was being shipped back there for repair and she would start out again as soon as it was ready, her physical condition had improved and weather conditions were right.

Dr. G. A. B. Addy, who X-rayed her back today, said she had no other injuries than the cracked vertebrae and a cut on the right knee. He said the back injuries were not serious because the vertebrae had not been dislocated.

Farmer Is Named Juvenile Judge

Wheatley Johnson Is Given Prince William County Post for Six Years.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., June 23.—Wheatley Johnson, owner of Clover Hill Farm, near Manassas, has been appointed judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court of Prince William County by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. The appointment is for six years.

Mr. Johnson's appointment, while a surprise, came as a result of a suggestion by Judge McCarthy that he would appoint some one on whom the Prince William Bar could agree.

About fifteen candidates were in the field.

Judge Johnson, prominent farmer and dairyman, has been active in civic affairs for many years, is chairman of the agricultural advisory council of the Manassas Magisterial District, member of Prince William Chapter, Red Cross committee, school vocational guidance committee, and a member of numerous county organizations having as their object county advancement. Firemen of Warrenton Preparing for Carnival

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., June 23.—Preparations are rapidly taking form for the firemen's carnival to be held here on the nights of July 10 and 11.

Last year the firemen realized $8,500 on their carnival and expect to have a bigger one this year. The money made will be used to pay on the new fire truck purchased last fall. Nick Altrock, of the Washington baseball team, has promised to be present and assist in the "racket booth."

Drought Again Menaces Warrenton Farm Areas

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., June 23.—With no rain for more than two weeks the drought situation is again becoming acute in this county. This year's wheat and rye crop are safe, the rye having already been harvested and the wheat ready for the binder this week.

It is the corn crop that will suffer if rain is not forthcoming soon. Already wells and springs are again going dry. The rainfall was up to normal during April and May and part of June but only the subsoil was reached. After last year's dry spell an abnormally heavy rainfall was necessary to refill all subterranean waterways.

FLIERS OVER OCEAN IN RECORD ATTEMPT

Post and Gatty Are Trying to Lower Record Held by Graf Zeppelin.

Fliers Strive to Girdle Earth Within 10 Days

Harbor Grace, June 23 (A.P.).—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty hope to complete a 14,000-mile circuit of the world in ten days. Their route and the distance of each jump was laid out thus:

New York to Harbor Grace, 1,300 miles.

Harbor Grace to Berlin, 2,860 miles.

Berlin to Moscow, 925 miles.

Moscow to Irkutsk, 2,600 miles.

Irkutsk to Kharborovsk, or Yakutsk, 1,100 miles.

Kharborovsk to Nome, 2,300 miles.

Nome to Edmonton, 1,900 miles.

Edmonton to New York (probably via Cleveland), 2,000 miles.

The only overnight stops definitely scheduled were at Berlin and Irkutsk.

Retiring from the sea in 1927 he opened a navigation school at Los Angeles with a branch in San Diego. A native of Australia, he is 28, and his home is in Los Angeles. His wife is the former Miss Vera McCulloch, of Sydney, and he has three sons. His parents live in Tasmania.

Prechecking of Plane.

The Gatty-Post plane is a Lockheed Vega, driven by a Wasp engine of 425 rated horsepower and developing 590 with 1-to-10 supercharger. Its gasoline capacity is 540 gallons, carried in wing and fuselage tanks; the oil capacity is 30 gallons.

Its average hourly gas consumption is 22 gallons, the full fuel load is estimated enough to keep the plane up 24 to 25 hours.

The flight was prechecked by the navigator with the greatest detail, even to the extent of charting the points at which observations would be made on the oversea hop.

There were to be 15 of these checkings after the take-off from here, the first to be in 1 hour and 7 minutes of flying time, at an estimated location of 48 degrees 59 minutes north latitude by 50 degrees west. Subsequent checkings will be made about every hour.

LEAP FROM PLANE SAVES DOOLITTLE

he had taken from an old plane, apparently were not strong enough for the high speed he was making. His plane was recently completed. Today's flight was the first of a series he planned, with an ultimate view of attempting to break both the American and world speed records for land planes. The American record is 266 miles an hour and the world record 277.

When the first spectators reached the scene Maj. Doolittle was intently searching for the rip cord, which aviators who "bail out" consider a good luck souvenir. He found it. His 10-year-old son, Jimmy, jr., was in the crowd which witnessed the famous flier's narrow escape.

Louisiana Women Plan Motorcade to Capital

Baton Rouge, La., June 23 (A.P.).—A women's motorcade, said to be possibly the first of its kind in the United States, will leave here July 3, when members of the Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs begin a tour through eight States to attend the national convention of their organization in Richmond, Va., July 6 to 11.

The women convention tourists will carry greetings from Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana to the Governor of Virginia, and will continue to Washington and present similar greetings to President Hoover.

COUNTY APPROVES SCHOOL PROJECTS

Montgomery Board Plans $311,000 Expenditure on Program.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday approved the 1931 county school construction program as submitted by Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools. The program provides for expenditure of $311,000, to be paid for out of funds raised by the sale of a bond issue approved by the last session of the State Legislature. The Legislature also approved issuance of bonds for 1932 and 1933 construction.

The commissioners instructed Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the board, to prepare the necessary resolution approving the program and to prepare advertisements incident to the bond sale. Immediate start of construction as soon as bond proceeds are received was advocated by Mr. Broome, who is desirous of having the projects completed in time for the opening of school in the fall.

Items Are Listed.

Items on the program approved by the commissioners and by the Montgomery County Civic Federation and the Montgomery Government Club, follow:

Takoma-Silver Spring High School—Remodel front section of building, and provide two additional rooms. Estimated cost, $4,000.

Glenmont—Two additional rooms and basement treatment; $13,000.

Germantown—One unit and strengthening old section; $15,000.

Fairland—Two rooms and assembly-gymnasium; $35,000.

Rockville—Remodel old section of building, provide for additional rooms; $600.

Bethesda—Two additional rooms; $12,000.

Chevy Chase—Second building unit of new building, assembly and rooms; $94,000.

Rockville Colored High School—High School unit, material from old Chevy Chase School; $25,000.

Linden Colored—New building; $2,500.

Somerset—Land and improvement option held; $10,000.

Bethesda—Land. Option held on three lots, one additional lot, estimated for but not under option; $34,600.

Glen Echo-Cabin John—Improvement of school grounds; $3,300.

Laytonsville—Sanitary heat; $3,000. Furniture and equipment; $9,000.

School site for proposed new Takoma-Silver Spring Senior High School; $50,000.

The county commissioners were advised yesterday by Frederic P. Lee, of Edgemoor, that the Montgomery County Social Service League has approved the names of eleven men and women for appointment to the juvenile court committee for the county. The committee will consist of five county citizens appointed by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, in accordance with an act passed by the last session of the Legislature, to act as an advisory body in conduct of the juvenile court.

Society Recommends Eight.

Mr. Lee, chairman of the juvenile court committee of the Social Service League, also has notified Gov. Ritchie of the approval by the league of the eight citizens recommended by the Maryland Children's Aid Society: Dr. James W. Baird, of Sandy Spring; W. B. Armstrong, Cabin John; Dr. Edwin W. Broome, Rockville; Mrs. J. Darby Bowman, Rockville; Miss Estelle Moore, Sandy Spring; J. Dann Faber, Takoma Park; George C. Shinn, Forest Glenn, and Thomas C. Kelley, of Damascus, as well as three additional members recommended by the Social Service League, Mrs. Oliver Owen Kuhn, of Alta Vista; Miss Lavinia Engle, of Forest Glen, and Mrs. Lloyd W. Biddle, Takoma Park.

The county commissioners notified Mr. Lee that the board has included the $2,000 a year salary for a juvenile court judge and $1,000 for the continuance of a probation officer in the annual levy which has been tentatively announced for the coming fiscal year.

The county commissioners approved plans, specifications and financing plans for Chevy Chase section 4 of Leland street, from Connecticut avenue west to Oak lane. The street will be improved with concrete curbs and gutters at a cost of $6,500. Cost of the work will be assessed against abutting property.

Attorneys for the purchasers of the recent $200,000 issue of courthouse site bonds have approved the legal proceedings in connection with the sale of the bonds. The board authorized the expenditure of necessary funds for equipment by the newly created office of the county engineer, Harry B. Shaw.

Members of the State Roads Commission and of the Board of County Commissioners will tour the suburban area of the county today to view the proposed construction program for the 1931 building season. Chairman G. Clinton Uhl, Maj. E. Brooke Lee and Maj. H. O. Willier, chief engineer of the commission, will be present. The full board of county commissioners will attend, headed by Lacy Shaw, president of the board.

Among projects to be inspected are the Massachusetts avenue extension, Wisconsin avenue improvement, street widening in front of the new county courthouse at Rockville, Gaithersburg grade crossing and Chestnut street grade crossing and improvement project, as well as several smaller projects.

The Rockville Volunteer Fire Department is resplendent in new uniforms which arrived yesterday. The new uniforms are of blue serge, of the approved dress firemen's style and with shiny gilt buttons.

Three new election precincts for Montgomery County were created yesterday at a meeting of the board of election supervisors at Rockville. The new precincts created were: Precinct No. 4 at Bethesda; Precinct No. 9 at Takoma Park and Precinct No. 2 at Colesville.

The new Bethesda precinct was carved out of Precinct No. 1, where 1,905 votes were cast in the last election. The first precinct will include all territory west of Wisconsin avenue south of the Bank of Bethesda and east of old Georgetown road, north of the Bank of Bethesda. The polling place for this precinct will continue to be the county building. The new precinct will include all territory west of Wisconsin avenue and old Georgetown road. The polling place for this precinct will be either the Bethesda Fire House or the Bethesda Masonic Hall.

The fourth Takoma Park precinct boundaries will be Silver Spring on the west, District line on the south, Mississippi avenue on the east and Maple and Carroll avenues on west, while the sixth precinct will be bounded by the District line on the south, Prince Georges county line on the east, Lee and Sherman and Carroll and Lincoln avenues on north, Maple, Carroll and Park on the west.

The new ninth precinct will be bounded by Maple avenue and Sligo branch on the west, to Blair road, the town corporation line on the north, Prince Georges County line on the east, and Lee, Sherman, Carroll avenues on the west.

The new Colesville precinct No. 2 will be bounded by the Beltsville town line, Fairland High School to Paint branch, north on Paint branch to the Edwards-Chaney road, west on this road to Browns Corner, south on Colesville pike to Hollands Corner road and west on this road to Norwood.

The board will meet again next Tuesday to create new precincts in Chevy Chase, Silver Spring, Rockville and possibly Olney.

Woman's Murder Trial Continued at Amelia

Amelia, Va., June 23 (A.P.).—The murder trial of Mrs. Jeston Allen Jones, charged with paying a negro farm hand to shoot her husband, was continued until August 24 by Judge Edwin P. Cox in Circuit Court here today.

Richard Lee, Negro employe of the Jones family, was convicted several months ago on charges of firing the shot that killed Jones. During his trial Lee repudiated an alleged confession and testified that Mrs. Jones promised to pay him $25 to kill Mr. Jones, and left the gun under the porch where he could find it.

Cleric to Be Installed By Warrenton Church

Warrenton, Va., June 23.—The Rev. Julian Lake will be ordained and installed as full-time pastor of the Warrenton Presbyterian Church here Wednesday night. A number of out-of-town guests and members of the presbytery will be here for the ceremonies and will be entertained in the home of the church members.

A number of leading pastors and elders in the Presbyterian Church have signified their intention of being present. Mr. Lake, a graduate of the Union Theological Seminary, succeeds the late Rev. William Chinn, who died last summer.

CONFEDERATES OPEN REUNION IN VIRGINIA

Veterans, Sons and Ladies in Joint Session; Officers for Year Elected.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 23.—Meeting here after an absence of seven years, when they gathered to attend the unveiling of the equestrian statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee, gift of Paul Goodloe McIntire, native of this city, the Grand Camp, Confederate Veterans of Virginia, today opened its forty-fourth annual reunion. Meeting with the survivors are the Sons of Confederate Veterans, who are holding their thirty-sixth reunion.

The outstanding event of the first day's program was the joint meeting of Veterans, Sons and their Official Ladies, held tonight in the armory of the Monticello Guard. Standards on the stage bore the battle flags of the Nineteenth Virginia Regiment and the Twenty-seventh Alabama Regiment and the official flag of the John Bowie Strange Camp, C. V., this city, which has only a dozen members living.

The Alabama flag was borne during the war by the late Dr. George L. Petrie, prominent Presbyterian minister and former war chaplain.

Virginia Chaplain Presides.

The Rev. W. Roy Mason, of the Episcopal Church, chaplain of the Virginia Division, Sons of Confederate Veterans, and commander of the R. T. W. Duke Camp, this city, called the meeting to order and welcomed the guests. The invocation was by Dr. Henry Alford Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, this city, formerly of St. Louis, Mo.

Albert S. Bolling, of the Albemarle Bar, commander of the Virginia Division, then assumed the chair, and the welcome address of Mayor Fred L. Watson was read by a member of the city council, that official being absent on account of illness.

Greetings were extended from the grand camp by Carter R. Bishop, of Petersburg, grand commander. Other Grand Camp officers present at today's session included Gen. J. T. Duke, Norfolk, adjutant, and W. H. McGhee, Charlotte Courthouse, inspector general.

Division Elects Officers.

The Virginia Division, United Confederate Veterans, this afternoon reelected Maj. Gen. William McK. Evans, Richmond, as commander for ensuing year, and the following brigade commanders: First brigade, Gen. Robert Gillum, Petersburg; second brigade, Gen. Robert G. Wood, Lynchburg; third brigade, Maj. Gen. Edgar Warfield, Alexandria; fourth brigade, Gen. C. B. Linney, Charlottesville.

Lieut. Homer Freeman, Richmond, commander of the Army of Northern Virginia, said the time has come when the grand camp should be dissolved and the records and papers turned over to the Virginia division, United Confederate Veterans, but the suggestion failed of indorsement.

Women's Home Near Completion.

Strong pleas were made by Commanders Bishop and Evans for the camps to hold together, so that Virginia might have as many votes as any other Southern State at the Richmond reunion next year. This State had only 64 votes at the Montgomery reunion, as against 140 for Texas. R. E. Lee Camp, Richmond, has only 22 members living out of 1,700. The Roanoke camp has 28 members.

Mrs. A. J. Montague told members of Grand Camp that the home for Confederate Women at Richmond, costing $271,000, would be completed by October. There are now 43 women at the home. The board of managers, she said, would be gratified to have each Southern State endow a room in the institution, and that there would be still a greater joy for each State in the Union to have there a memorial room, thus exemplifying a united country.

Speaking at tonight's joint meeting, Commander Bolling paid tribute to that band of 40 in the Virginia Assembly of '28 who stood out for a pension of a minimum of $1 per day for every Confederate veteran.

Of the 138 veterans who registered today, one, J. T. Grady, Harrisonburg, will be 100 in September. A native of Louisa, he entered the army in April, 1861, as a member of the Fifty-sixth Virginia Infantry, Garnett's Brigade, and remained with that organization until the surrender at Appomattox. He was at the battle of Fort Donnelson, in the seven days of fighting around Richmond, and was one of the few survivors of the charge at Gettysburg, July 3. He was wounded in the battle at South Mountain, Md.

Chicken Dinner Death Brings Life Sentence

Greenwood, S. C., June 23 (A.P.).—John Cox, 30, farmer, who shot his wife during a quarrel about the amount of chicken she ate for dinner, pleaded guilty to murder today and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Testimony at the coroner's hearing was that Cox killed his wife, Anna, two weeks ago after accusing her of eating too much of the chicken at a dinner for several guests.

BANKERS DISCUSS UNIFORM SYSTEM

Fail to Make Decision on Reduced Interest Rate on Savings Accounts.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., June 23.—The Bull Run Bankers Association, meeting here, discussed the standard program of achievement recommended by the executive council.

The association, a tricounty organization composed of bankers of Prince William, Loudoun and Fauquier Counties, seeks to promote closer business acquaintance among the banks and the cooperation of all banks in matters affecting their common welfare.

C. E. Tiffany, president of the Fauquier National Bank, Warrenton, and president of the organization, said the executive council felt meetings would be made more effective by adoption of a standard program of endeavor. With this in mind, recommendations of matters for consideration were read by G. Raymond Ratcliffe, vice president of the People's National Bank, Manassas, secretary, after which a general discussion was held.

Among matters considered were collection and exchange fees; outgoing drafts, notes and trade acceptances; drafts on correspondent banks and cashier's checks; travelers' checks, service charges and minimum balances. Another matter considered was reduction of payment of interest on savings accounts to a rate not in excess of 3 per cent. While uniform practice was adopted in all other matters, the question of interest payments was left open for consideration at the next meeting.

Bankers attending were C. E. Tiffany and S. C. Brittle, Warrenton; P. W. Anderson, Marshall; Bruce McIntosh, Leesburg; H. Ewing Wall, Quantico; C. L. Robey, Purcellville; G. Raymond Ratcliffe, Harry P. Davis, M. M. Ellis, T. J. Broaddus, Thomas H. Lion, E. H. Hibbs, A. A. Hooff, C. A. Sinclair, Manassas; W. M. Jordan, Haymarket; V. W. Zirkle, Nokesville; B. W. Brunt, Occoquan, and many directors of institutions of the three counties.

"I have tried to pose as clever and intellectual, thereby to attract you, but it was not successful and I couldn't go on writing those long, studied letters. I don't have to worry because there are no words to describe this feeling I have for you.

"The words love, adore, worship, have become meaningless. There is nothing I can do but what I am going to do.

"I shall never see you again. That is extraordinary.

"Although I can't comprehend it any more than I can comprehend the words—'always'—or 'time.' They produce a very merciful numbness."

The second letter proved to have been written on the stationery of a prominent Fifth avenue hotel. It was undated and bore a postmark of June 2. It read:

Life Is So Horrible.

"I am going (definitely now—I have been thinking of it for a long time) to end my worthless, disorderly bore of an existence—before I ruin any one else's life as well.

"I certainly have made a sordid, futureless mess of it all. I am dead sick of it. It is no one's fault but my own—I have everything so—life is so horrible (underscored three times).

"Being a sane person, you may not understand—I take dope to forget and drink to try and like people, but it is of no use. I am mad and insane over you. I hold my breath to try to stand it—take drug in the hope of waking happier, but that homesick (underscored) feeling never leaves me.—I have, strangely enough, more of a feeling of peace—whatever you call it—now that I know it will soon be over.

"The half hour before I die will, I imagine, be quite blissful. You promised to come and see me. I realize absolutely (underscored) that it will be the one and only time. There is no earthly reason why you should come. If you do it will be what I call an act of marvelous generosity and kindness.

"What I did yesterday was very horrible, although I don't see how you could lose your job, as it must have been clearly seen what a nuisance you thought me.

Suffering Becomes a Hell.

"If I don't see you again—goodbye. Sorry to so lose all sense of humor, but I am suffering so that all I want is to have it over with. It's become a hell such as I couldn't have imagined.

"If you come to see me when you are in this time you will be a sport (cap S)—you are assured by this letter of no more bother from me.

"My dear. "STARR.
"12 St. Luke's place,
"New York City."

After revealing the contents of the letters, District Attorney Edwards issued a formal statement declaring that "Dr. Carr was at no time involved in the case" and thanking the ship's surgeon for foregoing a vacation and crossing the ocean to help in clearing up the mystery.

Quakes Hit Tokyo Twice in 5 Days

Terrified People Rush to Streets Only to Learn Damage Is Slight.

Tokyo, June 26 (A.P.).—For the second time in five days, Tokyo was shaken by an earthquake at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. The shock also was felt along the coast line and in Tochigi, Ibaraki, Gumma and Fukushima prefectures.

Inhabitants of Tokyo, Mayebashi, Konohama and other cities pushed into the streets, terrified, but there were no indications of damage. The shock was perceptible here for about 1 minute.

Mount Yakegatake, in Nagano perfecture, erupted violently preceding the shock. Central observatory experts said today's quake apparently centered about 160 miles northeast of here, probably in the sea.

Wellington, New Zealand, June 23 (A.P.).—An earthquake shock of prolonged intensity struck Wairoa, Nuhaka and Morere today, doing minor damage to buildings.

Well .. why don't you get me a modern gas range?

This poor fellow is going through an experience so often defined in our comic strips. He has invited two of "the boys" to dinner, telling them what a "wonderful cook" the little wife was, and she has refused to have them for reasons he should have known long ago.

In short, she refuses to stake her reputation on another meal cooked on that old kitchen range.

It isn't her fault. Many times she has hinted that a Modern Gas Range with Insulation and Oven Heat Control would lessen her tasks considerably. The Control Dial on a modern range regulates heat automatically. Insulation keeps the heat in the oven, where it belongs, and takes much of the drudgery out of cooking. With a Modern Gas Range there would be no failures, no uncertainty to prevent invitations to dinner. Yet he has delayed.

Why not prevent such common occurrences and in the long run save money by getting a modern gas range with Insulation and Oven Heat Control? A small down payment and the balance on liberal terms (there are no finance charges) will put one in your home.

There are some earlier models with up-to-date features selling at remarkably low prices. Drop in at any of our display rooms and while you are there, ask about our "Bargain Basement."

Medical Regiment Camp Dates Set

Maryland Unit Will Enter Training at Carlisle Barracks July 25.

Baltimore, June 23 (A.P.).—Officers and men of the 104th Medical Regiment, Maryland National Guard, are preparing for the annual summer encampment period at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., which will be held from July 25 to August 8.

The authorized strength of the Maryland units is 246 men, 22 officers and a warrant officer, which has not yet quite been reached.

Included in the regiment, besides the Maryland units, are the 110th Hospital Company of Danville, Va., with 60 men, and the 110th Ambulance Company of Norfolk, with a strength of 50 men. The Maryland units consist of the hospital, ambulance and service companies of Baltimore and the collecting company of Towson, Baltimore County.

Barkley, Hurt in Wreck, To Quit Hospital Soon

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 23 (A.P.).—The condition of United States Senator A. W. Barkley, of Paducah, Ky., injured in an automobile accident, was reported satisfactory at a Parkersburg hospital today. Physicians said he would be able to be moved to his home within four or five days.

Senator Barkley was driving from Danville, Ohio, last night, when his automobile skidded and struck a pole. He suffered a broken right knee and broken left wrist.

Kingwood, W. Va., Bank Is Closed by Examiner

Kingwood, W. Va., June 23 (A.P.).—The Kingwood National Bank was closed today by H. F. Stokes, national bank examiner. The reason for the closing was not announced.

The bank was capitalized at $25,000 and on December 31, 1930, reported surplus and undivided profits of $23,140.06, assets of $337,366.80, and deposits of $273,219.60.

RED ACTIVITIES HIT BY VIRGINIA V.F.W.

Organization Asks Congress to Make Armistice Day National Holiday.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 23.—Veterans of Foreign Wars in annual state convention today urged public school teachers to cooperate with them in keeping communistic and socialistic literature from pupils. Another resolution decried the wearing of Sam Brown military belts by drivers of motor buses, and requested bus companies to abandon the practice.

Other resolutions passed included: Petitioning Congress to make Armistice Day a national holiday; capitation tax exemption for Spanish-American and World War veterans; establishment of a hostess house at the Government leper colony, Carrville, La.; against free transportation to France in 1933 by the Government for World War veterans; against playing up crime news by the press and motion pictures and more rigid movie censorship.

Harrisonburg Post Given Medal.

The convention voted a silver cup to Rion-Bowman Post, Harrisonburg, Va., for work in establishing three new posts in the last 60 days.

Luther T. Snell, Portsmouth, was unanimously elected commander of the veterans' organization, succeeding A. O. Lynch, Norfolk. Others elected were: Senior and junior vice commanders, J. H. Falwell, Roanoke, and D. Lawrence Dovel, Harrisonburg; quartermaster, Thomas Warren, Winchester; judge advocate, A. O. Lynch, Norfolk; surgeon, Dr. Benjamin B. Dutton, Winchester; chaplain, George D. Whitlow, Roanoke; administration councilors to fill vacancies, F. B. Dearing, Lexington, and A. Lee Coble, Winchester. Adjutant and nine other officers are to be appointed. Officers were installed by Edwin S. Bettleheim, jr., national legislative chairman, Washington. The convention voted unanimously to hold next year's encampment in Lexington.

Auxiliary Officers Named.

Addressing the ladies' auxiliary, Mrs. Bessie Hanken, Revere, Mass., past national president, urged Virginia members to work for upbuilding of home life against spread of communistic ideas.

Mrs. Marie J. Nerren, Roanoke, was unanimously reelected auxiliary president. Others elected were: Vice presidents, Mrs. Nora E. Toppin, Harrisonburg, and Mrs. S. G. Walker, Portsmouth; treasurer, Mrs. Bessie Creamer, Portsmouth; secretary, Mrs. Elsie N. Whitlow, Roanoke; chaplain, Mrs. Minnie Sites, Harrisonburg; conductress, Mrs. J. B. Sawyer, Portsmouth; guard, Mrs. Carrie M. Eacho, Hampton; council of administration, Mrs. Catherine B. Hyden, Harrisonburg; Mrs. J. F. Sunderland, Richmond; Mrs. Sallie Padgett, Newport News, and Mrs. Lannie Hesselschwardt, Portsmouth.

Farm House Wrecked By Bolt of Lightning

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 23.—Almost duplicating the damage done by lightning last month on the Moler farm, near Monticello, a bolt this afternoon demolished the home of Lloyd A. Ward, dairyman and farmer, each of Charlottesville.

The six room stucco bungalow was so badly wrecked that the owner does not consider repair practicable.

Bedford to Havest Fine Wheat Crop

Machinery Is Now Used for Nearly All of Gathering.

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., June 23.—Wheat growers of Belford County are in the midst of wheat harvesting. The crop is said to be the best raised in this county for years and the yield at thrashing time is expected to be large. The acreage in the county is no larger, however, than for several years.

H. W. Powers, superintendent of the county farm, has exhibited some wheat heads which have as many as six large grains to the mesh.

Machinery is used for the harvesting of nearly all the wheat in this county now, the cradle being used only on rough and steep land. Many of the larger farmers owning harvesters, harvest the crops of those of the community having only a small acreage and owning no harvesting machinery.

The oat crop this season is of a very fine quality. More oats were sown than usual to provide an early crop for stock.

Hoover Asked to Road Meeting.

Charlotte, N. C., June 23 (A.P.).—President Hoover was invited to deliver an address before the convention of the United States Good Roads Association at Birmingham, October 12 to 15, T. L. Kirkpatrick, of Charlotte, the association president, extended the invitation.

FRANCE'S PROBLEM.

The world is apprehensive that the French government may fail to see that its best interest is to concur promptly with other nations in the execution of the Hoover proposal. The French cabinet is at work on a reply, and intimations are given that this reply will take the form of a counter-proposal, insisting that France is unwilling to postpone the unconditional payments which Germany must make under the Young plan. These unconditional payments have already been anticipated in the formation of the French budget, and if they should be postponed France would be compelled to look elsewhere to find an equivalent amount.

One feature of the situation seems to have been ignored in reports from France, although no doubt the French cabinet has it under consideration. This is the fact that Germany is empowered under the Young plan to suspend conditional payments. If France should refuse to cooperate with the other powers in executing the Hoover proposal, Germany of course would exercise the right to suspend conditional payments to France. France would thus collect only the unconditional payment, amounting to $110,000,000. But this sum would be required to pay the United States $50,000,000 and Great Britain $60,000,000 on war debt account. So France would not be the gainer by insisting upon exacting from Germany the unconditional payment, unless the United States and Great Britain suspended debt collections from France. Would they grant this moratorium to France, notwithstanding France's refusal to grant a moratorium to Germany? The answer is obvious.

The danger of having Germany suspend conditional payments will doubtless induce France to see the wisdom of cooperating with the other powers in a universal debt holiday. By cooperation, Germany will be aided, practically without cost to France; and by refusing to cooperate, France faces the probability of long postponement of conditional payments that would otherwise be forthcoming.

The splendid response of world industry, finance and markets to the Hoover proposal was based largely upon the expectation that the plan would be immediately approved by all powers concerned. The psychological effect of this about-face toward prosperity has been very valuable already, in dollars and cents, to France as well as to other countries. The French government may be swayed toward cooperation when the business interests of France perceive that the proposed moratorium has already improved their condition and would increase their prosperity if made effective.

France is figuring out this question on the basis of self-interest, as she has a right to do. It is evident that President Hoover, before he made the proposal, studied it from the French viewpoint and ascertained that France would gain, rather than lose, by the universal debt holiday. When the French government discovers this fact it may agree to the proposal, notwithstanding the necessity for recounting in the Chamber of Deputies the danger of doing anything that might help Germany. Politicians in France will ring the changes on this theme; but if cold facts are forthcoming from their government, proving that France loses nothing by cooperation, and runs the risk of losing conditional payments by refusing to cooperate, there will be little substance in mere political opposition. Whether or not the French people and parliament will support the government in a policy of reason and cooperation, or stand against the proposal merely because it helps Germany, is a question that will soon be answered.

WHAT AMERICA SPENDS.

Business men of the United States will be able to find nothing but encouragement in the finding of the Census Bureau that domestic retail trade absorbs more than $53,000,000,000 worth of goods per year. Never before in the history of any nation has there been such widespread distribution of the products of industry. This stupendous total of sales should help American producers and merchants appreciate the value of the domestic market.

Americans are good spenders. It is astounding to note that the average family of three to five persons spent from $1,250 to $2,000 for retail purchases in 1929. Nor is it less notable that 1,549,000 retail stores do an average business amounting to $32,297 per year. These figures do not include the large amounts spent for laundry, garage work and similar services. Yet they account for about two-thirds of the total national income.

The value of this census of distribution to business men can not easily be overestimated. For the first time in history American commercial institutions know the distribution of stores and purchasing power throughout the country. Henceforth they will be able to plan their sales and distribution on facts. This survey should prove to be worth far more than the $4,500,000 which it cost the Government.

Retail sales have declined somewhat during the last year and a half, but not nearly so much as wholesale trade. Much of the decrease is accounted for by the drastic slump in commodity prices. For the most part the American people continue to spend a large share of what they earn. Their purchasing power is tremendous in spite of the depression. As confidence in the future returns a larger portion of family budgets will be poured into retail trade. Only one result can follow such a course. Greater demands will be made upon wholesalers and they in turn will purchase more from farms and factories. The money value of goods which thus flow from producer to consumer may be lower, but there is no reason why the volume of business should not steadily gain.

Knowledge that the American people have $53,000,000,000 to spend in strictly retail trade emphasizes the wisdom of a protective policy. No other nation approaches such a purchasing power. Consequently, no other country has opportunities for business comparable to those of the United States. It becomes a duty on the part of the Government to give American capital and labor the first chance of supplying this vast market which American ingenuity has created.

NO SAILORS.

A fierce indictment of the personnel of the United States Navy were spread before the world last week by Assistant Secretary Jahncke. He expressed the opinion that there were not enough old-time shellbacks in the crews of the entire Atlantic fleet to navigate Old Ironsides from Nantucket to Norfolk, to say nothing of sailing the old vessel through the tortuous channel of the Potomac. There are not threescore jackies in the entire United States Navy, according to Mr. Jahncke, who can "hand, reef and steer," and he even intimates that although the reconditioned Ironsides has only two sails he would be stumped if called upon to find enough men in the entire Navy who could be trusted to bend or furl that canvas.

Forty years ago, when Mr. Jahncke was a very small boy, there were squadrons and fleets of schooners in the ice trade between Washington and Maine whose crews could have sailed the Ironsides, or any other frigate, bark, "square-rigger," barkentine, brig or schooner from Oslo to the Sargasso Sea, or from Stralsund to Apia, on a diet of salt horse and hard tack, provided they were permitted to "splice the main brace" whenever the sun was over the foreyard. But those days are gone, never to return.

There are no sailors in the Navy today. Instead the personnel is made up of carpenters, plumbers, electricians, barbers, bakers, cooks, bricklayers, blacksmiths, builders and members of every conceivable calling except that of a sailor. A battleship carries enough material to build a modern village, and in the crew can be found artisans who can install "all modern improvements," including steam heat, electric light, radio, telephone and refrigeration. But there are not a dozen jackies among the entire crew who could rig up a jury mast or bend a stuns'l.

Nor is the commissioned personnel any better qualified than those "before the mast," according to former Assistant Secretary Franklin Roosevelt, who at a dinner in New York recently told the story of the captain of an American warship who called upon an ensign to "shoot the sun." The junior obeyed, and handed his calculations to the "old man," who glanced at the figures and then said, solemnly: "Remove your cap. We are, according to your calculations, directly in the middle of Westminster Abbey, the Valhalla of so many of England's illustrious dead."

Old Ironsides will not sail up the Potomac to Washington for, besides lacking a crew of sailors, she has only two sails and they are for show rather than for service.

THAT BALANCED DIET.

Americans are great food faddists, and there is no excuse for fat folks except that they eat too much. So the doctors agree in no less an assemblage than that of the American Medical Association. They held a special session in Philadelphia on diets and dinners, thinness and obesity, beginning with a demolition of the popular impression that a fat man is always happy and gay. Many of them, it may be a base satisfaction to know, are high-strung and emotional, they have insomnia, and are possessed of neurosis just like other folks.

But beware of the get-thin-quick diets, the doctors say. Don't depart radically and rapidly from established food habits. Overplump persons acquire a passion for food that is akin to the craving of the chronic alcoholics' desire for strong drink, but they should not apply the curb too abruptly. Some of the extreme diet rules may lead to various forms of neurosis. Don't try to melt away flesh faster than two pounds a week.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, chairman of the committee on foods and editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, told the convention that too much importance as foods was being given to certain "glorified malted milks," tomato juices and chocolate drinks and warned that "everybody seems to be going crazy over vitamin D, as though it would assure the nation bigger and better men and women." The doctor is rather severe on the extremes to which Americans go in the matter of health fads—their all-or-nothing policies, as he calls them.

"If they are told," says Dr. Fishbein, "that the consumption of a certain amount of orange juice is healthful because it provides vitamin C and tends to overcome acidosis, they are likely to drink so much orange juice as to upset the digestion and make impossible the taking of additional necessary food substances. If they are told that vitamins are healthful they buy anything for which a vitamin claim may be made."

And what do the good doctors advise after all the warnings and lectures? Little more than moderation and variety. They tell us to realize that the human being can not take more than 6,000 calories a day; that the average man eats 4,000, and that probably 3,000 would be quite sufficient. Such a diet should, naturally, include all the essential food substances, and it is generally agreed that they will be provided in the vast majority of cases for any one who eats well balanced meals that include meats, fruits, cereals, vegetables, milk and eggs.

Jim Ham Lewis will never have it thrown up to him that he got into the Senate by a close shave.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 23.—The immediate effect of the proposal of the President for the relief of Germany appears to be good. When analyzed the plan means that German creditors are to relieve her from paying about $425,000,000 during the coming year. Of this amount our taxpayers are to furnish directly and indirectly about $245,000,000 and those of France about $100,000,000. Great Britain and other nations are affected very little. Nearly all that they furnish Germany some other countries will furnish them.

Looked at in another way the proposal extinguishes no debts, but gives a year of extended time for their payment. This is in complete accord with our principle of granting sufficient time to debtor nations. We have done that in each case besides making large loans to all Europe and accounting for all private alien property to Germany.

The greatest need of Europe is good will. If the proposal increases that the result will be well worth all that it costs. If by the refusal of some nation to concur, or otherwise ill will is produced, the result will be negative. In any event, we have offered to do our part. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

SHORTER X-RAYS

From the New York Herald Tribune.

If a prize is awarded this month for the best contribution to the scientific meetings at Pasadena, as usually is done at the winter meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, it will not be surprising if it goes to the two German engineers, Profs. Lange and Brasch, for their really remarkable accomplishment of an X-ray tube operating at nearly 3,000,000 volts and generating rays substantially shorter than any previously available except from radium. The new tube is a triumph of detail. No essentially new principle is involved. What the two Berlin physicists have accomplished is the overcoming of innumerable small obstacles which have stood in the way of experimenters on this side of the water.

For an article of such common use by physicians and dentists, the X-ray tube is surprisingly little understood by the public. The secret is electric bullets. Imagine a machine gun firing steel bullets at a sheet of boiler iron. The impacts of the bullets would set the iron plate into vibration. That vibration would emit a sound. The sound is an analogy of the X-rays. The machine gun bullets are analogies of the electron bullets inside the X-ray tube. Prof. Richtmyer, of Cornell, has a similar illustration which he uses in his lectures. He pours a stream of shot into a dishpan, making the pan send out a noise. The noise, he says, is like the X-rays; the particles of shot are like the particles of electricity inside the tube.

The internal essentials of an X-ray tube are a small block of metal called the target and some arrangement for bombarding this with electrons. Under this bombardment the atoms of the metal target "sing" with vibrations, like the iron plate before the machine gun or the dishpan under the falling shot. The faster the electron stream the higher pitched the singing "note" which the atoms of the target produce. This note is the X-rays; although these rays belong, of course, to the ether-wave series, like light and radio waves, not to the type of waves that create sound in the air.

Where high electric voltage is important is in shooting the electrons at the target. The farther Prof. Richtmyer's shot fall under the influence of gravity the faster they move and the harder they hit the dishpan. In the X-ray tube electricity takes the place of gravity as the force that moves the electrons, and the stronger this force—which means the higher the electric voltage—the faster the electrons will move, the harder they will hit the target and the shorter will be the X-rays produced; for shortness of these rays in wave length is the equivalent of higher pitch in sounds. The extremely short rays yielded by the new German tube will be more penetrating than rays from tubes of lower voltage in which the electrons hit their metal targets less violently. This means that the new rays will penetrate matter better, so that they may be used for deeper penetration of human tissues and industrially for the examination of thicker metal castings and similar objects.

POST HASTE.

Probably it is electric fan purchases that make Washingtonians the largest buyers in the country.

Possibly the white metalists noticed the rise of silver along with stocks and other commodities.

The debt proposal inflated stock values by billions. They will stay up if France approaches the balloon with sharp points well covered.

Secretary Mellon is getting a degree at Cambridge. But why isn't some one being doctored in Paris?

When heat attacks on the Capital are reinforced by General Humidity the opposition simply melts.

The suggestion from a Geneva paper that "debt payments once suspended would probably never be resumed," is entirely premature.

Returning Mayor Porter says that "if the French people want to drink, that's their business, and if I don't, that's my business." But he will have to watch his step now that he is back in the United States.

It is agreeable to find the Sage of Northampton confirming our editorial opinion that farm life is fine for the other fellow.

Objection to showing the insignificance of silver production in comparison with the egg crop is unfounded. They are both byproducts. More than 65 per cent of American silver is recovered in connection with the mining of other metals. Poultry, too, is a side issue.

Retail sales in the United States exceed $53,000,000,000 a year. Is it any wonder Europe resents our conservation of such a market?

Headlines all say: "World Markets Go On Boom." But remember they can fall down and go ditto.

Doubtless Mr. Raskob is doing all he can in Paris to have France make the debt proposal fine campaign material for Hoover.

The census showing that there is a radio in every third home explains why it is impossible to get a house that isn't next to one.

"The Yanks are coming—through," pleases Germany a lot better than that shorter version of '17.

Why are not landlords and bankers as generous with time as Presidents?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE BANQUET SPEAKER'S LOT.

The banquet speaker held 'em fast
From introduction to the last.
Big business men, severe and grim,
Admiringly looked up to him
And whispered: "Listen well we should;
This orator is very good."

He told them what they ought to do
And plainly made them like it, too.
When thirty minutes' time had gone
They rose and begged him to go on.
Grave men, by oratory stirred,
Called him the best they'd ever heard.

At last he closed in wild acclaim.
To him great financiers came
And shook his hand and slapped his back,
Then went upstairs their grips to pack.
He'd made them laugh, he'd made them sob,
But no one offered him a job.

Next day in every bank and store
Business proceeded as before.
Nothing was changed; the men he'd stirred
Remembered him as one they'd heard,
Which merely proves that busy men
Enjoy a speaker now and then.

If Nobody Could Change Jobs, Would the Young Be Allowed to Choose One Lightly?

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

WHAT do people mean when they speak of the "divorce evil?"

Do they mean that all divorce is wrong?

Or do they mean that divorce seems evil because it terminates an ever-increasing number of marriages?

Do you believe that people once mated should be required to live on as man and wife despite cruelty, neglect and malice?

If you grant that some conditions justify divorce, where shall you draw the line?

How much cruelty, neglect or malice is required to justify it?

It is obvious that people do not ask for a legal separation if their life together is enjoyable. Is it evil for them to separate if their life together is filled with bitterness and resentment?

If you lived with a mate you had learned to despise, so that the sound of his voice and the touch of his hand filled you with loathing, would you think it evil to end your marriage?

If not, why should you deny the right of separation to others who find their union unbearable?

But, you say, they made their own bed; let them lie in it. If they weren't suited to one another, they shouldn't have married.

But what right have you—or other men—to say that any two citizens of a free land shall continue a private relationship they wish to terminate?

It is humanly impossible for any two people, no matter how long or well they have known one another, to know what their reactions will be when they live together, in the unreserved intimacy of marriage.

And if in this intimacy they discover that causes beyond their control doom them to unhappiness and dissatisfaction while they live together, does their tragic mistakes justify life-long punishment?

Is the evil in divorce, or in the marrige that makes divorce seem necessary?

The ancients considered an ounce of prevention worth a pound of cure.

Wouldn't it be wiser and more humane to safeguard the young and inexperienced and make every possible effort to prevent unwise marriages, rather than make marriage easy and punish those who blunder?

The first business of humane laws is not to punish the criminal but to prevent the crime.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Uphold the President.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

President Hoover's appeal for a one-year holiday on war debt and reparations payments to prevent the collapse of Germany in its present economic plight is also a call for a holiday on politics so far as this question is concerned. The nonpartisan nature of the movement is made amply plain in the proposal. "Subject to confirmation by Congress," declares the White House statement, "the American Government will postpone all payments upon the debts of foreign governments to the American Government payable during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, conditional on a like postponement for one year of all payments on intergovernmental debts owing the important creditor powers," and the President appeals directly to the American people to "be wise creditors in their own interest and be good neighbors."

France Would Gain.

New York Herald-Tribune.

The French government, like every other government, must calculate where its own true interest lies. It must know that to insist on retaining the reparations payments would most probably defeat the whole proposal, for, while American opinion appears fully ready to support Mr. Hoover's plan in its present form, it is almost inconceivable that it would indorse any moratorium in which the entire burden fell upon ourselves alone. To raise that issue would destroy most of the psychological as well as a large part of the practical usefulness of the moratorium idea. In that case German collapse would be doubly imminent and France would have to accept the risks of a break-up of the whole reparations and treaty system—risks ultimately more serious than the moratorium can involve.

Hoover Breaks the Ice.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Much more is expected of this step than can be counted in dollars and cents. The world for two years has been slipping and floundering in an economic morass. Each nation has done what it could for its own, but internationally nothing was done. No government seemed to have the courage to make the first move for a concerted attack upon the situation, for such action, it was recognized, would mean unequal sacrifice. Now America, through President Hoover, has spoken.

If the first signs of returning confidence and optimism are borne out in the sequel, if by this temporary relief in a vexing international financial situation the peoples of the world are led to look forward to the future with security, then the course recommended by President Hoover will be worth all it costs, and more. The experiment, at any rate, merits a fair and courageous trial.

Up They Went.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The stock market and the thermometer both responded to President Hoover's proposal to suspend war debt and reparations payments.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Conversion of Old Reservoirs Into Water Playgrounds for Children During Summer Months Is Suggested.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Sometime during the latter part of last winter the reservoir on Sixteenth street was flooded with several feet of water for ice-skating purposes. But after the reservoir was flooded there was no freezing weather, hence there was no skating.

Now that warm weather is with us to stay for a while, I think that it would be a good idea to flood one of the basins to a depth of 3 feet, so that the youngsters can play in the water and keep cool. The other basin might be used as a swimming pool for adults. As conditions now exist, every week-end hundreds of youngsters go down to Rock Creek and wade around in the water. It is a known fact that this stream is polluted. Children risk infection or disease by playing in it.

Making a water playground out of the Sixteenth Street Reservoir would not be a laborious task. The only essential that is lacking is water, and that can be easily supplied. Of course, if this were done there would have to be several persons employed as life guards or, rather, guardians of the children's safety. The Sixteenth Street Reservoir has been idle for many months, and it really should be put to some beneficial use.

Edison Is Praised for His Persistent Work in the Development of a Domestic Rubber Supply.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is no man in this world who enjoys work more than the venerable Thomas A. Edison. He works to accomplish definite objectives; yet the main reason why he works so much is because he loves it. He thrives on work, and he keeps young by working. Though he is 84 years old, any one looking at his accomplishments in the past decade, would regard him as a young hard-working and energetic man in the prime of life.

Many months ago Mr. Edison undertook the task of making rubber from goldenrod. He received quite a bit of publicity at first as it was a novel idea. The glamour of the undertaking wore off and he kept seeking the means to make his experiment a success. Most people even forgot that he was at work on the rubber project. He was at work though, and now he announces that he has successfully vulcanized synthetic rubber made from goldenrod at his plantation in Florida. He is not through with this experiment. He intends to continue working on it at his home in Orange. Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone are cooperating with Mr. Edison. What a perfect combination they make. It is a trio that would be very hard to beat.

Baths for Birds Will Entice Charming Feathered Folk to Live in Your Backyard.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This is the time of the year when people can easily make friends with the birds by placing bird baths in their yards. The yards should contain a few trees or a bit of shubbery if one has hopes of birds lingering for a while. A bird bath placed in a yard that is entirely open might draw some birds because they are thirsty, but as soon as their thirst is quenched the feathered folk will fly to some tree in order to be in the shade. A yard containing numerous trees, considerable shrubbery and a bird bath, is a regular Garden of Eden for the feathered folk in the summer time. The birds sing, flit about, have their spats over preference of the bath, and it is a sight that is enlightening as well as very interesting.

Bird are rather timid upon their first visit, but after they become acquainted with the surroundings they will regard a person as part of the landscape. It does not take the birds long to lose what little timidity they possess, and then the person watching them can learn a great deal about their habits and manner of life.

Subscriber Complains Because Municipal Swimming Pool Is Closed on Sunday.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The municipal swimming pool at Seventeenth and B streets is open six days of the week but it is closed on Sunday. Hundreds of men and women would like to swim during the week but are prevented from doing so by their employment.

When they are free the pool is not open. There was a time when the pool was open on Sundays. Why should it not be available every day of the week?

Many working people can not afford to pay what the privately owned pools charge. Then there are many who do not possess cars to take them to the nearby beaches. The municipal pool should be open on Sunday to permit the man who works hard all week to take a refreshing swim.

A Washington Mother Protests Against Imprisonment of Disobedient Boy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I noticed with considerable regret that there were no letters from mothers in protest against Mrs. Perry's choice of punishment for her 4-year-old child.

Wife of Envoy To Depart for Home in Chile

Mme. Davila Will Go to New York Tomorrow With Children.

SETTING out for the long journey to her homeland Mme. Davila, wife of the Ambassador of Chile, will leave tomorrow for New York for a week's visit prior to sailing on the Santa Clara July 5 for Santiago. She will take with her her two children, Violette and Luz.

That the ambassador will accompany her is a possibility, yet no definite plans have been made by the envoy pending developments from another of the famous and "lengthy" three-a-week telephone conversations between the embassy in Washington and the foreign office in far away Chile. Recent messages from the home office in Santiago indicate the wish of the minister of foreign affairs that Ambassador Davila proceed to Chile by way of Uruguay, Brazil and Argentina, a different route from that arranged by his family who will sail via Panama and the west coast of South America.

Into the proposed survey of the three South American countries is read an interesting page of politics, the ever present motif in the daily chronicle of a diplomat. If Mr. Davila enters upon the long trip to the three countries it would be his initial visit to Uruguay and Brazil.

And in the ambassador's long absence from Washington, too, is read an element of speculation whether the astute politician who represents South America's southernost country, might not ultimately succumb to the entreaty of powerful political friends who would place him in the president's chair in Chile. The return of Ambassador and Mme. Davila has been tentatively set for next winter.

In the interim, who, asks the initiated, will be named as charge d'affaires of the embassy in Washington? Rumor has it that the brilliant young Mr. Benjamin Cohen, quondam first secretary of the embassy in the regime of Ambassador Cruchaga, may be selected by a discriminating government? Although youthful, as diplomats go, Mr. Cohen's flair for diplomacy was well established a few years ago when he set a splendid record of achievement here, attaining the heights especially in the important capacity of interpreter for international conferences, a gift pleasantly accentuated by his fluent command of seven or eight languages.

Wizard of languages of the major countries, humorist and recognized intellectual, Mr. Cohen's knowledge of international law has placed him in demand as an interpreter at various sessions of importance although he still is in his thirties. Withal he is reported to "stand in" well with leaders of influence in his own country.

With the prolonged absence of Mme. Davila there will be a noticeable lull in festivities in the embassy noted for its well planned festivities during the season. An artist of marked talent with a penchant for the modernistic in her interpretation Mme. Davila has applied to the interior furnishings of the embassy the striking originality which is characteristic of her paintings.

Predominating in the drawing rooms of the embassy are crimson tones in hangings, rugs and upholstery, a definite introduction to the unusual trio of colors in the dining room where Mme. Davila has combined black, silver and red as a background for the rare silver service, vases, &c., of Peruvian and Chilean handwrought silver. These contrast with the numerous table pieces of black crystal and the striking lacquer bowls in black and red. Long black tapers decorate the tables and hangings of modernistic design indicate the trend of Mme. Davila's art, which, friends declare, is cubistic like her own individualistic costumes of black and white and "bias" lines and her distinctive jewelry, which is cubistic to a degree of enviable perfection.

The Ambassador of Japan, Mr. Debuchi, was the guest of honor at a reception given in Baltimore yesterday afternoon by the Rotary Club when Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, Mayor Jackson, Mr. David C. Winnebrenner 3d, Senator Tydings, Senator Goldsborough and other officials were present.

The reception was held following a luncheon given in honor of the Ambassador by the Rotary Club at the Hotel Rennert.

New Argentine Ambassador Will Arrive on Saturday.

The newly appointed Argentine Ambassador, Senor Felipe Espil, will arrive in Washington from New York on Saturday to assume the duties of his post. He has been in New York since his recent appointment and is remaining there to bid farewell to the retiring ambassador, Senor Malbran, who will leave for New York Friday preparatory to sailing Saturday for South America.

Senor Malbran will go to London in a few weeks, having been appointed Ambassador to England.

The former Minister to Sweden, Mr. Ira Nelson Morris, last week joined Mrs. Morris in Berlin, where they will be for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Morris recently crossed from New York and were in Paris for a week or two before going to Germany.

Mr. Dudley Morgan, of Tulsa, Okla., has come from his home to Washington to visit his mother and sister.

Maj. Friedman To Be Speaker At Arts Club

Famous Authority on Cryptograms to Talk Tomorrow Night.

Maj. William F. Friedman, authority on cryptograms, will be the guest of honor and speaker at the Arts Club tomorrow evening, when he will talk on the mysterious topic, "A Crypt Analyst's Investigation of the Baconian Chapter." Maj. Friedman's outstanding work as chief of the intelligence service of the War Department has placed him well to the top of masters of the mystic realm of code language.

During the war Maj. Friedman's uncanny skill in deciphering code proved invaluable to the department, his findings sometimes resulting, too, in humorous translations. Convinced that there never will be a code machine capable of producing messages which the human mind can not decipher, Maj. Friedman's faith in human intelligence is a refreshing note.

The hosts tomorrow evening will be Mrs. Maude Howell Smith and Mr. Lewis Lofton Moneyway.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnes Sail for Europe Today.

The American Vice Consul to Sofia and Mrs. Frank Barnes will sail today on the Ile de France for their post. Also sailing on the liner will be Mr. Marc Peter, jr., son of the Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter.

Judge William S. Kenyon, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, is a guest at the Mayflower while in Washington for the final meetings of the National Commission of Law Observance and Enforcement. He and Mrs. Kenyon will spend the summer at their home in Maine. Mr. Frank J. Loesch, of Chicago, and Mr. Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., who are members of the commission, are also in Washington, at the Mayflower. Mrs. Loesch and her mother, Mrs. Stephen G. Browning, are summering in Cooperstown, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies will close their home on Massachusetts avenue the first of the month, and, with their two daughters, Miss Rahel Davies and Miss Emlen Davies, will go to New York. They will visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Patten Cheeseborough, jr., at their home in Bronxville for some time.

Mrs. William Wheatley Is Visiting in Paris.

Mrs. William Wheatley, in the course of an extended trip abroad is now in Paris. She will leave shortly for Italy to spend several weeks. Mrs. Wheatley will not return to her home on Q street until after the first of October.

Miss Audrey Barret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barret, of New York and Baltimore, is the guest of Miss Doris Duke, daughter of Mrs. James B. Duke, in Deauville. She will return to this country to spend part of the summer with her parents and her sister, Miss Hermione Barret, at Bar Harbor.

Capital Heat Sends Society Off to Coast

Residents Are Seeking Respite at Famed Seaside Spots.

Midsummer heat having descended on Washington, members of the residential set are hastening their plans for the season. A number are already established at resorts throughout the country and by July 4 considerable inroads will have been made in the ranks of society.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Breckinridge are established at their country home in York Harbor, Me., where they will have with them their sons, and their daughter, Miss Mary Marvin Breckinridge, who plans to spend the month of August there. She will leave Washington July 1 for New York to spend several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge have been occupying Mrs. Alvin Dodd's home in Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dwight will close their residence on Kalorama circle Monday, and accompanied by their subdeb daughter, Miss Mary Dwight, will motor West to spend the month of July at their home on Lake Huron, Mich. In August they will go to Banff, Alberta, Canada, returning to Washington in the fall, when Miss Dwight will go to school in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Perot and their daughters, Miss Katherine E. Perot and Miss Sarah Lee Perot, will leave today for their summer home at Easthampton, Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. Juan Mayer have closed their house on Sixteenth street and are visiting Mrs. John Reyburn and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Reyburn, in New London, Conn.

Mrs. William Huntington, of Bradenton, Fla., reverses the order of things and will come to Washington to spend a month or more with Maj. and Mrs. David B. Wills. She is now en route on her yacht, the Maribel. Maj. and Mrs. Wills had as their guests for the week-end Mr. Arthur Morris, of New York, and his son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. Earle Kincaid, U. S. N., and Mrs. Kincaid. Lieut. Kincaid has been transferred to Annapolis from California for duty and he and Mrs. Kincaid have taken a house in the Maryland capital.

Mrs. Daniel C. Stapleton will spend July at Poland Springs, Me., while her daughter, Miss Stellita Stapleton, is at Camp Holton, and in August will be accompanied to Northeast Harbor, Me., by her daughter.

Mrs. James Alexander Lyon and her daughter Elizabeth will leave tomorrow for Ardsley Park, at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, to be the guests of Mrs. Lyon's sister, Mrs. N. Hopkins Heft, for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Lyon have returned to their home in Hartford, Conn., after having been the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Lyon at Glenview Farm, Rockville.

Mr. and Mrs. Juan Mayer have closed their home on Sixteenth street, and are visiting Mrs. John Reyburn, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Reyburn at their home in New London, Conn. Later they will go north for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Scully and their children, Miss Kate Hyde Scully and Mr. Hall Scully spent last night in New York en route to Jamestown, R. I., where they have taken a cottage for the summer. They will leave New York today. Miss Scully has just returned from school in Paris.

Miss Mary Dwight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dwight, will leave today for Rumson, N. J., for a short visit. On her return she will go with her parents to Michican, where they will spend the remainder of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Sabin, jr., of Middleburg, Va., are staying at the Mayflower while in Washington for a brief visit. They will return tonight to their Virginia home, where they will spend the summer.

Mrs. Smith Hempstone will go soon to California, where Commander Hampstone, U. S. N., is stationed for the summer. Their children Elizabeth R. Hempstone, Mary D. Thompson Hempstone and John W. Thompson Hempstone will spend the summer at Bass Rock, Mass.

Miss Faith Adams, who is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Adams, on Massachusetts avenue, for a few days, will return soon to New York for a further visit with friends.

Dr. and Mrs. W. Duncan McKim are spending a short time in New York, where they are staying at the Westbury.

Miss Mary T. Bryden To Be Wed to Lieut. Gibbs.

Mrs. Bessie G. Bryden, of Fairhaven, Mass., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Thacher Bryden, to Lieut. George Wareham Gibbs, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. George Sabin Gibbs, of Washington. The wedding will take place in the late summer. Miss Bryden is the guest of Gen. and Mrs. Gibbs at their home on Quebec street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Brashears are entertaining a party of 30 at the Congressional Country Club at dinner and dance tomorrow night for their daughter, Miss Mildred M. Brashears, and Mr. George D. Sullivan, whose marriage will take place Saturday.

Miss Betty Milliron, of Los Angeles, will entertain the bridal party at a dinner dance tonight at the club.

The annual picnic of the Delta Delta Delta fraternity will be held this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Rock Creek Park, section 16, Beach drive. Mrs. Marc Phillips, chairman of arrangements, is assisted by Mrs. James Cumming and Mrs. Howard Eales.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanwood Cobb have left their home in Chevy Chase for an extended stay at their camp, Mast Cove, in Eliot, Me. Mr. Cobb is spending a week in Detroit, giving a course of lectures at the Detroit Teachers College. During his stay there he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. Hokan Bjornstrom Steffanson sailed Monday on the Berengaria for a short stay in Paris before going to their estate at Ruda, in Sweden. They will return to Newport in August. Mrs. Steffanson is a cousin of William Phelps Eno, of Washington, and his sister, the late Mrs. Charles Boughton Wood, and used frequently to visit Mrs. Wood here.

YOUR NAME

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

AN INTERESTING example of the manner in which our modern family names reflect the life of early days is provided by the three names "Walker," "Tucker" and "Fuller." The frequency with which these names are found clearly indicates the importance in early England of the industry which they typify, namely, cloth making. All three names indicate the same occupation, that of "waulking" or trampling cloth, a part of the early crude method of manufacture. In the early Manchester directories all the fullers and cloth dressers were called "walkers." At the present time in England "Fuller" is most common in the south and southeast, "Tucker" in the west, and "Walker" in the north.

"Walker" is derived from the old English "wealcan," which is merely the old form of our modern verb "to walk." Its original meaning was "to roll" and "to turn." However, it soon took on its present meaning and also the secondary meaning of "to trample." A walker, therefore, was one who trampled cloth. Although the origin of "Walker" is thus explained in the great majority of cases, this name has other sources which should be mentioned. It has been found that in a few cases "Walker" may be traced back to the Anglo Saxon personal name "Wealchere," which may be translated "foreign army." A man called "Walcher" was an eleventh century bishop of Durham. Thirdly, at a relatively late period "Walker" was sometimes given as a nickname to persons who became conspicuous for doing what their name (with its modern meaning) indicates. Finally, there is evidence that the name or title of "Walker" was occasionally given to foresters assigned by the king to walk within a certain space of ground entrusted to them. The Hundred Rolls includes the names of Goeffrey le Walkare, Peter le Walkar and Ralph le Walkere.

Supper Menu

Stuffed Green Peppers
Buttered Peas
Blueberry Muffins Butter
Fruit Salad
Rhubarb Fritters and Lemon Sauce

Stuffed Green Peppers

6 large green peppers
1 cup boiled rice
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup cheese, cut fine
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped onions
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons butter melted
¼ teaspoon paprika

Wash peppers, cut off tops and cut out inside pulp. Rinse well. Mix rest of ingredients. Stuff peppers. Arrange side by side in shallow pan. Add 1-3 inch of water. Bake 35 minutes in moderate oven.

Blueberry Muffins.

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup blueberries

Mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add egg and milk. Beat three minutes. Add butter and carefully fold in berries which have been stemmed, washed and drained. Half fill greased muffin pans and bake 15 minutes in moderate oven.

Fruit Salad.

1 cup diced pineapple
1 cup diced peaches
1 cup sliced bananas
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt

Chill ingredients. Combine and serve on lettuce. Add French dressing.

Rhubarb Fritters.

1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1-3 cup sugar
1 1-3 cups diced peeled rhubarb
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2-3 cup milk
2 tablespoons fat, melted

Mix ingredients and beat well. Drop by tablespoonfuls into deep hot fat. Fry until well browned on all sides. About three minutes required. Allow to drain. Dust with confectioner's sugar and serve hot.

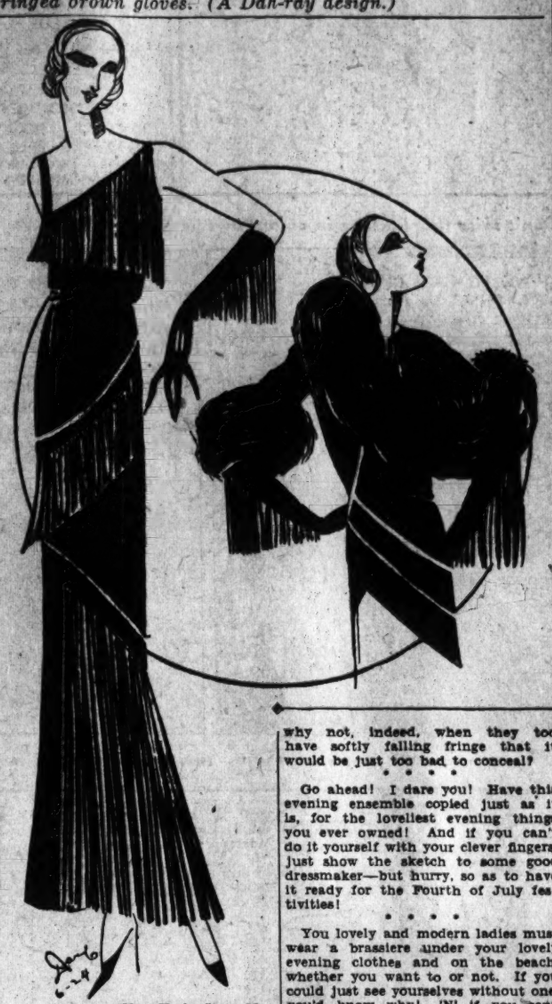
Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

Stunning dark brown crepe evening frock, elaborately fringed, worn with an unusual brown velvet wrap and fringed brown gloves. (A Dah-ray design.)



New York, June 23

THIS is the season where new materials with strange, mystifying names keep springing up all the time. And it's a comfort to those of us who love romantic tradition that lace, the aristocrat of "fabrics," continues to hold its chic place among the "upstarts."

But I must tell you that as far as evening gowns and afternoon dresses are concerned the very smartest are not those that are made entirely of lace. When lace is used, and almost every haut couturier uses it, the newer and much more subtle method is to combine it with tulle, or georgette or marquisette. The design in the lace is cut out and incrusted into the material, not lavishly but with the utmost discretion. You can see that this use of lace gives a far greater scope to the originality and ingenuity of the designer than the all-lace gown can give. Ardanse, who is past master (or mistress, rather) of this type of thing has a black marquisette evening gown with chalk-white motifs of lace incrusted into the full skirt,—and it's one of the most beautiful gowns I've seen. Another stunning gown in white has brown lace motifs incrusted into the skirt and accompanying scarf. And Lucile even used lace incrustations in an evening gown of beige faille.

And, of course, cotton lace trimmed organdie is a favorite summer evening style. And I've seen a gown for summer evenings made of sheer linen trimmed with tiny linen lace ruffles, oh, very gay and demure!

But lace really comes into its own this summer as trimming for sheer white blouses, of the tuck-in variety as well as those that either tie at the waist or end a little below it. Maggy Rouff uses a large border of Valenciennes on the reverse of a very fine organdie blouse which beautifully accentuates its transparency. And Binche lace trims a vaporous white chiffon one—the last word in lovely femininity!

• • • •

For that dance with the one man, what woman doesn't long for a gown lovelier than anything she has had before? I know just how my dear public feels—feeling that way myself once in every little while! So-o-o, naturally, I designed an evening ensemble just for the purpose of knocking 'em dead—which does things to his pride and your happiness! For the gown I used supple dark brown crepe de chine, and just yards and yards of dark brown silk fringe. You simply can't imagine the grace of this gown in motion, or out in the dark where the soft breeze whispers! 'N' the little wrap is of matching dark brown velvet, with a luxurious scarf collar and one cuff of blue fox—and one sleeve short, my darlings, to show the brown suede gloves! And why not, indeed, when they too have softly falling fringe that it would be just too bad to conceal?

• • • •

Go ahead! I dare you! Have this evening ensemble copied just as it is, for the loveliest evening things you ever owned! And if you can't do it yourself with your clever fingers, just show the sketch to some good dressmaker—but hurry, so as to have it ready for the Fourth of July festivities!

• • • •

You lovely and modern ladies must wear a brassiere under your lovely evening clothes and on the beach, whether you want to or not. If you could just see yourselves without one, you'd know why! 'N' if you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post you will find that I have designed an absolutely perfect brassiere for you, of the daintiest materials, and one that you simply can't see under your lowest cut clothes, except by the lovely firmness and improvement of your contours!

And again we remind you of the

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF JUNE 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10:10 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The astrological influences on June 24 are of a stumulating nature, and a period of extreme restlessness is predicted. It will be a time more suitable for the accomplishment of numerous and minor undertakings than for outstanding ventures. Not an unfavorable time for travel.

Children born on this June 24 will have sensitive natures, receptive brains, and a susceptibility to education. They will be full of nervous energy, and wanting in patient perseverance. Their successes will come through the help of others. They will act impulsively, often to their future regret. They will both hate and love in the extreme.

As a June 24 person, you are timid as to physical dangers, but brave in your mental and moral attitude. You stand up for your convictions, and cling to your ideals. You are cautious and prudent in most phases of your life, and are too distrustful for your own happiness. To you there are no shades of right and wrong, and you show little charity to those whom you judge as sinners.

In all your work, you are pernickety as to details, and you believe in doing anything and everything well, or not at all. You rather allow yourself to become a slave to work, rather than becoming its master. When duty calls, you are its humble servant, and your conscience never allows you to turn a deaf ear to its demands. Your position in life before 35 is uncertain, but after that age it becomes more assured.

You will be fortunate in your friendships, but less fortunate in your love affairs. You are inclined to idealize the man or woman of your heart, and when they fail to live up to your expectations, you are both unforgiving and lacking in real understanding. You have a very retentive memory, which is an asset in your work or business. It would be well, however, if you could develop a good "forgetter," when it comes to your sorrows and disappointments. You take your religious beliefs seriously and sincerely.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

The Fiend and His Car.

THE girl murders have begun for the season 1931. Fractured skulls. Dead faces turned up to the stars. State troopers all over the land roping off the "spot where the girl was found." But still the girls are stepping into strange cars to ride to horrible death with some fiend who slows up to the curb and says, "Going my way?" His way is just the way she goes. Her last despairing cry lost on the night wind in some dark deserted hole, her body tossed in crumpled helplessness into some ditch. Another girl murder to add to the list.

Every year the same story. Needless to say that any girl who steps into a strange man's car is mentally defective. It matters not that she is a competent stenographer, or that she made high school in three years. She is a defective.

At present the girl who goes riding with strangers is not arrested. She should be. Half a dozen girls in any community would be a sufficient lesson to the rest of the sisterhood hungry for thrills of the sort dispensed by thugs in stolen sedans. Why the authorities do not restrict the activities that eventually end in murder is a question for them to answer. The murderer is seldom apprehended. When he is, his counsel tells a tale of three armed men who came out of the bushes and the jury sends the girl-strangler back to the bosom of his admiring family—ready for another girl. Recently on a very warm evening in this very town, I stepped out alone for a breath of air. In the course of half an hour, three cars had slowed up to the curb, and three different half-wits had asked me to go for a ride.

Unfortunately, I do not pack a gun. A bullet or two in a new tire would be an appropriate answer to such an invitation. However, a woman giving such an answer would be held on a charge of mischief, while her annoyer would be free to go his way.

If every girl were sure that she ran the very best chance in the world of sleeping in jail when she stepped into a stranger's car, the escapade might begin to seem more what it is, and less of an adventure to her arrested mentality. Such girls can not reason. But they do know what a jail is. All this answers thirteen different letters received this week on the subjects of invitations from strangers. Myrtle's is a fair sample. Myrtle is still alive. Will she be living this time next year?

"This town is so slow. The college fellows all go home summers. The only chance a girl has got is the fellow who asks you to go for a ride. I go if I can get another girl to go with me. But even then these men only want to get fresh. And right away it is drink. I do not care about drink at all. And the other girls are afraid of going riding with a stranger. I only go with a fellow who looks my age as I know all about these older ones. My girl chum has quit me because she says I have got a bad name. What am I supposed to do evenings?"

And not knowing what to do she will, for excitement, get herself murdered in some lane.

If these girls were watched, picked up by police women, marched to a police station and placed in a hospital for observation as to their sanity it would be a poor season for girl-killers. And that answers thirteen young women in search of insult—with death as a possibility.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

GLADIOLI, DAHLIAS AND CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

DURING June, July and August, three warm months of the year, our gladioli must be kept well watered. Never for even a day permit the bed to dry out. It is better to soak the ground to the depth of a foot once a week than to sprinkle it in a superficial way every day. Then we must, if we would have fine, large flowers, cultivate the soil about the bulbs twice each week. This treatment will keep down weeds and at the same time conserves moisture. Given such care, our plants should do beautifully.

Constant cultivation at least once in ten days and after every rain is the secret of success with dahlias. As the plants grow, the feeding roots come close to the surface, so do not dig too deep when using the hoe. When the plants are a foot high begin to tie them loosely to stakes. When they have developed three or four pairs of leaves be sure to pinch out the tops to induce them to branch. Do not let dahlias, no matter what variety, suffer for want of water. Dryness at the roots will cause their growth to be checked.

Chrysanthemums from now on will demand definite care if they are to produce large, well-formed flowers. After they begin to grow you must frequently pinch the ends out of the branches to induce them to send forth more side branches. They must never be allowed to suffer from lack of water. They will be always thirsty, so do not be afraid of overwatering.

The worst and most common enemy of the chrysanthemum is the aphid. This pest arrives in late July and makes himself at home on the young ends of the shoots, and unless removed, will cause the flowers to open imperfectly. The activities of the aphid can soon be stopped if you will spray the plants twice a week with nicotine. The following spray is good for use wherever you detect aphids; you may even use it in winter on your house plants.

Spray for Aphids.

1 gallon of water.
1 cubic inch of laundry soap.
1½ teaspoonfuls of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate.

Dissolve soap in one pint of boiling water; when dissolved add to remaining three pints of the water. Then add nicotine.

Culbertson on Contract

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"AND NEVER THE TWAIN SHALL MEET."

PLAY between two teams of four at Duplicate Contract is recognized by all Bridge players as the final test of competitive skill at the Bridge table, provided the test is long enough. There are certain essential elements of the rubber game lacking, but in the main the test is fair enough.

One of the outstanding Contract matches was the second Anglo-American match in which Mrs. Culbertson, Baron Waldemar von Zedtwitz, T. A. Dightner and the writer were pitted against Col. H. M. Beasley, Sir Guy Domville, Capt. Kenneth Hogg and Mr. George Morris, as representatives of Crockfords, one of the best known of London's many Bridge Clubs.

The hand below directly contrasts the approach bidding methods of the Culbertson Standard System (used by the American team) and the "Direct" methods of the British team.

The hand:

Both sides vulnerable. North dealer. No Score.

	♠ K Q 3 ♥ K 10 ♦ A J 8 7 3 ♣ K 6 2
♠ 9 2 ♥ 8 7 ♦ Q 9 6 4 ♣ Q 10 8 7 3	N W E S	♠ A 10 7 6 4 3 ♥ Q J 4 ♦ — ♣ A J 9 5
	♠ J 5 ♥ A 9 7 5 3 2 ♦ K 10 5 2 ♣ 4

In Room 1 Mr. Lightner sat South and I sat North, opposed by Mr. Morris, West, and Capt. Hogg, East. In Room 2 Col. Beasley was South and Sir Guy Domville, North. Mrs. Culbertson was East and Baron von Zedtwitz West.

Bidding Room 1:

South	West	North	East
		1♦(1)	1♠
2♥(2)	Pass	Pass	2♠(3)
4♦(4)	Pass	4♥(5)	Double

Declarer: South
Contract: 4 ♥ Doubled
Result: N-S 10 Tricks

Bidding, Room 2

South	West	North	East
		1NT(7)	Pass
2♥(8)	Pass	2NT(9)	Pass
3NT(10)	Pass	Pass	Pass

Declarer: North
Contract: 3 NT
Result: N-S 9 Tricks against a ♠ lead by East

1—Compare North's Approach bid of one diamond in Room 1 with one notrump in Room 2. End with notrump if necessary, but always start with a biddable suit, be it even a four-card minor.

2—Mr. Lightner had a strong hand with his partner showing at least 3 honor-tricks by his Opening third-hand bid. He therefore did not fear to overcall East's bid of one Spade.

3—The bid is close. It looked to Mr. Morris as though game in hearts was not in danger.

4—Not receiving support for his heart Takeout, Mr. Lightner now jumped the Opening diamond bid to four, presenting thus a very accurate picture of his hand.

5—Assured now that distribution will fight in the army of the North and South troops, North raised the heart bid to four, a game contract.

6—Mr. Morris' double was rather optimistic, in view of the fact that his partner had consistently passed.

7—In Room 2 the English team again demonstrated its "notrump complex." East chose to lie in ambush since North was vulnerable.

8—South's four diamonds headed by a King have no special significance since North's notrump shuts out valuable information in his diamond suit.

9—Even now it would seem that North might have shown his five-card diamond suit, but the fact that the English team used no Approach bids must have made this course seem inadvisable.

10—The hand scores game, but the fact remains that the distribution of hands on suit lengths remained almost as much a mystery to the English at the end as at the beginning of the bidding. For this reason the English, though brilliant individually, fared badly enough with other hands to lose the International Match.

These Hands Know No Washday

Manhattan will protect yours too . . . and save you money on your weekly wash!

SOME things are vital to a woman's charm—regardless of her age. Soft, white hands : : : a pleasant disposition : : : vitality.

Yet some women still sacrifice them to pay for weary washday. Then they pathetically try to erase the lines stamped on their faces by washday worries—by aching backs—by tired muscles, only to learn that a week of beauty care has been washed away by a single washday.

What false economy! Right here at Manhattan we end all such grief and worry. And save you money by saving your clothes. For here the famous Net Bag System keeps out the wear that wears clothes out! Pure, palm oil soap and soft, filtered water make doubly sure your clothes will keep that fresh new look. And our modern methods get them home to you in exactly 3 days.

EAR-RINGS

WHEN JULIUS CAESAR WAS A POPULAR YOUNG SOLDIER, HE SET THE FASHION IN ROME OF EAR-RINGS FOR MEN. PRIOR TO THAT TIME THEY HAD BEEN WORN ONLY BY WOMEN AND SLAVES. SINCE CAESAR'S TIME EAR-RINGS HAVE BEEN WORN MORE OR LESS BY CERTAIN CLASSES OF MEN IN SPAIN, ITALY AND SOUTHERN FRANCE.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

CARROTS.

If a person tried to live on carrots exclusively he would get into trouble. In the first place, before he had been long on the diet he would notice that he was becoming jaundiced. His skin and his eyeballs would acquire something of the yellowish tinge occasionally seen in young babies and in adults with gall stones. However, there would be none of the aches and pains of jaundice, nor would the kidney excretion have the deep shade given it by bile.

There is a notion that eating carrots will improve the complexion. The fact is, that carrots, wind and sunshine about lead the procession of causes which spoil the complexion.

The next objection to a diet of carrots is the large volume and small food value of the vegetable. The carrot belongs to the root or tuber family. In these vegetables the root thickens up because of a deposit of starch and this, in time, is converted into woody fiber. The carrot root contains less starch than that of the potato, pound for pound. It contains more water and more fiber. Therefore, a person on a carrot diet would need to eat large quantities in order to supply even a moderate part of his bodily needs. He would be compelled to put in a considerable part of his eating as does the herbivorous cow.

Although the carrot as a principal article of diet falls far short of the requirements, as an auxiliary it is of great service. It contains a yellow pigment called carotin, which comes near to having medicinal properties. This substance contains a something that belongs to the vitamin family and is closely akin to vitamin A. It promotes growth of children and helps to protect adults from infections. In these qualities it so nearly resembles vitamin A that many think it is nothing more than that vitamin wearing something of a mask.

This carotin also contains a something that is related to hemoglobin, although it is definitely different. Persons who eat carrots, spinach and other pigmented vegetables make red blood out of them though just how it is done nobody knows exactly. In addition, young, tender, fresh carrots are rich in vitamin C.

CHANGING MILKMAN.

Mrs. W. W. writes: I have been using milk from a large milk concern for some time and I have decided to change to a smaller. Do you think the milk is much better from the smaller concern, as it comes from one station all the time?

REPLY.

This question involves no point of health.

TESTS FOR SYPHILIS.

Mrs. M. P. writes:

1. Is a blood test with negative results positive proof of the absence of syphilis?
2. Is syphilis communicable during all its stages?
3. Is the spinal fluid test dangerous?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.
3. No.

POISON IVY CONTAGIOUS.

4 L. Sisters write: Some young people of our circle get a dose of poison ivy every summer when they go swimming. Some say it is contagious and are afraid to go near those who have it.

1. Can it be avoided?
2. Cured?
3. Is it contagious?
4. Are the leaves the only means of contagion?

REPLY.

1. Yes. Stay away from the plant or wash promptly in iron water after exposure.
2. Yes.
3. No.
4. The poison is an oily substance that resides in the leaves. However, it can be absorbed by garments and other things, and may be spread in that way.

FIRE TRUCK STRUCK BY AUTO; 3 INJURED

Warrant Charges Car Driver Failed to Give Apparatus Right of Way.

Three men, one of them a volunteer fireman of Branchville, Md., were injured yesterday when an auto crashed into a fire truck responding to an alarm caused by lightning striking a telephone wire.

The injured men were Isidore Sirota, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Louis Bush, of the Bronx, New York, a passenger in the car, and Hardy Wilson, of Branchville, the fireman. Sirota was treated at Providence Hospital for lacerations of the head and a possibly dislocated shoulder and Bush for abrasions and a possible fracture of the skull. They were discharged from the hospital after treatment.

Hardy was treated by Dr. W. Allen Griffith for bruises and a long cut on the arm. Several stitches were required to close it.

According to police Sirota was coming toward Washington on the Baltimore boulevard, near Beltsville, when the fire truck crossed the road in front of him. His machine hit the rear of the truck, knocking Wilson off. The truck was driven by Ray Longnecker, another fireman.

Police said last night that warrants charging reckless driving and failing to give the right of way to a fire truck had been sworn out against Sirota. He put up collateral for his appearance in police court today.

The truck was responding to an alarm of fire in a house belonging to Mrs. N. M. Appleby. Lightning running along a phone wire is reported to have set fire to the house, doing slight damage. Although damaged to the extent of about $400, the fire truck proceeded to the blaze after the crash and the firemen soon extinguished the fire.

Teachers, Pupils To Aid Films Tests

Groups From All States Will Meet Here July 6 in Survey Session.

Groups of teachers and school children from every State in the Union will gather in Washington July 6 to participate in a series of tests to determine the value of sound films in public school instruction.

The governors of each State were asked by President Hoover to cooperate with the office of education, and a film company has agreed to prepare a number of educational films to be shown to the group.

Those from Virginia chosen to attend the three-day tests were Miss Thelma Garst, of Salem, a teacher, and Helen Fisher, of Salem, and Vernon Muse, of Vinton, pupils. West Virginia will send Miss Myra Nefflen, a teacher, of Charleston, while the students named were Mary Bruck Rohrbough, of Beverly, and Guy Nicholson, of Welch.

where his father, Arthur Myers, sr., makes his home.

The storm broke soon after 4 o'clock, when lowering clouds came in from the west and northwest. Chain lightning gashed the sky in ragged streaks and struck two houses in the southeast section.

A bolt struck the house of Mrs. John O. Stewart, 3635 Nichols avenue southeast, burning her slightly and shattering the chimney of her home. Mrs. Stewart was closing the windows of her home when the bolt struck the chimney, showering bricks about the roof. Mrs. Stewart was treated by a private physician for shock and slight burns.

Another bolt shattered the chimney of the home of Dennis Morris, 115 Wilmington place southeast. Mr. Morris was in the kitchen with her 2-year-old daughter, Louise, who was playing on the floor.

The bolt traveled down the chimney and shattered a coal stove. The child was covered with soot, but was uninjured.

In Brookmont, Md., the home of A. L. Tipeomb, 6204 Ridge drive, was struck, causing a slight fire to the roof, which was extinguished by the Chevy Chase Fire Department. Damage was about $10.

The two-story frame home of Dr. Reginald Walker at Cotomac, Md., was hit by another charge, causing a fire on the roof, which was quenched by the Rockville Fire Department, after damage estimated at $250 had been caused.

Man Who Led Cavalry In Booth Pursuit Dies

Atlantic, Iowa, June 23 (A.P.).—H. L. Frost, who led the New Hampshire cavalry in the search for John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of President Lincoln, was buried here today. He died Sunday.

Frost was in command of the New Hampshire unit stationed at Washington at the time of the assassination. He maintained that Booth was not burned to death in a barn while trying to elude his pursuers, but escaped and died later in Enid, Okla. Frost was custodian of the courthouse here for 38 years.

YEARS OF GRACE

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

SYNOPSIS.

Jane and Stephen arrive in Paris and are met by Cicily, Albert and the three children. Cicily's divorce will be granted in three days, and then she and Albert will be married. Flora tells Jane she has invited Andre Duroy to the wedding. Jane is faintly stirred by old memories of her childhood sweetheart, and wonders if Andre will come to meet her after all these years.

CICILY, JENNY AND STEVE.
CHAPTER XIII.

THREE days later, when Jane entered Flora's drawing room with Stephen, she had no particular sense that she was going to witness the consecration of a marriage. The civil rites of France that they had all subscribed to that morning had made Cicily, she conceded, Albert's lawful wife. This blessing of the church seemed but an irrelevant afterthought. Cicily had set her heart on it, however. It was part of the party. It all went to prove that this was a very usual situation, a very gay situation, a very happy situation. It was the consummation of the friendly conspiracy of chatter.

Flora's beautiful formal room was swept and garnished for the ceremony. It was always a little bare. The polished floor was sparsely adorned with three small rugs. The furniture was clustered in little social groups of chairs and sofas and small convenient tables. A Renoir hung over the fireplace—it was the only picture in the room—the portrait of a plump dark lady in a red velvet gown with a shirred bustle and a fair-haired child in a white muslin frock with a blue sash. The room was filled with vases of white lilies and curtained against the crude glare of the July sunshine. The perfume of the flowers, the subdued light, the faint gleam, here and there, of glass and gilt and parquet, the tranquillity of the Victorian lady over the fireplace, all subtly contributed to the sense of space and serenity that was the room's distinguishing characteristic. The windows were open, their silken hangings moving a little in the gentle July breeze. The uproar of the Paris traffic was hushed in Flora's neighborhood. The tiny, rippling splash of some fountain in an outer court could be distinctly heard above the voices of Flora's guests.

Flora's Guests Few in Number.

Flora's guests were very few in number. Jane's eyes found Cicily at once. She was at Albert's side, smiling up into the face of a rather more than middle-aged gentleman, who was standing, when Jane entered the drawing-room, with his back to the door. Her gown was charming—a daffodil yellow chiffon. A great straw shade hat hid her golden hair. She was carrying a sheaf of yellow calla lilies. The three children were being restrained by Molly in a distant corner of the room. Robin Redbreast was scuffling on the shiny floor. To judge by their rosy, excited faces they had no sense of the solemnity of the occasion. Flora, in a frock of pale grey taffeta, was talking to Ed Brown on the hearth beneath the Renoir. Ed Brown looked very cheerful. He had a gardenia in the buttonhole of his cutaway. Muriel, in a striking new costume of black-and-white satin, was chatting very pleasantly with the Church of England clergyman. He was a very callow young clergyman, and he did not look entirely at his ease with Muriel. She was doing her best for him, however. She had turned the full battery of her deeply shaded, bright blue eyes upon his embarrassed countenance. Her carmined lips were smiling.

"Here you are, Jane!" cried Flora Cicily waved her yellow lilies. The more than middle-aged gentleman at whom she had been smiling turned as she did so. Across the slippery expanse of polished floor, Jane stared at him, astounded. She suffered a distinct sense of shock. She was back, instantly, in Chicago in the early nineties. She was back in the Duroys' little crowded living-room in the Saint James Apartments. She had two thin pigtails and a sense of social inadequacy and she was staring at Mr. Duroy! He had come! It was Andre! But how exactly like his father! The greying beard, the be-ribboned eyeglasses, the shred of scarlet silk run through the buttonhole! The wise, sophisticated gleam in the shrewd brown eyes!

The eyes were not sufficiently sophisticated, however, to veil their expression of complete astonishment. Andre stared at Jane. She saw the glint of amazement fade quickly from his face. A broad smile of pleasure supplanted it. It had struck her like lightning, however. She knew what it meant. She was fifty-one years old. Then Andre was holding both her hands in his own.

"Jane!" he was crying. "It is really you!" Looking up at the bearded face, meeting the wise, sophisticated gleam behind the beribboned eyeglasses, Jane was desperately trying to realize that it was really Andre.

"And this is Stephen," she said confusedly.

The men shook hands. Cicily kissed her prettily over the yellow lilies. Albert tore his eyes from his bride to smile happily, reassuringly at Jane. The clergyman slipped away to get into his vestments. Cicily was taking command of the situation.

Cicily Taking Command.

"I'll stand here near the windows," she was saying gaily. "I want the children near me, Molly! And you, too, Mumsy!"

Andre was staring at Jane. She still felt he must be Mr. Duroy. Cicily slipped her arm around her waist.

"Have you heard from Aunt Isabel?" she asked. "Albert had a cable from Belle this noon. She was married yesterday to Billy Winter." Her blue eyes, meeting Jane's, were twinkling with tranquil amusement. "She wouldn't let me get ahead of her! But isn't it nice?"

The clergyman had returned. His vested figure looked strangely out of place in Flora's drawingroom.

"Come, Dad!" cried Cicily. "You know your place by this time!"

Informal Semicircle.

The little company had gathered in an informal semicircle. Stephen looked very grim as he took his stand by Cicily. Ed Brown was beaming, in step-paternal solicitude, at the ardent young face of Albert. Robin Redbreast was clinging to Molly's hand. Jane moved to put her arms around the twins. Little John Ward smiled happily up at her. Andre was covertly watching her, all the time, from his stand between Flora and Muriel. The Church of England clergyman opened his prayer book.

"Dearly beloved brethren," he said, "we are met together in the sight of God and this company to join together this man and this woman ——"

Jane turned her eyes from the flushed and radiant face of her recalcitrant daughter. She would not look at it. She could not look at it. This was worse than any wedding. This was worse than all the weddings. The measured tones of the clergyman's voice recalled with frightful vividness the ceremony in her little Lakewood garden. Was she the only wedding guest, Jane wondered dumbly, that saw so plainly the pleasant, snub-nosed, twinkle-eyed ghost of Jack, standing at Cicily's side?

* * * *

"I didn't think you'd come," said Jane.

"Of course I came," said Andre.

They were sitting side by side in a taxi that was rolling down the Avenue des Champs Elysees. Half an hour before Jane had seen Cicily depart for her honeymoon with Albert Lancaster. The parting with the children had been painfully emotional. Cicily herself had been very much moved. Little Jane had wept, and John had clung to His mother, and Robin Redbreast had tried to run after her as she paused on Albert's arm, in the doorway of Flora's apartment, to toss one last tremulous kiss to Jane.

"Well—that's over!" Stephen had said, when she had vanished. Personally Jane felt that it had just begun. The summer stretched before her with the children to watch over —the autumn with its inevitable parting—the years ahead with their adjustments and compromises. Then Andre had spoken.

"Are you really going tomorrow?" he had asked.

Jane had nodded.

"Then won't you come back with me now to my studio? I want to talk to you."

"Oh, go, Jane!" Flora had cried. "Andre's studio is awfully interesting."

Stephen Urges Jane to Go.

"I think," Jane had said rather slowly, "I'd better go back to the Chatham with Stephen. The children are dining with us, so Molly can pack."

"Won't Stephen come, too?" said Andre, a little hesitantly.

"No," said Stephen abruptly. "I—I think I'd like to be with the kids. But why don't you go, Jane?"

And Andre had picked up his hat. That was how Jane had come to be with him in the taxi. She was still trying to realize that he was really himself. It was a great waste of Andre, she reflected, to have to meet him after 34 years at Cicily's wedding. Her thoughts were with the grandchildren. It was hard to concentrate on Andre, after all she had just been through. Perhaps at 51, however, it would always be hard to concentrate on any man. At 51, you were perpetually torn by conflicting preoccupations. Meeting Andre's gaze with a smile, Jane observed, a trifle whimsically, that he at least had achieved concentration. His wise, sophisticated brown eyes were bent earnestly upon her.

"You didn't really think I wouldn't come, did you?" said Andre.

"I didn't know," said Jane. Then added honestly, "I didn't want to hope too much that you would."

"Why not?" smiled Andre.

"For fear of being disappointed," said Jane promptly. "I like to keep my illusions."

"Am I one of your illusions, Jane?" asked Andre, with a twinkle.

"You always have been," said Jane soberly.

Andre laughed at that. "The same honest Jane!" he said, as the taxi drew up at the curbing.

As Andre paid the cabman, Jane stood on the sidewalk and wondered where she was. She stared up at the gray stone facade of the building before her. She had not noticed where the taxi was going. It had crossed the Seine. That was all she knew. She felt a pleasing little sense of adventure as she followed Andre through some iron gates, across the corner of a crumbling courtyard, and in a tall carved doorway that opened on the court. A curved stone stairway stretched before her, leading up into comparative darkness. Jane's sense of adventure deepened.

Three Flights Up and No Lift.

"It's three flights up," said Andre, "and there is no lift."

Jane tried not to catch her breath too audibly as she plodded up the stairs, her hand on the iron rail. Her sense of adventure had faded a little. How ignominious, she was thinking, now fifty-one, to have to puff and pant on a staircase at Andres side! On the third landing he unlocked a door.

"Come in," he said.

Fountain Bathers Face Arrest by U. S. Police

All children who bathe in public fountains and in the Lincoln Memorial reflecting pool will be subject to arrest by the United States park police, Capt. R. C. Montgomery, superintendent, declared yesterday. Several arrests have already been made, the offenders being taken before the Juvenile Court.

The ban on bathing is for the protection of the children as much as for the beauty of the pools, Capt. Montgomery said. The water in the fountains and pools is not purified, and therefore capable of carrying disease germs.

SOCIETY

A reception will follow at the Merion Cricket Club.

Miss Edith Mae Cummings, of New York, is at the Powhatan while spending a few days in Washington.

Sigma Epsilon Sorority Plans Dinner This Evening.

The national officers of the Sigma Epsilon Sorority and a number of out-of-town sorority members will be guests of honor at a dinner of the organization to be given on the Shoreham Terrace this evening as a part of this week's convention program.

The national officers who will be present include Miss Helene Page, grand councillor; Miss Louise Gallahorn, official hostess; Miss Ethel Schaeffer, grand secretary; Miss Mildred Peterson, grand treasurer; Miss Helen McAuliffe, national corresponding secretary; Miss Olive Murphy, grand custodian.

The Chi Sigma Sorority will hold a dinner meeting this evening on the Shoreham Terrace.

Miss Eleanor Hay Froehlich, of the faculty staff of Buchanan School, was married at noon yesterday to Mr. David Leroy Miller. The ceremony was performed in Keller Memorial Lutheran Church by the pastor, Dr. S. T. Nicholas, and was attended by a small group of relatives and friends. The maid of honor was a sister of the bride, Miss Sarah Jane Froelich, and the best man was Mr. F. Melvin Holmes. After a luncheon for the wedding party at the Dodge Hotel, the bride and groom left for Boston, where they will spend a week's honeymoon. They will reside in Washington on their return.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Froehlich, and Mr. Miller is a son of Mrs. B. M. Miller, 2803 North Capitol street. The bride's father has been employed in the Department of Agriculture since 1913.

Memorial Highway Police Fund Planned

Funds will be available after July 1 to the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks for the hiring of twelve policemen to patrol the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway. The force will be under the supervision of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, and probably be included in the department now headed by Capt. R. C. Montgomery, superintendent of park police.

The policemen may not be hired until next year, however, as the fund is only large enough to pay for the services five months of the next fiscal year.

NATS BEAT TIGERS TWICE AS MACKMEN DIVIDE PAIR

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

OFF THE CHEST....What ball player named Ty Cobb is aped by Al Simmons?....Patterns every action after the Georgia Peach....Except base running....He can't do that....It takes speed....and Cobb's nerve....But Simmons does wear Cobb's long sleeves....And swings four bats awaiting his turn....And has adopted the same bow-legged strut....Cochet's defeat at Wimbledon in the first round....Smacks of the "old army" game....He lost to Allison at Wimbledon last year in straight sets....And then smothered the Americans in the Davis Cup matches the next month....Don't count him out....But Mangin's defeat....Discouraging for a young fellow who made the trip with the avowed purpose of showing the U. S. committee its mistake in leaving him off the team....What mistake?....The boos at Fort Washington the other night....The 8,000 ought to have known....Heavyweights at best are slow....But the fifth-fighters make a tortoise look like a rocket to the moon....But the Hunt-Corri fight at Laurel July 1 holds promise....Hunt can fight....If Corri extends him....It's the highest-priced card ever offered Washington fans....Wladek Zbyszko hired for the next wrestling show here....Willing to meet George, Sonnenberg, Lewis, Shikat, Londos, Steinke or Steele....According to the official wrestling organ of the city....But Zbyszko won't meet any of the first three....Although he is within bounds in challenging....They belong to the Sandow-Bowser chain....And Promoter Turner will have none of that....For reasons best known to Poo-Bah Jacques Curley, master mind of the rassling racket....Who is prospering with his own pet pachyderms....Headed by Jim Londos....Bostwick, with Mate, wants another chance at Twenty Grand....In the $70,000 Arlington classic....But he'd better send Mate to the post once again before that race....If it ever comes off....'Cause Mate is an in-and-outer....And since the start of his racing career as a 2-year-old has won his every other start....That's some kind of a record....But Twenty Grand should take him....On past performances....Bucky Harris has made the rounds with Marvin Owens....His rookie infielder....Harris likes the kid....And has used him in every position in the infield....Even at first base....But he can't hit hard enough for that....He's playing third now....'Tis common gossip that Connie Mack starts Rommel, Shores and Mahaffey with a prayer....They tax his master mind....The trio has accounted for only 7 of his 43 victories....and 4 of his 14 defeats....The Nats came within an ace of landing Lazzeri....But Griffith wouldn't give up Buddy Myer....Not with the team in the midst of a winning streak....The off-season may see the trade, however....Griff likes Lazzeri....He was prepared to trade Hadley....But couldn't....No club wanted him....Strange, but true....The Indians offered a rookie outfielder in an even swap, though....Maurice McCarthy, the former Georgetown golf captain, chose his work in a Western mining camp to place on the Walker Cup Team....And last year he declined in favor of his studies at the Hilltop....Fie on the tennis "bums"....McCarthy ought to be Exhibit A in amateur golf....The national open at Inverness next month....'Twas there that Ted Ray, of England, won the title in 1920....After his compatriot, Harry Vardon, dissipated a long lead on the last five holes....When a thunderstorm blew up....Henry Cotton looks like the chief foreign threat....And Tommy Armour the best American hope....Armour's hands are his greatest golf asset....Long, sinewy fingers....And wrists that bespeak power....Try to grasp a billiard cue at the tapered end....And hold it horizontally from the waist....You can't do it....But Armour has done it with three cues....There's strength in them thar hands....Fifteen nationally known referees are in the running for the job at the Schmeling-Stribling fight....But "Long Count" Barry is not among them....Will Tunney remember him in his will?....He really holds an equity in Gene's fistic fortune....Ask me another.

American Net Stars Score At London

Advance in Unbroken Ranks in Wimbledon Singles Play.

Lott, Van Ryn Oust Continental Stars; Upsets Lacking.

By FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, June 23 (A.P.).—Invading Americans, without exception, swept through their matches in the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

Leading the parade was Frank X. Shields, No. 1 star of the United States Davis Cup Team, and Mrs. L. A. Harper, No. 1 ranking woman player from the other side.

With Shields into the third round went George Lott, jr., John Van Ryn and Sidney B. Wood, jr., while Helen Jacobs, Marjorie Sachs and Mrs. Van Ryn joined Mrs. Harper in the second round of women's play.

Keeping step with the American youngsters were Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus, of France; H. W. (Bunny) Austin and Fred Perry, of Great Britain, and Jiro Satoh, of Japan. Cilli Aussem, Betty Nuthall and Elia de Alvarez won their first-round matches easily.

Opening Day's Upsets Are Lacking.

There were no upsets such as marked yesterday's play when Henri Cochet and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., fell before the rackets of Nigel Sharpe and G. Lyttleton Rogers. The main commotion today was caused by the bare legs exhibited by Miss Nuthall and Mrs. Lycett and the half skirt, half trouser effect worn by Senorita de Alvarez. It has long been an unofficial rule at Wimbledon that ladies wore stockings, because the queen disapproved of the American custom.

Former King Alfonso of Spain, out of a job, lolled in a chair in the royal box to see Senorita de Alvarez defeat Mrs. Lycett in the feature women's match, 2—6, 6—1, 6—2.

After he had congratulated her on her victory he lingered to view the play of the Labor party's contribution to the tennis world, Young Fred Perry. Perry, the son of a Laborite member of Parliament, learned his game on the Suburban Park courts, but is ranked by the experts even above Bunny Austin as Britain's leading hope for the championship. Perry beat I. Acki, of Japan, in straight sets today while Austin disposed of Hiro Saton, Japanese Davis Cuper.

Van Ryn Conquers German Youth.

Van Ryn and Lott gained the major American honors of the day, the former beating one of France's most promising youngsters in Young Andre Merlin, 6—2, 6—4, 6—1, while Lott disposed of the French veteran, Pierre Landry, 6—4, 11—9, 6—2. Wood had an easy time with A. C. Crossley, of Great Britain, but Shields had to turn on the steam to win from H. F. David, a former Oxford player, 2—6, 6—0, 6—2, 6—4.

Wood's opponent, Crossley, dabbles in poetry and politics as well as tennis, but not in the speed lawn game as the slim American plays it. The American youngster won, 6—3, 6—1, 6—2.

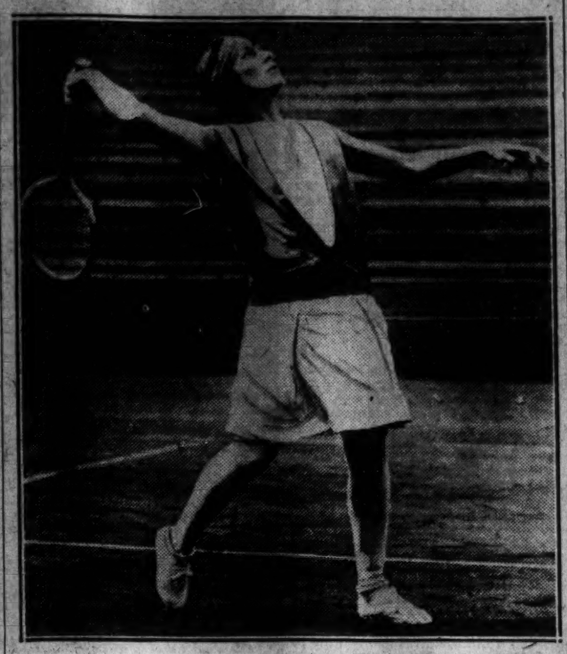
Wood will move onto the big center court for the first time tomorrow when he meets the formidable E. Maier, one of Spain's best players. Van Ryn plays F. Matejka, the Austrian who defeated Watson Washburn yesterday, Lott meets the Englishman, H. G. N. Lee and Shields will play E. Nourney, one of the better German players.

Miss Jacobs Meets British Lass.

Miss Jacobs, who had a walkover in the first round when Lily Pons, of Spain, defaulted, will meet Miss Billy Yorke, of England, tomorrow. Mrs. Van Ryn will play Mrs. R. E. Haycock, also of Britain; Mrs. Harper meets Miss V. Marshall and Miss Sachs plays Miss S. K. Johnson.

Doubles play starts tomorrow and cuts in heavily on the time allotted to singles, several of the stars being given day's rest.

Senorita's Shorts, Bare Legs Shock Crowd at Wimbledon



SENORITA LILI DE ALVAREZ, of Spain, whose appearance on the courts at Wimbledon in shorts and bare legs shocked the audience and defied the traditional conservatism of dress at the famous English tennis arena.

Creation of Lilide Alvarez on Courts Is Seen Short-Lived.

WIMBLEDON STADIUM, England, June 23 (A.P.).—Senorita Lili de Alvarez set tongues to wagging and eyes popping when she appeared on the famous center court today to play Bunny Austin's sister, Mrs. R. Lycett, in a tennis garb of her own creation featuring short trousers.

Old ladies gasped and old gentlemen gurgled as the comely Spanish player pranced about in preliminary practice in her "divided skirt" of cream crepe de chine, topped by a close-fitting bodice.

In 50 years of Wimbledon play no girl has ever dared show a stockingless leg on the courts. Even the Americans, who are accustomed to play bare-legged at home, observe the English custom of covered knees. There's no rule against it, but it simply isn't done.

What the outcome of Senorita de Alvarez's revolutionary gesture in tennis court fashions would be caused much speculation. Most of the tennis experts, turned stylists for the moment, voted the innovation in dress would be short-lived. Most of them agreed the costume, despite the freedom of movement it gave, was not very becoming.

Senorita de Alvarez dropped the first set to Mrs. Lycett but then went ahead to win 2—6, 6—1, 6—2.

BURKE LEADS RYDER CUP TRIALS

Cox, Wood Also Win Places on U.S. Team; 3 Face Play-Off.

SCIOTO COUNTRY CLUB, Columbus, Ohio, June 23 (A.P.).—Billy Burke, New York professional, gave the new balloon-ball advocates something to shout about today when he finished his 72-hole tour in the struggle for extra berths on the American Ryder Cup team with a sizzling 289, 1 over par for the distance.

The score, turned in despite an adverse wind and another shower of broiling hot weather, clipped exactly 4 strokes off the 293 that the one and only Bobby Jones scored to win the national open crown over the same course, Scioto Country Club, back in 1926, with the old ball.. But for a shaky 75 on his first round, Burke might have made the new ball look even better as he finished with better than perfect golf—71, 72, 71.

Leads Wilfy Cox By 5 Strokes.

Burke's performance gave him the lead by five shots over Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, who led at the end of the first two rounds with a 145 total and then ran into enough trouble today to register a 74 and 75 for a grand collection of 294 shots. Craig Wood, of Buffalo, landed third with a 299, while three others, Densmore Shute,

HUDLIN GIVES RED SOX BUT ONE HIT

Wins 2d Game for Tribe, 10-0, After Hudlin Scores.

CLEVELAND, June 23 (A.P.).—With Willis Hudlin and Clint Brown hurling shoutout ball, the Cleveland Indians walloped the Red Sox in both games of a double-header here today, winning the first, 13 to 0, and the second, 10 to 0. The Tribesmen collected a total of 31 hits.

Brown held the Sox to five scattered blows in the first game, while his mates were getting nineteen off Russell, Lisenbee, Durham and McLaughlin.

In the second, Hudlin allowed only one hit, a single by Earl Webb. Hudlin walked only four batters and put over three strikeouts.

Earl Averill led the Indians' attack with four hits in the first and three in the second. Johnny Burnett got three in each game.

TrainingMate Outpunches Schmeling

Natie Brown, Obscure Coast Fighter, Has Best of 2 Rounds.

Easily Solves Defense of Max; German Full of Fight.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 23 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling plunged into his final week of training today to receive the surprise of his training campaign. The fireworks were exploded by Natie Brown, a San Francisco heavyweight, who landed in camp a few days ago broke but with a desire to fight.

They sent Brown against the world's heavyweight champion in his first two rounds of boxing this afternoon and he unpleasantly gave Schmeling the best workout the champion has experienced in his sixteen days of boxing. As a reward for being fed at the sparring partners training table, Brown tore into the champion like he was an ordinary $400 fighter and punched holes in Schmeling's defense. He connected with left hooks to the head and body as he pleased, while the plodding German took time out to study Brown's attack. For two rounds they slugged like a couple of long shoremen with Brown having the better of it.

Wreaks Vengeance On Others.

Schmeling, refreshed and full of energy as a result of a day's layoff, was full of fight. He accepted everything that Brown threw at him and took out revenge on Steven Simon, the Erie (Pa.) "string bean" and George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, who followed Brown into the ring for two rounds of boxing. Neither Simon nor Panka looked very impressive against the champion and both were on the receiving end in the two sessions they faced the champion.

Schmeling boxed in his indoor arena because showers in the early morning soaked the outdoor sparring camp. The German worked eagerly and pleaded for another round of boxing after he finished throwing blows at Panka, but Max Machone,

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 23 (A.P.).—Philadelphia and St. Louis split even in a double-header here today, while Washington was winning two from Detroit and gaining a full game on the pace-setting Athletics. The Athletics won the opener, 3-0, behind Bob Grove's two-hit pitching, and the Browns took the nightcap, 5 to 4, in twelve innings.

The Browns went into the ninth inning of the second game leading, 4-2, but the Athletics scored two runs to tie the score. In the twelfth Storti singled, Kimsey sacrificed and Schulte singled to give the Browns the victory.

Miller, of the Athletics, and Goslin, of the Browns, hit homers in the nightcap.

In the Wake Of the Game

Detroit, June 23.

FIRST GAME.

DAVE HARRIS made a brilliant catch in the opening round, racing over well toward center to snare a liner about knee high. Walker was on second at the time, and, having no idea that the catch would be made, was an easy double-play victim. This prevented an alien run and robbed McManus of at least a double.

Manush went to the edge of the scoreboard to fasten himself on the end of Alexander's line drive opening the home second.

Myer tried to slip a fast one over on the umpires in the home fourth when he came in fast for Walker's pop-bunt. He trapped the ball, but claimed he caught it in flight. He did not fool any one, though. On the next play Walker tried to rough Myer at second and prevent a double play, but the second sacker sidestepped him and the Nats' third twin-murder of the game resulted.

McManus went behind third to throw out Cronin in the fifth on a tap which appeared to be a sure hit.

When Cronin singled to center in the sixth, scoring two, it gave every member of the Washington cast credit for at least one hit.

Spencer reached over into a box and caught McManus' foul ending the Tigers' sixth round.

Kuhel's homer into the right-center stands in the ninth went on a low line all the way. It was the first-sacker's third of the season.

SECOND GAME.

(Post Staff Correspondent).

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, Mich, June 23.—The Nationals were off to a good start here this afternoon, taking both ends of a double-header with the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 3 and 4 to 0. The second contest went ten innings before a decision could be reached. Then the Nats, who had been held scoreless by George Uhle for twenty consecutive frames,

YALE TEAM LEADS COLLEGE GOLF PLAY, QUALIFYING FIVE

2 Georgetown Men Survive In Trials

Fischer and Berger in Field That Starts Match Play.

158 Qualifying Limit; Reese Is Medalist With 146.

OLYMPIA FIELDS COUNTRY CLUB, Chicago, June 23 (A.P.).—The national intercollegiate golf tournament was all Yale today.

The Bull Dog won the team championship with a new record. Jack Reese shot the lowest score of the qualifying rounds, and four other Yale men placed among the 32 who began match play for the title tomorrow.

Next to the Blue was Princeton, second in team totals and with three of the 32 qualifiers. From that point, however, the thirty-fifth championship play took on a Western Conference hue. Illinois and Michigan each placed three men in the match brackets and Ohio had two.

The others came from every section of the country, two from Tulane, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Southern Methodist and Southern California, and one each from Colgate, Williams, Stanford, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit City College.

Fischer and Beger Score 156.

The two from Georgetown to qualify were Capt. Louis Fisher, who added an 80 today for a total of 156, and Fred J. Beger, whose 78 gave him the same total. Richard Wilson, who scored 81 today for a 161 total, was three above the qualifying limit. Peter Monaghan was far out of it, with a 90 today, after his score of 80 yesterday.

Reese, a last-minute selection on the Yale team, had tied for the lead during the first qualifying round yesterday with a 73. He duplicated that score today for a two-day total of 146. Randall Ahearn, of Detroit City College, who shared the lead with him yesterday, slipped to a 76 and a tie at 149 with Sidney W. Noyes, jr., Yale, who shot 77, 72.

Next came the defending champion, George Dunlap, of Princeton, with 150. After a ragged 78 yesterday, Dunlap bagged a 72, 2 over par. He shared the distinction of the lowest round of the tournament with Noyes.

Moller, of Notre Dame, Qualified With 155.

Lawrence Moller, of Notre Dame, runner-up last year, struggled all day with his putter but got around in 75, qualifying at 155 with 2 to spare. Ahead of him were J. H. Gordon 3d, of Princeton, 151; Gail Stockton, of Southern California, and John Falconer, of Southern Methodist, 152; T. J. Aycock, of Yale, the 1929 champion; Johnny Florio, of Ohio State, second in the Big Ten this year, and Bill Redmond, of Notre Dame, with 153, and a host of others tied with 154.

The only shock of the qualifying battle was the failure of Phillips Finlay, Harvard's long hitter, to survive. He was tied for third yesterday with a 74, but staggered in today with an 84. His total of 158 got him into a play-off with three others for the last two places among the 32, but he took a 7 on the extra hole. The play-off was won by Joe Royston, of Michigan, and Bob Crowe, of Illinois.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

Lifting a man weighing 130 pounds with his hair is a comparatively easy feat for George Strunk, of Reading, Pa. Among other of his "hair-raising" stunts is that of pulling automobiles. At Edeasburg, Pa., in 1929, he pulled with his hair a large sedan, carrying six passengers, along the track where the dirt was loose to a depth of 4 inches. At one time Strunk pulled a car containing fourteen passengers; that is his record.

The freak seven-trunked tree was planted some 40 years ago by the father of Mrs. C. A. Beattie, of Rochester, N. Y., who is the present owner. The tree, which is of the apple variety, was originally a one-trunked affair. When it was 2 years old, Beattie grafted on six smaller apple trees and let them grow. Several years later the maintrunk was cut away. Each trunk represents a different variety, and there is occasion for conjecture as to just what sort of apple the tree produces.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of this paper, and inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 23. — Owing to the change in track conditions after the steady downpour which turned the track into a sea of mud, the overnight events on tomorrow's program received small lists to contest the races, with superior mudders in demand.

Three topnotch milers comprise the field in the $1,500 overnight handicap which features the mid-week program. TANNERY, fleet colt in the E. F. Pritchard Stable, despite his top impost of 115 pounds, holds an edge over his rivals. PIGEON HOLE displayed a high turn of speed last start, but over the muddy strip may falter. However, the H. P. Headley color bearer is favored over SATIN SPAR for the place. In the fifth event, an allowance affair, seven 3-year-olds and upward will contest the $1,500 purse over the 6-furlong sprint distance. Several leading speedsters have been entered, but SISKIN has trained exceptionally well after a brief rest and appears ready to contest the issue. MY DANDY is reported fit and should force the pace, with OSWEGO, from the Gallagher & Coombs establishment, as the show selection.

FIRST RACE—A large field of maiden 2-year-olds will face the barrier in the 5 furlongs of the opening dash. PLAYING has raced consistently in his previous efforts and rates the graduation call. DAD MEINERS has had several races to condition him and will battle it out with the top one. LAPIDARY is a fair sort and may break into the money.

SECOND RACE—Seven high-class players will match strides in the 6-furlong dash of the second event, which is fashioned for 3-year-olds exclusively, under claiming conditions. CAMP PRINCE, owned by J. Marsch, has been racing in route events, but has enough early foot to gain the decision from his six rivals. HYMAN is on the improve and should force the pace. DON ALVARO will favor the muddy track and is given the show call.

THIRD RACE—A select field of six juveniles will contest the $1,200 purse of the third number. This event will be contested over the 5-furlong distance under allowance conditions. PRINCESS CAMELIA, a double winner at this course, has shown a liking for heavy going, and with her speed should outfoot this ground of juveniles. NEVADA QUEEN, the Miami flash, was given a conditioning race recently and should improve off that effort. SUNNY WORLD is favored over VACARRIENDO for the short end of the purse.

SIXTH RACE—Thirteen of the cheapest steeds quartered at the Homewood course will be dispatched over the mile-and-eighth route of the sixth heat. This event calls out 3-year-old and up maidens, and the race is filled with many possibilities. On recent form, DICK PORTER appears to hold a slight edge on his opposition. MAGNUM, from the E. H. Lehmann Stable, showed speed last start, but faltered when put to a drive. The Lehmann steed figures to finish in the runner-up position. UNITED ORBY is given the show call in this open race.

SEVENTH RACE—The concluding event on the card has attracted a field of 20 3-year-olds and upward to contest the purse over the mile-and-an-eighth distance. NEGODALE, steady plater in the M. Watson string, is a superior mudder, and under the conditions, appears the bet of the day. The Negofol gelding ran a disappointing race last start, but should redeem himself over the muddy track. HARAMZADA, from the J. Howard string, is the place selection, with SILVER SCEPTER, another mudder, as the show choice.

STRIBLING IS PERFECTING LEFTS

Variety of Southpaw Punches Practiced for Schmeling.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

GEAUGA LAKE, Ohio, June 23 (A.P.).—If advance indications mean anything, Bill Stribling will try to bounce the heavyweight crown from Max Schmeling's brow in the Cleveland Municipal Stadium July 3 with left-hand punches of a half dozen varieties.

The Southern challenger is a powerful youth and his straight right-hand smash to the head is one of the deadliest wallops in the fisticuffing business. But so far in a training camp grind that is almost at an end, although the fifteen-round duel on the shores of Lake Erie is still ten days away, Stribling has done almost all of his punching from the portside.

German's Style Made For Strib's Left.

If the German bobs and weaves as he charges forward, his usual fighting style, Bill will meet him with left hooks to the body and count on his right hand only for short, jarring "sneak" punches when they are at close quarters. And if Schmeling fights in stand-up fashion on the night of July 3, as he has been doing in his training camp, Stribling will try to set him back on his heels with straight lefts to the head. The Georgian is a master with both of these punches.

To carry out the left-hand theory of the experts a hit further, Stribling dropped his first sparring partner Sunday night with a crushing left hook to the body, a short jolt with an 18-ounce glove that traveled less than a foot, but stretched a big fellow, Frank Kitts, helpless on the canvas.

Both before and since that time, too, his sparring partners have been treated to liberal doses of left jabs and hooks to the head, left hooks to the body, and left swings to the chin and ribs. The experts still are waiting for him to send the right hand winging to the head, the kind of punch that twice rocked Jack Sharkey when Stribling and the Boston gob clashed in Florida over two years ago.

Stribling Realizes Difficulties Ahead.

Stribling seems to realize, however, that Schmeling, if he fights from a crouch, will be almost impossible to hit solidly with a right-hand shot to the head. In a way the Stribling strategy is being borrowed from that of Sharkey when he battered the German with left-hand punches for four rounds last June only to sink one low and crown Schmeling a champion on a foul for the first time in the history of heavyweight title affairs.

Stribling's sparring partners, an assorted collection of long and short heavyweights, were scheduled to take another left-hand lacing tonight.

The Southerner was so close to peak condition at 188 pounds today that he plans his final boxing workouts for Thursday and Sunday nights under conditions approximating as closely as possible those he will face in the stadium on the night of July 3.

Mid City Bout Principals Sport "Big Time" Records

Hunt, Corri, Matched for July 1, Have Met Best in Boxing.

THE boxing records of Babe Hunt and Pietro Corri, the principals on the opening card of the Mid City arena at Laurel on July 1, bear out the assertion of General Manager Angy Gerrin that he would book a pair of tried performers for his opening show.

Both Hunt and Corri long since have left the novice class and have been in the ring against the top flight heavyweights of the game, including Bill Stribling, who will fight for the world's heavyweight championship at Cleveland on July 3.

Hunt, recognized as one of the most feared heavyweights out of the leading contender circle, has a decision over Stribling gained on a foul in 1929. Hunt also fought Stribling to no decision.

Schaaf and Risko Victims of Hunt.

Decisions over three of the top-ranking heavyweights of the day are also held by Hunt, who during the course of last year defeated James J. Braddock, who knocked out Tuffy Griffith; Ernie Schaaf, conqueror of Max Baer and Jimmy Maloney; and Johnny Risko, Cleveland baker boy, who has a decision over Sharkey to his credit.

Last winter in Atlanta, Ga., Stribling's home State, Corri succeeded in twice flooring the favorite son, although he lost the decision to the Georgia boy. The fight attracted Nation-wide attention at the time.

Corri met Hunt at Birmingham last year in a bout that was hailed as the best in the South that season, although losing a decision to the Oklahoman who stands 6 feet 4 inches and weighs 195 pounds. Corri is more compactly built, weighing 202 pounds.

Among others whom Corri has met are Marty Gallagher, Washington's heavyweight; Ted Sandwina, who has had several fights in Madison Square Garden; George Hoffman, former national amateur heavyweight champion, and Emmet Rocco, hard-hitting New Yorker.

Hunt is of American Indian-Irish ancestry. He hails from Ponca City, Okla. Corri is of Austrian-Italian parentage.

HEDEKIN AND ROBINSON WIN EASILY IN ARMY NET PLAY

Second Round Is Reached In Singles

Brooks and Stewart Victims of Stars at Columbia.

Rain Holds Off Until All But One Match Are Finished.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

ATTENDED by weather which held off until all but one of the scheduled matches were out of the way, the field in the Army tennis championship moved into the second round yesterday at Columbia Country Club with upsets as scarce as hairs on the head of the defending champion, Lieut. J. W. Strahan. Play today will go on from where it left off yesterday, with matches beginnng at 2:30 o'clock.

The lone unfinished match yesterday was the one in which Capt. H. M. Cochran and Lieut. James Heiskell were tied at 5 to 5 in the first set, when torrential rains put a quietus on their back court battle. Heiskell, a local product, who was a member of Georgetown University's Team last year, and now plays for Montrose in the Interpark League, was much the more active of the two players. His cross-court forehand drive was working well at the start and he led, 5 to 3, but his elderly opponent proved too steady to cope with in the last two games played. They will complete the match today, the winner then meeting Maj. P. W. Newgarden.

Strahan Faces Three Matches to Catch Up.

Lieut. Strahan will not report until tomorrow, and he will find his figurative desk piled with work. To catch the field he will have to play three matches.

The other two seeded players saw action and were easy winners. Lieut. David D. Hedekin defeated Lieut. H. Brooks, 6—3, 6—3, bothered only by his own slight unsteadiness, while Lieut. Stan Robinson walked away with Lieut. R. B. Stewart, 6—3, 6—0. Maj. J. H. Hills, fourth seeded player, did not see action.

Notably steadier than when he played in this region last year, Lieut. Robinson gives early promise of taking the title. Equipped with a set of strokes of micrometer fineness and all but perfect execution, Robinson appears to have gained a measure of patience in the last year. He seems less likely to throw points away in an effort to end a rally successfully.

Yesterday's realist competition developed in the match in which Lieut. J. S. Moran defeated Lieut. C. B. Fry, 8—6, 4—6, 6—4. Fought mainly from the backcourt, the battle was waged as evenly as possible. Lieut. Fry found a stubborn foe blocking his thrusts at every turn. It was anybody's match in the third set. An almost unexpected break through service midway in the set gave the winner his victory.

Van Vliet in Doubles With Robinson.

While the doubles are not to start until next Monday, the tournament was all but assured of at least a finalist if not a winner yesterday by the teaming up of Lieut. Robinson with Maj. Robert Van Vliet, twice Army champion, who, lacking the proper competitive shape, is viewing the singles this year from the sidelines.

The scattering of fans who journeyed to Columbia yesterday witnessed Dolf Muehleisen, young aviation cadet, who is one of the best of the country's younger players, perform in a doubles match. His partner was Lieut. Robinson, with whom Muehleisen will play in the Leech Cup matches against the Navy next month. Their opponents in an informal doubles match were two Washingtonians, Lieut. D. Hedekin and Millard Lewis.

Muehleisen has one of the hardest services seen here since Johnny Doeg's appearance in 1928. Tall, wiry and keen, he does everything well. His backhand is a long even sweep and his forehand follows along Eastern grip lines. He is one of the forerunning Pacific Coast players who have renounced Western grips and have profited thereby.

The Army Tennis Association will dine the players and officials this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the club.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

First round—Lieut. D. D. Hedekin defeated Lieut. H. Brooks, 6—3, 6—3; Capt. C. W. Christenberry defeated Lieut. J. N. Stone, 6—4, 8—6; Lieut. J. S. Moran defeated Lieut. C. B. Fry, 8—6, 4—6, 6—4; Lieut. J. W. Gardes won over Capt. K. B. Bush by default; Maj. P. W. Newsarden won over Lieut. W. E. Powell by default; Capt. E. J. House defeated Lieut. H. C. Gibner, 6—2, 6—2; Lieut. P. K. Morrill defeated Lieut. R. K. Poore, 6—1, 6—2; 6—3; Lieut. S. K. Robinson defeated Lieut. R. B. Stewart, 6—3, 6—0; Capt. J. H. Drake defeated Capt. R. Z. Crane, 6—5, 6—4; Maj. L. H. Hobbs won over Lieut. G. M. Lowe by default; Capt. T. B. Jackson won over Lieut. W. Merkle by default; Capt. H. M. Cochran and Lieut. James Heiskell, 5—5, rain.

TODAY'S FAIRINGS.

First round—Capt. H. M. Cochran vs. Lieut. James Heiskell; Maj. J. H. Hills vs. Col. K. Easton; Lieut. M. Lewis vs. Lieut. O. E. Lynch.

Second round—Capt. Christenberry vs. Lieut. Moran; Lieut. Gardes vs. winner of Hills-Easton match; Maj. Newsarden vs. winner of Heiskell-Cochran match; Lieut. Morrill vs. winner of Lewis-Lynch match; Lieut. Robinson vs. Capt. Drake; Maj. Hobbs vs. Capt. Jackson.

All matches at 2:30 o'clock.

Capital City Midgets In Important Meeting

An important meeting of the managers of teams entered in the midget section of the Post's Capital City League will be held tonight at 8 p. m. in room 2 of the District Building.

It is imperative that all managers attend, or have some member of their team present. Birth certificates will be required of all players entered in the league before they will be permitted to participate in the second half of play.

THOROUGHBRED DOGS BURDENED BY NAMES

dogs, I am inclined to respect Mr. Willard for it. Anyway, what is original about Mr. Creel's first name?

The names of Rover, Sport, Duke and Spot may be said to correspond to the names of George, William, James and John for men. Through the comic supplements of the days before the strips turned from sheer farce to melodramatic, we were made acquainted with the names of Towser, Fido and Nero for dogs, but I never enjoyed personal acquaintance with any dogs so named. But I did know a lady dog of no particular breed who was a victim of the familiar mania for naming persons and pets for popular figures of the hour without due regard for the proprieties. This lady dog was found—and people always used to find their dogs instead of buying them—about the time Admiral Dewey came home, and so she struggled through life under the abnormal name of Dewey, conferred by persons too young to understand.

All the dogs I happen to know personally at the present time are called nothing like Hitofa Blaengaru Bet. There is one named Pandora, but she is a thoroughbred, and I suppose she was named before she left the breeding kennel.

Names Not Fancy But Easy to Remember.

The others, though, are called such names as Duke and Buddie and Annie. These are easy to remember; they are obviously not fancy affectations and certainly much easier to yell, in calling the dog, than Bodo Von Siekerfelde.

As to breeding, they are on the miscellaneous side, although Duke is a thoroughbred of three different types. His father was the son of a thoroughbred Airedale and a thoroughbred bloodhound, and his mother was a thoroughbred setter. This makes a good, stout dog. He is not a good field dog in the formalities of the hunt, but he gets his share of woodchucks and rabbits, and his coat is so heavy that he is quite independent, even on the coldest nights of the winter. Then he sleeps wherever he happens to find a door open in the neighborhood or in the woods.

Everybody in the neighborhood knows and respects him for a substantial citizen, and if he isn't a thoroughbred of a single breed, who are a lot of people derived from generations of Scotch, Irish, German, English and other intermarriages to low-rate him for that? He will go walking in the field with you, but he is too independent to come when called unless he wants to. He has a mind of his own and his own business to attend to.

Cheap Dogs Give Most Companionship.

I notice that the dogs which give the least worry and the most companionship and require the least care are dogs which are not worth much money. Nobody steals them, and there is none of the worrisme necessary for locking them up or keeping them always on leash, which is no fun for either party. As to companionship, the people I know who raise thoroughbreds seem to take no more sentimental interest in the individual dog than a chicken-farmer in the individual chicken. They feed them according to scientific formula, so the dog never knows the pleasure of a sliver of roast begged at the dinner table or a steak-bone which had been left over. And because he has his quarters in the kennels, he misses that natural delight without which the life of no dog can be complete, sleeping by the stove on winter afternoons.

Royalty goes in for long and outlandish names, and I suppose these thoroughbred show dogs are the royalty of their breeds. Duke has no more reason to envy them, for all their Clamarlow Pung Yen, than anybody with a pretty good job has to envy the King of England, for all his Britannic Majesty.

FIVE PLAYERS HURT.

Sioux City, Iowa, June 23 (A.P.).—Five members of the Sioux City Stockyards Baseball Club were seriously injured today in a collision between their bus and another two miles north of Sanborn, Minn.

In the Wake Of the Game

bad hopper to start a double play in the Detroit first. Myer and Kuhel finished it, the Nats' fifth of the day.

A really great catch by Owen, who supplanted McManus at third, robbed Cronin of a hit and the Nats of a run in the second after Manush had doubled and advanced on a wild pitch. The third sacker snared Cronin's liner on a pick-up after the ball apparently had passed him well over toward the sack.

Harris sent Walker all the way to the end of the scoreboard in left center for a looper opening the fourth, which had all the earmarks of being a hit when the ball left the bat.

Uhle granted three hits in the first four frames and all were doubles. Cronin hit one in the first, Manush in the third, and West in the fourth. All were wasted.

Harris dashed back almost to the fence in right for Koenig's hoist in the fifth with a Tiger on first at the time. Momentarily, it looked as though the drive would clear the fly hawk's head.

With men on second and third and none out in the fifth, Marberry's first three offerings to Grabowski were balls. Then he ended the threat by fanning the batter on three successive strikes.

West showed some speed in beating out a tap to Brower with two gone in the sixth.

When Kuhel singled to center in the seventh, it was the first time a Nat lead-off man had enjoyed baselife.

Bluege and Kuhel collaborated in making a nice play at Alexander's expense opening the Tiger seventh. The third-sacker came in fast for a topped one and the first-baseman took the bad hurried peg on the first bounce at arm's length while spinning about with only his toe on the sack.

There was dead silence in the stands when Walker lined to Kuhel, who beat Johnson back to the first sack for a double-play to end the Tiger eighth. The sacks were loaded and only one was down when this life-saving play was made by the Nats. Lots of luck here.

With the bases loaded in the alien ninth and one out, the managers had a mental battle. Harris put McManus on third to run for Alexander and Johnson then sent Harry Rice, a great thrower, to right field in case a looper was hit in that territory. Neither of these moves figured in what followed.

There was a long argument when, with the sacks loaded with Jungle Cats and one out in the ninth, Umpire Bill Guthrie refused to call a third strike on Brower, whose bat undoubtedly crossed over the plate before he could check it. Umpire Hildebrand upheld his crony and then Marberry cut loose another offering which was missed by a large margin.

West raced back a country mile for Uhle's long fly opening the home tenth.

Hadley, who finished the first game, was busily warming up in the tenth, but he was not needed.

It will be up to Lloyd Brown to pitch the Nationals to their third straight victory here tomorrow and their twenty-first in twenty-six starts. He looked exceptionally good against the Indians in the first game of the double-header last Thursday and is confident that he can tame Bucky Harris' Jungle Cats. Victor Sorrell is likely to do the Tiger flinging.

NATS GAIN ON A'S BY DOUBLE VICTORY

a force play at second and all hands were safe. Uhle advanced both runners on a sacrifice and Marberry was instructed to walk Johnson, filling the bases. This put it up to Walker and he lined to Kuhel, who snared the drive and beat Johnson back to the bag for a double play.

Marberry Fills Bases Intentionally.

With one out in the ninth, Alexander hit and Stone singled him to third. Johnson immediately ordered Koenig passed, again packing the aisles. A team is fortunate in getting out of a hole of this kind once a game, much less twice, but that's just what the Nats did. After Umpire Bull Guthrie had declined to call Brower out on a third strike, claiming that he did not intend to swing, despite the fact that he actually did, Marberry shot another strike over. Again Grabowski came up and again he failed, his effort this time being a grasser on which Bluege made a force play at second.

West who hit safely three times in the opener, added three more safeties to his list in the second game. He was the only Nat to get more than one hit off Uhle, who granted eight.

There was little competition in the first game. The Nationals wasted many an opportunity in the early frames, having eight men left in the first four frames, and thirteen during the game. They scored once in the second on West's topped safety, Bluege's safe bunt and Kuhel's single, Hoyt then pulling out of this hole and worrying along until the sixth when he was pounded off the peak.

Seven Straight Hits Mark Rally.

Six runs were scored in this frame, Spencer, Burke and Myer singling, Manush doubling, Cronin inserting a one-baser, and Harris hitting a two-bagger, all in succession after one was out. West greeted Herring, relief hurler, with the seventh consecutive hit before the rally ended.

In the eighth Cronin walked, advanced on two outs and stole home when Sullivan, then in the box, took too long a wind up, while Kuhel's homer and one basers by Myer, Manush and Cronin netted two more in the ninth.

Burke allowed the Tigers but two hits in the first five frames, but granted doubles to Hayworth, Herring and Walker in the sixth, these coining two runs. When he walked Alexander and Stone singled opening the seventh, Hadley was sent to Burke's rescue as a matter of precaution. He fanned two during the round but granted Hayworth a single which scored the only other Tiger run, and then had no further trouble, although the Nats' fourth double play of the game came in quite handy in the eighth.

Alexandria Sports

ALEXANDRIA, June 23.—Prex Wilson, director of the municipal playground system, requests all candidates for the American Legion Juniors Baseball Team to report for an important drill on Haydon's Field tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

In 1930, the Alexandria Club annexed the State title and advanced into the regional finals, only to lose to the Gastonia (N. C.) nine. Wilson is confident he will have a crack club to carry the city's colors this season. The titular series will be played in Danville in August. The dates will be announced later by the State Legion baseball committee.

Candidates for the Legion nine are: Jack Hudson, Jimmy Bruin, Lacey Baber, Kendall Foltz, Francis McMenamin, "Bubber" Yarter, Harold Chilcoote, Douglas Morgan, Frank Brewer, Jake Mendelsohn, James Fritter, Louis Potter, Preston Cockey, Charles Dean, Joseph Tesh, Harvey Florence, Ralph Payne and Herbert Sublett.

The boys have already held one practice this season and according to Wilson, looked impressive.

Charlie Corbett's St. Mary's Celtics will probably meet the Howard A. French nine of Washington next Sunday in the feature attraction at Baggett's.

MANY TO RUN IN TAKOMA EVENT

Marathon on July 4 Draws Large Field; Agee Entered.

A RECORD-BREAKING number of entries for the annual modified marathon sponsored by the Takoma Park Citizens Association as a part of its annual Fourth of July celebration, has been announced by J. C. Post, chairman of the athletic committee. Fifty-two hikers have entered the 7-mile grind which will start at the District Building and end in Takoma.

Mr. Post has succeeded in surpassing all previous runs conducted by the association in point of securing entries.

William Agee, the sensational Baltimore runner, will make an effort to make it three straight victories in the Takoma race. Should Agee win on the Fourth he will gain permanent possession of the cup on which he now has two legs.

Playground Department Aids in Program.

When the race is completed on the Takoma Park playground, other field and track events will be held there. These, as the marathon, have been sanctioned by the local A. A. U. Association. Entries are still being accepted for the races. They may be mailed to Mr. Post at Takoma Park, D. C., or to the Municipal Playground office, room 2, District Building.

The largest team entry is from the Stonewall Democratic Cross Country Club of Baltimore, which has named 22 runners to face the starter. Only a sprinkling of local entries have been received but Mr. Post expressed the opinion last night that before the deadline is reached 10 or 12 more Washingtonians will have been added.

A team trophy will be awarded by the playground department which is cooperating with the citizens association in conducting the marathon and track meet. Entries received to date are as follows:

D. C. Netwomen Win, Lose in Baltimore Play

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 23—Mrs. De. Lloyd Thompson, the defending shampion, experienced her most difficult match today in the Maryland tennis tourney at the Baltimore Country Club, when she was extended before triumphing over Mrs. Ruth Martinez, of Washington. Mrs. Thompson won by scores of 7—5, 6—2 in the third round.

Betty Cochran, of Washington, went through the second round by defeating Mrs. W. V. Winchester, 6—2, 7—5.

In first round consolations, Frances Walker, Washington, downed Mrs. L. H. Cohen, 6—2, 5—0, default, and Mrs. Margarret Graham, Washington, defeated Fannie Braunstein, 6—0, 6—1.

In doubles tomorrow Mrs. Graham and Miss. Cochran will oppose Mary Bartlett Gibbs and Mary Clare Cottman, while Mrs. Martinez and Frances Walker, Washington, will meet Miss Braunstein and Reba Kirson. Mary Rayn, of Washington, is coupled with Mrs. Winchester to face Mrs. Charles Boehm and Mrs. Harrison Smith.

JEWELERS TO HOLD MEETING.

The Ross Jewelers will hold one of their most important meetings of the year tomorrow night at 9 o'clock.

Capital's Star Swimmers In Glen Echo Competition

Deadline for Entries Tomorrow; Varied Program Set.

SANCTIONED by the District Chapter of the Amateur Athletic Union, the swimming meet to be staged at Glen Echo Pool next Monday night at 9 o'clock is attracting some of the best performers in the city. The A. A. U., besides sanctioning the event, will furnish judges, starters and timekeepers.

Entries close tomorrow evening with Harold H. Bangs, manager of the new pool at the resort.

Events for men will include a 60-yard and 120-yard free style, a 120-yard breast stroke and four compulsory and four voluntary dives. Compulsory dives are running plain front dive, plain back dive, running forward dive with half screw and back jack dive.

The same events will be held in the women's division of the meet, except that a 60-yard back stroke will be substituted in place of the breast stroke.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the winners. There will be no entry fee, but an A. A. U. registration card is necessary. These cards may be obtained from William E. Russell, 1503 North Capitol street northwest.

Among the noted local swimmers already entered are Joe Lyman, Vincent Gomez, J. Emery Wilson, James W. Hissey, Norman Smith and Charles R. Dixon.

The championship medal to be awarded first place winners in the first annual Glen Echo swimming championships to be held under District of Columbia A. A. U. sanction on Monday night.

Two Games Carded Today In Polo at Potomac Park

Middleburg, With Jock Whitney in Line-Up, Faces War Whites at 3:30; Blues-Artillery to Finish Match Halted by Rain.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

SIXTH FIELD ARTILLERY, from Fort Hoyle, was leading War es, 6 to 2, in one of the War Department Polo Association's annual invitation tournament games yesterday when the downpour stopped the match, in the third chukker. Play will be resumed today, starting with the fourth period.

Artillery was given a two-goal handcap and showed an impressive brand of stickwork. The riders from the War Department appeared outclassed and will have to hustle today to overhaul the Marylanders in the remaining four stanzas.

Two games will be played today, the first starting at 3:30 o'clock, with the famous War Department Whites meeting the Middleburg, Va., four. The uncompleted contest will follow. Providing there are no rains today, officials predicted that the field would be in excellent shape.

Aside from the interest that the fast-riding Middleburg civilians usually attract, the fans will have an extra attraction. J. H. (Jock) Whitney is a member of the Virginia team and is expected to be in the No. 1 position today.

Tomorrow the second annual Argentine Cup tournament will start, with Fort Humphreys meeting the loser of today's game between Sixth Field Artillery and War Blues in the opening match. Third Cavalry will play the winner of the Middleburg-War White tilt on Friday.

As the teams near the finals the fans are looking for some of the best polo witnessed here in years. War Whites are of known strength and Sixth Field Artillery and Third Cavalry have demonstrated in their appearances that they are to be reckoned with. Middleburg has always furnished real competition and with the addition of Whitney should make a real bid for championship honors.

It is expected that the War Department tournament will be completed by the end of the week and the Argentine Cup by a week from tomorrow. The winner of the War title will be eligible to compete in the National Army tournament which is usually held in August. A team from this vicinity has never won the sectional title in this important series, but the game has grown here in recent years and several nationally known players are cavorting on Potomac Park in the present games. Officials here have high hopes of accomplishing something in the national matches.

of Cleveland; Henry Cuici, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Frank Walsh, of Chicago, tied for the fourth and last place on Walter Hagen's team with 302s.

They will play eighteen holes tomorrow for the extra spot on the team, which tackles the English team in the tournamental match over Scioto, Friday and Saturday.

Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., new Western open champion; Morti Dutra, Los Angeles, and Joe Turnesa, a member of the 1929 American Ryder Cup Team, and Willie Klein, New York, failed to qualify by a single stroke, each getting 303's.

Al Watrous and Charles Hilgendorf, Detroit, finished at the bottom, with 305 and 313, respectively.

Members of the British Team and the picked actors on Hagen's team practiced leisurely today. All of them were on hand. Hagen said pairings for the internatoinal matches would be announced tomorrow after the play-off for the extra place on his squad.

SCHMELING TARGET FOR SPARRING MATE

Schmeling's trainer, refused. Schmeling did not rest between rounds; that is, he did not sit down but stood nervously pacing in his corner, while his handlers smeared his face with grease so that rasping blows would not cut his skin.

Schmeling felt so good after his spirited workout with Brown that he motored out to the golf links to play eighteen holes before dinner.

The champion will work tomorrow but intends to rest Thursday to store energy for his final five days of boxing. He will lay up the gloves Tuesday.

CHEVY CHASE LEAD HELD BY HITZ

Davidson Is Passed in Second Day's Play for Title.

YOUNG Fred Hitz yesterday continued his lead in the annual Chevy Chase Club championship, adding a 78 to his card of 76 scored Monday, for a total of 154. He leads by four strokes, his nearest competitor being R. B. Davidson, whose card read 84—74—158. Davidson's 74 on Monday, 37 out and 37 in, was the best medal score of the day.

Other scores yesterday were: John Britton, 81—83—164; C. Ashmead Fuller, 85—79—164; Emmons B. Smith, jr., 82—83—165; Reeves Lewis, jr., 85—81—166; E. T. Ladd, 83—86—169; G. Brown Miller, 88—84—172; Gregory Prince, 90—89—179; A. A. Jones, jr., 89—no card.

Miss Virginia Williams easily won the Kenwood Club women's championship yesterday, propelling the balloon ball over the course for a 40—45—85, 10 strokes ahead of Miss Virginia Pope, whose card totaled 50—45—95. Mrs. E. A. Rule, with 102, was third.

Miss Williams' card:

Clyde B. Ascher led the field home in the annual Rotary Club Handicap play yesterday at Columbia, shooting a 35 on the first nine and all but ruining the day with a 46 on the trip home.

Second low gross was won by Dr. J. Allen Paldot, 45—41—86. Low net winners were L. J. Goode, 85—18—67; M. E. Horton, 87—16—71; S. Percy Thompson, 89—18—71; Dr. W. E. Clark, 93—20—73; Fred Pyle, 87—12—75; Talbert Vickey, 87—10—77; Harry H. Kidwell, 92—14—78, and Marvin Rittenhouse, 101—31—80.

Grant Leet won the high-score prize handily, with a 117.

A blind bogey tourney, played by members of the All Saints' Church, was run off at Kenwood yesterday. Eighty-eight was the lucky number and produced a tie between G. P. Warner, 113—25—88; D. C. Walseer, 106—18—88, and R. F. Despard, 101—11—90.

J. F. M. Bowie Winner In Gridiron Club Play.

In the annual Gridiron Club tournament, held yesterday at Columbia, J. F. M. Bowie gained possession of the trophy offered by Jay G. Hayden, president of the club, for the low net score in class A. Bowie's card read 86—15—71. Low gross class A award was given to George R. Holmes, 90.

Other winners were: (Class B.) first low gross, Charles Michelson, 46—50—96; first low net; Thomas W. Brahaney, 95—22—73; (Class C.) low gross, James L. Wright, 108; low net, Walker S. Buell, 103—24—79. Low net for the entire field was won by Warren Wheaton, with 86—18—68.

Tudor Morsell took the Picker's handicap, his card reading 78, while President Hayden had the field to himself in winning the high gross prize, with a 129.

A typical Gridiron Club dinner was held last night at the club. Verse, some good, some bad, abounded.

E. A. Merkle yesterday accomplished something he has been trying to do since he tied for low net with Ray Esher, Beaver Dam, in the Manor Club Invitation tournament. He defeated Esher by the margin of three strokes yesterday, at Manor. Not only did a tie result upon their first meeting, in the tournament, but on a specially arranged playoff the same state of affairs resulted.

Fredericksburg Elks Defeat Boosters, 10-8

Orange, Va., June 23—Byrd Smith pitched good baseball here today and batted out a triple, a double, and three singles in five times at bat, while his team, the Boosters from Orange County, made error after error behind him to lose to the Fredericksburg Elks, 10-8. This was the team's second defeat of the season.

The Boosters outbatted the Elks by four hits, but lost their advantage with errors. Smith struck out nine Fredericksburg batters.

MARINE POST NINE BEATS AVIATORS

Langley Field 12th Straight Victim of Quantico, 8-2.

Special to The Washington Post.

QUANTICO, Va., June 23.—The Quantico Marines continued their slugging and extended their winning streak to twelve in a row by defeating the Aviators from Langley Field, 8 to 2, here today.

MacWilliams kept the Fliers in check without any trouble, giving them but six hits. Nig Clarke, former American League star, who is now assistant coach, caught young MacWilliams' offerings and stayed in there the full nine innings. Nig looked just as good as he did 20 years ago when he was one of the American League's greatest catchers.

Jimmy Surrett and Eddie Lusignan were the big guns of the Marines' attack. Surrett gathered himself five for five and scored three runs, while Lusignan got a homer, triple and a single. Reep, Marine left fielder, also got three hits.

Earkardt started in the box for Langley Field, gave way to Carson in the third inning. Kerr, Langley Field right fielder, was the only one able to make more than one blow, getting two for two. The Marines will play host to Fortress Monroe here tomorrow and Fort Eustis Friday. Both of these teams were defeated by the Marines while they were in the South last week.

STOCK MARKET SAGS UNDER PROFIT RUSH

Net Price Losses Average Less Than 2 Points; Dull Trading Marks Day.

New York, June 23 (A.P.).—The urge to buy was less pronounced than the desire to take profits in today's stock market, and prices developed moderate heaviness. Sagging tendencies in the grains and cotton contrasted with the buoyant strength displayed in all quarters yesterday.

Wall Street accepted the decline in shares, averaging less than 2 points, as a reflection of prompt realizing. Since the market lacked the stimulating support provided by Monday's news, more consideration was given to domestic business conditions and to the existence of substantial profits which were to be had for the taking.

There were two rallies, one led by the coppers, and the other by the oils, but neither had much durability, and closing quotations represented net losses of 1 to 2 points in most instances. Trading was comparatively dull, for transfers aggregated only 2,600,000 shares against 4,600,000 on Monday.

Short Selling Develops.

In the last hour the market got word that steel ingot production had declined in the past week and, although this was not unexpected, it may have provided the basis for some short selling. Against this, however, was an advance of a quarter of a cent in domestic copper, accompanied by large buying for foreign account.

May railroad earnings so far reported showed a drop of less than 20 per cent from a year ago, which, if maintained in more complete reports, would be a favorable comparison in view of the decreases occurring in previous months of the year. The additional information asked by the Interstate Commerce Commission in connection with the freight rate petition may have figured in the 2-point losses prevalent in the carrier group, but the time consumed in supplying these statistics should not, railroad circles pointed out, unduly delay the proceedings, for it is expected to be available in about a fortnight.

The boost in copper lifted those stocks 1 to 3 points, although most of the gain was surrendered. Steels reacted, United States Steel losing 3 points but rallying a point from the lowest in last minute covering. The net decline in Bethlehem was likewise 2 points.

Leaders Show Losses.

American Can, American Telephone, General Motors, General Electric, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, Union Carbide and Radio were off ¾ to 1¾. Woolworth, International Telephone and J. I. Case were somewhat heavier. Westinghouse, whose directors meet for dividend action tomorrow morning, turned a loss of 1½ into a net gain of ¾.

Although there is normally some firmness in the money markets around July 1, this stiffening has not yet appeared. Funds were available today at 1 per cent. The stock exchange rate held at the familiar 1½.

The German mark continued to improve, although less emphatically. The quotation is now above the point at which shipments of gold from Berlin to New York would be profitable. Other foreign currencies were about steady.

Net losses in wheat ranged from ¾ to 1¾, reflecting increased receipts and improved Canadian weather as well as the lower prices for stocks. Corn declined about a cent net, while cotton, after losing more than a dollar a bale, finished only 3 to 5 points lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 23 (A.P.).—Tumbled down by Farm Board announcements of unaltered selling policy and by word that an allied organization was selling, wheat prices today collapsed 2¼ cents. The Farmers' National Grain Co., a Government-sponsored body, was reported to be selling June wheat at Minneapolis, notwithstanding Minneapolis arrivals of new wheat from Oklahoma. Harvesting of domestic winter wheat in the Southwest was reported making rapid progress, with yields above expectation.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¼@1⅞ cents down; corn, 1⅜@1¾ cents off; oats at ⅝ cent decline, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents setback.

Sharp breaks in wheat prices came as soon as trading started. Denials that United States Government-sponsored wheat holdings of upward of 200,000,000 bushels would be withdrawn from the market were at hand, as well as news of quick downturns in Liverpool wheat quotations. Bears laid stress also on fears expressed abroad that France would not agree to President Hoover's moratorium proposal. There were advices, too, that Russian spring wheat seeding had reached a total of 60,000,000 acres, compared with 50,400,000 a year ago.

Although selling orders came in a big wave during the early dealings, it was not until the final hour that the day's lowest price level for wheat was reached. Lack of buying power in the market became acute just before the close, owing partly to the fact that primary arrivals of new wheat totaled 382 cars, including some here and at Minneapolis. Another bearish influence was that North American wheat export business appeared to be at almost a complete halt.

Drought news from Canada and from parts of the American Northwest was ignored, and 7,194,000 bushels decrease of world stocks of wheat received likewise but scanty notice.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat and as a result of highly suspicious corn belt weather conditions.

Provisions reflected weakness of hog values and of grain.

BANKERS PLANNING PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

District Institutions Seek Effective Means of Showing Aids to Business.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

An effective advertising campaign for member banks is again sought by the advertising committee of the District of Columbia Bankers Association. It is the opinion of the committee that the present is an appropriate time for constructive publicity on the part of bankers to show the public what banks have been doing, can do and will do toward promoting the recovery of prosperity.

Members of the committee believe that a most effective and conomical campaign could be conducted cooperatively by member banks with the combined use of newspapers, the radio and free literature. Every angle of bank service could be featured in the campaign with special emphasis upon the interdependence of the bank and the customers it serves.

The plan outlined covers a series of twelve weekly radio programs, on Monday evenings, of a time-tested type of entertainment which has never been on the air and in which will appear distinguished financial, judicial, professional and business men to bring the message of the evening.

Handling of Program.

Each program would be announced in all daily newspapers on the day set, and the theme for the week discussed each day in one of them. Coupled with a booklet for free distribution upon request to the broadcasting station or member banks, committeemen believe an effectual service will be rendered to the District and profitable business brought into the banks with a better mutual understanding arising between banker and depositor.

The expense of such a campaign would reach a total of approximately $6,000, it is estimated, or a cost, if averaged, of less than $200 per bank, or approximately $60 a month, covering all expenses.

Last year, the bankers association approved a similar cooperative campaign, provided that not less than 75 per cent of its member banks consented to take part in it. This percentage was not secured. The committee assumes this ruling is still in force and will be governed accordingly.

September Seen as Date.

In any event, the earliest proposed date to inaugurate the series would be the middle of September, before which time, steps can be taken to ascertain wishes of member banks.

Committee members have revealed what is not generally known in Washington; that membership of ten local banks in the Financial Advertisers Association has accomplished, it is conservatively estimated, a saving of more than $25,000 a year to association member banks through methods advocated by the Financial Advertisers Association for the regulation of advertising solicitors and adoption of cooperative advertising. Dr. Eliot H. Thomson, publicity director, Washington Loan & Trust Co., is chairman of the local bankers association's advertising committee.

"An investment at this time in a selected list of New York City bank stocks offers an unusual opportunity for safety of principal, yield on the investment, marketability and chance for enhancement in price," reads a circular being distributed by Robert C. Jones & Co., Inc., investment bankers, Shoreham Building.

BOND GAINS RESIST LOWER LEVEL TREND

Losses Mark Some Issues, but Higher Prices Prevail in $12,595,000 Sales.

New York, June 23 (A.P.).—Cross-currents marked the bond market today. Many issues which benefited in the general advance on Monday receded moderately, but gains persisted elsewhere. Sales, totaled $12,595,000 on the stock exchange, compared with $12,368,000 yesterday.

Notable advances were scored by the obligations of Antooquia, San Paulo, Rio Grande do Sul, Uruguay, Colombia Mortgage Bank, Colombia, Chile, Brazil and Argentina. German loans closed with irregular changes. German government 5½s and 7s and the issues of the German Central Agricultural Bank closed lower, but many municipal, public utility and industrial issues made moderate gains.

Most Liberty and United States Treasury obligations were lower throughout the day. The Treasury 4s of 1944-54 closed 1 point lower, a sizable loss for this group, and the 4¼s of 1947-52 and the 3⅜s of 1946-56, respectively, lost ¾ and ½ point. As a whole, the Government issues were more active than usual.

Corporate obligations were irregular. Average prices for the rails and utilities declined moderately, but the industrial average gained. The unevenness of the price movement was apparent in the decline and gains in issues of diversified investment standing.

American Telephone debenture 5s of 1960 and 1965, Armour 5½s, American & Foreign Power 5s, Rock Island refunding 4s of 1934, Cincinnati Gas & Electric series A 4s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s of January, 1961, Nickel Plate series C 4½s, New York Central new 4½s, Missouri Pacific series I 5s, Interborough issues, Kansas City Power & Light series 3 4½s and International Telephone debenture 4½s and convertible 4½s closed with losses of ½ point or more after active trading.

Gains of similar size were recorded by Western Union 5s of 1960, Western Pacific first 5s, Shell Union Oil 5s of 1947 and of 1949, General Cable 5½s, Great Northern 7s and series D 4½s, Illinois Central 4¾ of 1966, Missouri Pacific general 4s, New York, Ontario & Western refunding 4s, Norfolk & Western consolidated 4s, Pan-American Petroleum 6s, Chile Copper 5s and Armour 4½s.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MRS. WILSON NAMED GARDEN CLUB HEAD

Work of Organization at Fairfax Outlined in Year's Reports.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Mrs. Harley Peyton Wilson, of Hollin Hall, was elected president by the Garden Club of Fairfax, meeting yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, Main street, Fairfax. Other officers elected include Mrs. Frederick Dawson Richardson, first vice president; Mrs. Walter Tansill Oliver, second vice president; Mrs. Kortright Church, recording secretary; Mrs. L. P. Tayloe, corresponding secretary, and Miss Adelaide Lewis, treasurer.

The club voted to amend its constitution so that when a member resigns her name will be placed on the club's honor roll.

Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, retiring president, summarized accomplishments of the club during 1930-31, showing that members entered exhibits in the Rockville and Leesburg flower shows and the National Capital iris flower show in Washington.

The club sponsored one of the largest flower shows ever held in that section of Virginia, with 76 persons exhibiting 427 entries. Fifty-seven prizes were awarded winners. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Wilson, the club kept Hollin Hall gardens open to the public during the annual Wakefield garden pilgrimage last spring. The club replaced fourteen box bushes on the Fairfax County Courthouse grounds and planted a weeping Japanese cherry tree on the Town Hall grounds as a memorial to George Washington. It contributed $190 toward replacing the Town Hall roof and was instrumental in having the street and sidewalks around the building improved and the ground graded.

The club sponsored a garden movement among Fairfax school children and awarded a silver cup and two cash prizes. Seventy-five gardens were started. It also sponsored flower exhibits at the annual Fairfax County Fair and donated prizes for the children's exhibits in that department.

In a drive against alleged violators of the State prohibition law Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams and Fairfax County authorities seized 1,000 bottles of alleged home brew beer and 10 gallons of alleged liquor and arrested seven persons, who were held for grand jury action at the September term of court.

At the store of J. W. Piper, New Alexandria, 20 gallons of mash and two slot machines were seized. Piper was arrested. Gus Quayle and William Hayden were arrested at the Quayle home at the Dyke, and 3 gallongs of alleged liquor and a quantity of home brew seized. A raid on the home of Harris Davies, at Riverside, yielded home brew, while another at the home of Mae Jones, on Telegraph road, yielded several gallons of alleged liquor. Both persons were arrested. George Blackburn, colored, Riverside, was arrested after a quantity of beer was seized at his home.

The raids were conducted by Inspector Williams, Capt. H. J. Durrer and A. W. Mills, of the Fairfax County Police, and Deputy Sheriffs Paul Herrman and Vernon Cockerill.

The Women's Missionary Union of the Fairfax Baptist Church will meet this afternoon in the church house on Main street in Fairfax. A report of delegates to the Potomac Association meeting in Marshall, Va., last week will be given.

Providence Council, Daughters of America, will meet this evening in Robey Hall in Fairfax. Members of the lodge went to Herndon Monday evening and staged an initiation for the Herndon Council.

The Mayflower Rebekah Lodge at Accotink will elect officers at its meeting tonight in the Odd Fellows Hall.

The Falls Church Circle of Kings Daughters will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. A. Rollinson in Falls Church. Mrs. T. Johnston will act as assistant hostess.

Robert E. Lee Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will meet this afternoon in Falls Church.

The annual carnival of the Volunteer Fire Department at Fairfax opened last night on the Mathey lot west of the Fairfax County Jail on the Little River turnpike, with a large crowd attending. Attractive stands, home-cooked foods and dancing from 9 to 12 were attractions. Proceeds will be used to meet the payment on a note for fire apparatus which becomes due this fall.

Grady Abernathey and Ada Rembauski, of the 1200 block of Duke street, Alexandria, were arrested by Capt. Haywood J. Durrer, of the Fairfax County police, on the Washington-Richmond highway near Woodlawn. They were given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Harry Shephard. Abernathey was ordered held for the action of the grand jury on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and the woman was fined $50 and costs on a charge of destroying evidence and being drunk.

Clyde W. Stoneberger, of E street near Sixth street southeast, Washington, was arrested by County Policeman L. L. Finks on Fort Hunt road on a charge of driving while drunk. He was given a hearing before Justice Shephard at Accotink and ordered held for the action of the grand jury.

$20,000 Blaze Razes 4 Brookneal Buildings

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., June 23—The plant of the Brookneal Milling Co., a filling station, grocery and dwelling nearby were destroyed by fire last night at Brookneal, the damage being estimated at $20,000.

Most of the loss is insured. J. H. Berry, owner of the mill, said he would rebuild.

Hagerstown Probes Abduction of Youth

Hagerstown, Md., June 23.—Authorities are investigating the abduction last night of Robert Fleigh, 16, son of Robert Fleigh, prominent business man, by four men.

The youth was taken six miles into the country, searched and then tossed from the automobile. His shoes were taken from him.

FIREWORKS STANDS PERMITS WITHHELD

Prince Georges Board Solves Problem by Postponing Action to July 7.

The Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday solved the problem of how to keep fireworks stands out of the county by postponing action on building permits until their next meeting, on July 7.

The commissioners believe that they have no right to deny a building permit if the structure is to be located in the proper zone. Three applications for permits had been received, all of them in commercial zones. All the applications had been approved by the park and planning commission.

Because next Tuesday is the fifth Tuesday of the month, no meeting of the board will be held, and the need for permits will have passed when the July meeting is held. County police have been instructed to arrest operators of any stands who have no permit.

Those whose applications had been filed yesterday were the Tuxedo Volunteer Fire Department, by E. Mortensen, for a $100 stand on Kenilworth avenue; W. E. Clark, for a $50 stand in Cottage City, and the Brentwood Volunteer Fire Department, for a stand to cost $50 on Eldridge avenue.

A number of other applications for small stands will also be affected by the postponement of action. They include T. W. Wright and Jessie F. Wright, for a $150 store in Cottage City; A. L. Mikules, of 204 D street northwest, Washington, a soda water stand to cost $75 on property owned by James LaFontaine in Mount Rainier; William Baeschlen, for a $100 refreshment stand on Barney street in Cottage City; Bruno Quattrone, of 3418 Rhode Island avenue northeast, for a soft drink stand to cost $150 on Colmar Manor.

The question of barring such stands from the county has been considered for several years, and it is reported that action was to have been taken during the recent session of the legislature. It is said to have been overlooked, however. Objection to the stands is based on their generally unsightly appearance and the practice of setting off fireworks along the roads near the stands.

The town of Colmar Manor has already dealt with the question by an ordinance requiring a $50 permit to sell fireworks and limiting the time of their sale from June 28 to July 6.

At their meeting yesterday the commissioners also received a delegation from Bowie, appearing to ask that a part of the Bowie-Laurel road be tarred. The commission ordered that the State roads commission be asked to perform the work. A part of the road has already been treated, but about six miles is still plain gravel.

Harry Sweeney was appointed constable in Piscataway district after being advertised for 30 days according to law.

A delegation from Bowie yesterday called at the school board office to protest against the proposal to change the Bowie High School to a junior high. The board has announced that it will send pupils in the third and fourth years to Laurel to school by bus.

The delegation's protest is the result of a mass meeting last week when residents of the town objected strenuously to the change. They claim that to hire two additional teachers at Bowie to take care of overcrowding would be cheaper than bus service, and that the new school bond issue will allow for an addition to the school. They also object to the bus service, claiming that the children would be tired from their ride before they reached the school at Laurel.

Harmon O. Acuff will be the first mayor of Seat Pleasant, as his certificate of candidacy was the only one filed when the supervisors of elections met to receive such announcements.

There are eight candidates for five posts on the council, however. They are James M. Arnold, Val Armstrong, William C. Dunn, Van Moreland, J. Curtis Crown, Edwin M. Fisher, Arthur S. Jones and Fabian Leo Augustine. Only one candidate for treasurer has appeared, Irwin I. Main.

The town was only incorporated early this month, when voters chose to accept a town charter by a small majority. The election supervisors are Hubert Hotchkiss, George E. Redding and Edward F. Roberson.

Registrations will be held in the firehouse on June 29 from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 at night. Mr. Hotchkiss and Paul Kraft will act as registration officials.

A five-year program for the improvement of Maryland agriculture and rural life has been prepared by the extension service of the University of Maryland to show what the service hopes to accomplish through eduction in that time.

The announcement of the program stresses the point that Maryland agriculture produces farm products worth $125,000,000 per year, with a capital investment of $400,000,000. A business of this size, the announcement says, requires careful planning and operation to be successful.

One of the most important objectives of the program is "a system of taxation that is equitable to owners of all classes of property." Other goals are the increase of the yield per acre of crops, development of cooperative associations and improvement of marketing methods.

The extension service gave these as the specific aims:

Prevent another drought by the development of a more reliable farm water supply.

Extend and improve rural community organizations.

Increase the production of tobacco from 800 to 1,000 pounds per acre.

Increase the present yield of corn by one bushel per acre, which would add 500,000 bushels per year to the crop.

Add at least 30 per cent to the value of the strawberry crop by improving cultivation and increasing the use of organic matter in the soil.

Substitute for 150,000 acres of wheat 100,000 acres of barley and 50,000 acres of legumes, such as cow peas.

Increase the average production per cow from 4,500 pounds to 5,000 pounds per year and eliminate 10 per cent of the low-producing animals.

Extend the practice of feeding cereals to live stock for sale, rather than selling the grain direct.

Organize the poultry industry along cooperative lines, to improve marketing methods and facilities.

Increase the consumption of Maryland cantaloupes, increase the yield of white and sweet potatoes, and maintain the present acreage put into truck crops.

Change varieties of fruit crops to meet market demands and adjust acreage to avoid overproduction.

Place half of the farm woodland under a system of forest management and reduce the burned-over acreage to one-half of 1 per cent of the total acreage in the State.

Expand beekeeping to a $100,000 industry, with an apiary in every commercial orchard.

Reduce damage from plant diseases and insects by better control methods.

Increase the enrollment in the Boys 4-H Club from 3,387 to 4,000 and boys' projects to 4,500.

Increase the enrollment in the Girls' 4-H Club by 10 per cent per year.

Martin J. Patsel, Jr., Weds Lynchburg Girl

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., June 23.—A beautiful home wedding took place this afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Hundley, of Lynchburg College, when their daughter, Miss Sue Walker Hundley, became the bride of Martin J. Patsel, jr., of Roanoke.

The officiating clergyman was Dr. Richard W. Wallace, pastor of First Christian Church.

CATHEDRAL SERVICE HONORS 3 FIREMEN

Stones Bearing Names of Killed Baltimoreans Are Dedicated.

Names of three members of the Baltimore Fire Department, who were killed while fighting fires in recent years, will be a part of Washington Cathedral as long as that edifice, rising on Mount St. Alban, endures.

Memorial stones, bearing their names, were set in one of the pillars of the cathedral's south transept at an impressive ceremony yesterday afternoon. Each stone, a block of white Indiana limestone, was tapped with a trowel by Chief Engineer August Enrich, of the Baltimore Fire Department, and dedicated in the name of the fireman commemorated.

The firemen were: Capt. Harry Jones, killed while fighting a fire in a grain elevator December 22, 1925; William H. Hundertmark, of Engine Company No. 44, killed when the roof of the Baltimore Country Club, Roland Park, collapsed in a fire January 2, 1931, and John King, of Truck Company No. 4, killed while returning from a fire May 9, 1931.

The exercises were witnessed by Dr. John J. McGinty, a member of the Baltimore Fire Board, more than 50 members and officers of the Baltimore Fire Department; a delegation from the Washington Fire Department; David J. Price, of the Department of Agriculture, and members of the families of the three honored firemen.

The service began with the reading of the 122d psalm and included special prayers and a brief address by the Rev. John W. Gummer, of the clergy staff of the cathedral. Other clergymen who participated included Canon Arthur B. Rudd, Canon Edward S. Dunlap, Canon Raymond L. Wolven and the Rev. Robert Lee Lewis.

Crabbe Forecasts Drinking Decrease

Wet Peak Was Reached Six Months Ago, Maryland Leader Claims.

Hagerstown, Md., June 23 (A.P.).—The "wet" peak in this Nation was reached six months ago, and from now on will decrease, in the opinion of George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Antisaloon League of Maryland.

Mr. Crabbe made his assertion in an address before the Church of the Brethren here.

Reading from a newspaper clipping of 1897, he declared that there was less drinking in colleges in this day than there was then, despite claims that it had increased. The story dealt with a celebration by alleged students following the Harvard-Yale football game of that year. The speaker said that while there still is some drinking in colleges, most of it was done by the "old fellows" who return for reunions and commencements.

RICKER ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY BOARD

American Legion Commander to Resign Office in Post of Arlington.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Commander George D. Ricker, of Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, announced yesterday that he will be a candidate for the board of five which replaces the present three members of the county board of supervisors in accordance with the new form of county government effective January 1, 1932. The election will be held the first Tuesday in November.

Conforming with the constitution of the Legion, which provides that no officer shall become a candidtae for a political office, Commander Ricker stated last night that he will submit his resignation at the meeting to be held tonight in the Boy Scout Hall at Ballston.

Mr. Ricker, who is a lifelong resident of Arlington County, has been active in civic affairs and since the World War has been most active in American Legion work.

When elected as commander he announced that he would make his objective "the most active post in northern Virginia." He has more than doubled the membership and was one of the prime movers in having the memorial which stands at the intersection of Clarendon avenue and Wilson boulevard erected.

In announcing as a candidate he stated that he would later announce his full platform.

E. C. Johnson, who has served the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department as its secretary for the past ten years, has been elected president. Other officers are: Oscar Doyle, vice president; E. B. Chapman, financial secretary; Arthur Kidwell, secretary; Wesley McDonald, assistant secretary; E. W. Rauth, jr., treasurer; Reese O'Neil, chief; Louis Luzi, deputy chief; French Marcey and William Luzi, battalion chiefs, and C. E. Vermillion, marshal.

Members of the board of directors are Wesley McDonald, E. W. Rauth, jr., and Jack A. Spates, to serve a term of three years.

The Lyon Village Citizens Association last night discussed the low flying of airplanes over and in the vicinity of the village, and instructed its secretary to bring the matter to the attention of the Department of Commerce.

In view of the fact that there will be no more meetings of the association before the fourth Monday in September, the city planning and zoning committee was authorized to continue its opposition to the rezoning of a number of lots along both the north and south sides of Courthouse road, from residential "A" to residential "B," as requested by the firm of Lyon & Fitch, owners of the property.

The association went on record as indorsing the laying of a 4-foot sidewalk on the north side of Wilson boulevard between Spruce street and the Postoffice Building in Clarendon.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter U. Varney, Virginia avenue, Lyon Village. William D. Medley, president, presided.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold is weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at Windsor Arms at 12 o'clock. All members are asked to attend as the committee on entertainment announces that a special program has been prepared.

The Mary Washington Chapter, No. 50, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet Friday night in the Masonic Temple at Clarendon at 8 o'clock.

Announcement is made that this will be the last meeting until the fourth Friday in September. All members are requested to attend.

The Arlington Rotary Club will meet tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

The gaining of a free right of way for the entire proposed Washington street approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge is put directly up to the county board of supervisors in a letter received yesterday by Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth from Judge Harry R. Thomas, attorney for L. R. Eakin, owner of property in Radnor Heights.

With the exception of the Eakin property, rights of way for the proposed approach have already been pledged, and in the letter to Gloth Judge Thomas states that this also will be given, providing the board of supervisors proceed with the laying of the sidewalk along Wilson boulevard in the vicinity of the Woodrow Wilson School in Fort Myer Heights.

The letter further states that Mr. Eakin is willing to give all of lot 32 and a part of lot 33, with the understanding that the board carry out its promise with respect to the sidewalk. This promise, it is claimed, was made last year when Mr. Eakin and his associates gave the land necessary for the widening of Wilson boulevard.

Funeral services for Leland W. Chandler, 24 years old, distance swimmer and Boy Scout leader, who was drowned in the Potomac River above the Chain Bridge last Saturday afternoon, will be conducted at the Clarendon Baptist Church this morning at 11 o'clock by the pastor, the Rev Perry L. Mitchell. Burial will be in Columbia Gardens Cemetery, Clarendon.

He is survived by his parents, one sister, Lois, and one brother, Irving Chandler.

Funeral services for Samuel T. Hatcher, 47 years old, who died at his home, 140 Marion avenue, Monday night, will be conducted at the home this afternoon at 1:30 by the Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church. Burial will be in Lincoln Cemetery, Loudoun County, Va., the birthplace of Mr. Hatcher.

He is survived by his widow, Eleanor Freeman Hatcher; one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Barnes, of Washington, and three sons, Jerome, Lee, and Howard Hatcher, all of Clarendon.

Funeral services for Ernest Davis, 62 years old, who died at his home, 76 Fairfield street, Cherrydale, on Monday, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 o'clock at the home by the Rev. John J. Trader. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery, Alexandria.

Besides his widow he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Hilda Garrison, and two sons, H. Roland Davis, and Ernest Galt Davis.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

AL CAPONE GETS THE BAD NEWS.

THE scene is the Chicago courtroom. Scarface Al, quite dazed by the determination of the court, has pleaded guilty and a date is set for his sentence.

Al (to one of his lawyers)—Did I hear that judge right? Did he say sumpin about a sentence?

Lawyer—It sounded like "sentence" to me, too, Al, but there must be some mistake.

Al—Sure there must be some mistake. Ask him what he said.

Lawyer—Yerroner, did I understand you to say the accused would be sentenced?

Court—You did.

Lawyer (to Al)—I guess he did, all right.

Al (who can't quite believe it yet)—Sumpin's all wrong, I tell you. This is the United States, ain't it?

Lawyer—Sure it's the United States.

Al—Well, you know as well as they do they don't give no racketeers sentences in the United States.

Lawyer—It's certainly a violation of precedent.

Al—Precedent, hell. It's unconstitutional.

* * * *

LAWYER (sadly).—I never thought I'd live to see a day like this. Imagine talking about jail for a man as big in the racket as you are!

Al—Do you think the judge knows who I am?

Lawyer—I'm afraid that's the trouble!

Al—Does he know that nobody's ever sent Al Capone to jail before? Huh?

Lawyer—I dunno.

Al—you better tell him. He's treating me just like I was an ordinary lawbreaker.

Lawyer—It's certainly strange conduct in an American court. I never remember anything like it.

Al—I ain't getting no more respect from that judge than if I was an honest citizen brought in for violating the no-spitting ordinance. What's the idea?

Lawyer—It looks to me as if the court was losing perspective.

* * * *

AL—It's all your fault. You had me plead guilty.

Lawyer—You was guilty, wasn't you, Al?

Al (impatiently)—Sure I was, but why should I admit it? I only pleaded guilty because you said it would save time and I could get back to business. Don't that judge know that's the way it's done.

Lawyer—I guess not, Al.

Al (angrily)—Lissen! I ain't gonna let no judge get away with that stuff. If they put me in jail what'll become of the beer racket? What'll the newpaper photographers do on dull days? How'll the press get along for news?

Lawyer—I dunno, Al. I'm all broken up about it. I dunno what's gonna become of lawyers if the courts start jailing clients with plenty of money.

Al—Anybody'd think this was Russia!

Lawyer—It's all pretty disheartening.

Al (the terrible thought suddenly striking him)—Lissen, I just had a terrible suspicion.

Lawyer—What is it?

Al (with a look of horror)—Do you think things have come to a pass where the Government has decided to go straight?

SURPRISE!

"Washington, June — Prohibition officials announced today that a sweeping campaign against the higher-ups in illicit liquor traffic will begin July 15."—News Item.

Now, if Mr. Woodcock will be good enough to tell the hour and give out a list of names, it will be just dandy.

EXPLAINING THE NEW MODEL IDEA.

MR. C. F. KETTERING, vice president of General Motors, gave one of the best definitions of the year the other day. Research, he said, is a method of keeping the customers reasonably dissatisfied with what they have.

They Evidently Don't Need Any Snowplows, Threshing Machines or Button Hooks.

"Pelping, June 20.—Outlaws who abducted the Rev. Bert Nelson are holding him for ransom, demanding 360,000 feet of telephone wire, a grand piano, a battery of printing presses and a quantity of airplane thermometers."—Associated Press dispatch.

It all looks simple except the grand piano.

Stock exchange seats are now down to the $200,000 mark and it is understood a new model is being brought out with rockers and footrest.

ALEXANDRIA WATER HEARING CONCLUDED

Demand for 40 Per Cent Rate Increase Taken Under Advisement.

Richmond, Va., June 23 (A.P.).—Petition of the Alexandria Water Co. for a 40 per cent increase in rates was taken under advisement by the State Corporation Commission this afternoon, at conclusion of a lengthy hearing.

Final testimony heard on behalf of the City of Alexandria, which is opposing the petition, was offered by Allen J. Saville, Richmond engineer, who asserted that he could replace the entire plant and equipment of the company for not more than $1,000,000. This was in contrast to claims made on behalf of the company that its property represented invested capital in excess of $2,000,000 and that the rate increase was necessary to give a fair return on this investment.

The hearing which was adjourned from a previous date occupied the commission for three days last week, as well as yesterday and today. Voluminous exhibits, including surveys and valuations made by engineers were filed on behalf of both the city and the company, and with the mass of testimony offered, the commission is expected to require some time to review the case before reaching its decision.

Rebuttal witnesses for the company occupied the witness stand most of the time today. Charles E. Trowbridge, sanitary engineer, completed his testimony, started yesterday. W. D. Freer, president of the Alexandria Water Co., was recalled for questioning with regard to certain services furnished to the Alexandria company by the American Waterworks & Electric Co., which owns it, and about charges made for these services. The last witness called was F. R. Berry, assistant chief engineer of water properties of the American Waterworks & Electric Co., who testified as to comparative cost of operating several types of pumping equipment.

ALEXANDRIA PAVING TO BE READY JULY 4

Whole of Washington Street Will Be Open to Traffic by Then.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The whole of Washington street will be opened to traffic by July 4, both 20-foot strips of concrete being completed by that time, according to City Manager Wallace Lawrence. The work on the strip on the east side is progressing rapidly north, and when this is completed the narrow strip on each side, between the two 20-foot strips and the curb, will be laid.

The Mount Vernon boulevard, when completed, will have three railroad tracks on it, one, the Southern Railway track, at Wilkes and Washington streets, which is used only for switching purposes; the tracks of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Electric Railway, at Washington and King streets, and the other the track of the old Washington & Dominion Railway, on Washington street, extended.

The opening of Washington street will be welcomed both by those who use this thoroughfare in going to Washington, and the merchants, whose business
